THE important announcement of the week in reference to the assessment lists is the statement that hereafter the tentative lists will be published annually in the City Record. This is a most excellent and desirable step, which will be worth to the property-owners of the city every cent that it will cost. The only people who can object to it are people who for some reason dislike the idea that their assessments should be submitted to the light of full publicity, and objections on this ground are an argument in favor of publication rather than against it. One cannot, however, acquiesce so cordially in another reform which, it is proposed, shall accompany this publication—the reform, viz., of itemizing separately in the total assessment the value of the ground and the value of the improvement. That such a separation of the two parts that go to make up the full value of a parcel would be an admirable thing in itself and a long step in the direction of a scientific system of assessment may be fully admitted, but the objection is that it enormously increases the actual work performed by the deputy assessors and the practical difficulties of doing that work in an entirely satisfactory manner. President Wells, of the Tax Department, has recently stated in a public interview that the methods of the deputy assessors are necessary rough and ready, and that it is impossible to secure the services of expert appraisers at the salaries now paid by the department. Under such circumstances the inadvisability of complicating the work they now perform is sufficiently obvious. The inference from these considerations is, however, not that the attempt to make a really scientific assessment should be abandoned, but that proper measures should be taken to improve the methods heretofore used in making the assessments. By an improvement of methods we do not necessarily mean any radical change in the personnel of the assessors; we only mean that the department should possess a large enough staff to review its own work, just as a private property-owner would have an appraisal of his property made for an important purpose, duplicated by at least two experts. A thoroughly informed appraiser, for instance, could rapidly review the assessment books of several sections of the city, and could in this way check errors in the work of the deputy assessors, so that when the books were opened to the public there would be a much smaller chance of the discovery of under or over-valuations than there is at present.

SOME such method of reviewing in detail and within the department the work of the assessors is all the more necessary, because for the first time in generations the attempt is now being made to get a really equitable and scientific assessment of real estate. Under the old system when the property was supposed to be assessed at two-thirds of its value, but was really assessed at almost any proportion the assessor pleased—under such a system gross inequalities were quite unavoidable. But the new rule of putting a conservative estimate of the full value of real estate upon the books is an enormous improvement upon the loose method that formerly prevailed; and just because it is such an improvement, every reasonable effort should be made to obtain the full advantage of the more scientific method, and to reduce the inequalities to the lowest possible amount. In preparing the books just opened for public inspection the department undoubtedly did its utmost to get a fair list of values on the lists; and the administration, all things considered, undoubtedly took the proper course in going ahead and getting the best assessment it could with the machinery at its command. But it is no reflection upon the present officials of the Tax Department to say that that machinery can be and should be improved during the course of the current year. The whole effect of the attempt of the department to get on the assessment books a conservative estimate of the full value of real estate is to increase the importance of the assessment list as compared with the tax-rate in the final determination of the tax bills. The responsibility of the department is consequently very considerably increased, and sufficient measures should be taken to assure property-owners that hereafter the assessments will be scrutinized and checked in a way that they have not been in the past. In the meanwhile, however, it is encouraging to notice that property-owners generally are beginning to recognize that the assessments have not been raised in an arbitrary spirit, or for any merely pedantic purpose, but simply as one necessary step to the carrying out of a beneficial and comprehensive scheme of municipal improvement. The more every aspect of the matter is discussed, and the better the conditions are understood, the more people recognize that the administration has steered both a wise and courageous course.

A NUMBER of bills have been introduced into the Legislature by various local borough interests, which propose more or less important modifications of the Tenement House Law. It is not necessary, however, at the present time to discuss these measures in detail. They represent the extreme demands of the local borough builders rather than the amendments which are likely to be finally authorized. In the course of a few weeks it will be possible to judge what proportion of these proposals will be seriously pressed and how far their purpose is either to nullify the law or merely to ease in minor ways the effect of its provisions upon local building activity. It is undoubtedly an extremely difficult matter to determine to what extent allowance should be made for the different conditions which prevail in Manhattan and Brooklyn or the Bronx. In the amendments passed last year the Tenement House Department admitted the principle of making certain concessions so as to meet the peculiar conditions of these boroughs, but it will undoubtedly oppose with all its influence the modifications proposed in the bills already introduced. So far as the Bronx is concerned, we imagine that the very large decrease of tenement house building which has taken place in that borough since the enactment of the Tenement House Law is due rather to the lack of rapid transit than to the effect of the law, for the dullness north of the Harlem infects the tenements built under the old law as well as other classes of property. Within a few years the builders both of the Bronx and Brooklyn will be building as rapidly, and we hope, as profitably as they desire.

THAT too much influence is allowed to petty political questions has been abundantly apparent lately. If examples were needed the effect of the Venezuelan, Moroccan and Dardanelles incidents upon the stock markets both at home and abroad would be cited. It generally turns out, too, that the popular conception of any event of this nature is either wrong or grossly exaggerative of its probable consequences. Nothing proves this better than the Dardanelles affair, which sent a shiver through the exchanges the globe round. The facts as given by our exchanges are very simple. Russia, finding herself inconvenienced by a clause in an old treaty prohibiting the use of the Dardanelles to warships of any power but the one that owns those waters, has been breaking that clause for a good many years. At one time she sent a troopship through and at another a torpedo boat, and so on. Great Britain has protested in a perfunctory way again and again, but none of the other parties to the treaty, who include other Great powers of Europe besides Great Britain and Russia, has thought it worth while to take any action. At last Great Britain, four months after the occurrence of one of Russia's habitual offenses, serves notice on Turkey that she will consider herself at liberty to do as Russia does should occasion arise, and then comes the shock of financial interests, who get the impression that a new cause of difference has arisen and that Great Britain is threatening Russia. At the same time, judging by press comments, the British people take the matter very calmly, saying that it is absurd to expect Russia to deny her Black Sea fleet access to the Mediterranean indefinitely and under conditions that have changed very much since the treaty was made, while at the same time they approve the position their government has taken to secure equal privileges with Russia in the Dardanelles, though they do not anticipate that they will ever be used. As a matter of fact the form of action taken by Great Britain and the refusal of other powers to take action in any form amount to an abrogation of the clause of the treaty that Russia has seen fit to disregard for some years.

The Franchise Tax and Other Taxes.

THE decision of the Appellate Division, pronouncing the Franchise Tax Law in its present form unconstitutional, seriously disarranges the scheme of tax reduction and equalization worked out by the administration. If the value of the franchises cannot be included in the total real estate valuation, the average tax bill, instead of being lowered, will be increased; and not even the saving effected by the possible revision of the Sinking Fund payments will do any more than bring the rate about to the 1.60 level. The consequence of such raising of the rate will be unpleasant. The taxpayers unfortunately judge by results, and do not stop to measure responsibility. If their taxes are higher they will charge the increase to the administration, no matter how guiltless it may be of any share in the business.

Fortunately, however, it is by no means settled as yet that the franchise valuations will have to be deducted from the total real estate assessment. In fact, if it were not for the proposed abandonment of the franchise tax by Governor Odell, there would be every assurance that the franchise valuations could not only be continued on the books, but could be increased. The decision of the Appellate Division, while it invalidates the method of collection contained in the law, apparently affirms the principle of the taxation of franchises as real estate. Should the Court of Appeals acquiesce in the decision of the Appellate Division, it would be easy enough for the Legislature explicitly to turn over to the local assessors the duty of valuing the franchises. The only obstacle to such a course would be the Governor, who, with his scheme to substitute a tax on gross earnings for a tax on franchises, would take advantage of an adverse decision from the Court of Appeals to push his alternate plan. But this alternate plan, whatever its other merits, has the great practical disadvantage of decreasing the total assessed valuation of real estate, of diminishing the borrowing power of the city, and of increasing the tax rate. In effect it robs the New York taxpayer of much of the benefit which he may receive from the carefully elaborated plans of the local city government.

For these and other reasons, the purpose of Governor Odell to substitute a tax on gross earnings for a tax on franchise valuations should meet with the most strenuous opposition. In case, by any possibility, the Court of Appeals should invalidate the principle of taxing franchises as real estate, it would be a useful alternative to fall back upon a tax on gross earnings; but if the franchise tax can be freed from constitutional objections, it is much to be preferred to Governor Odell's proposed measure. In the first place, it is more scientific and equitable, because franchises actually have a value which can only be assessed as real estate value, and because it is only in this way that the municipalities can obtain any income from the valuable privileges which have been given away in the past. In the second place, it is very much more profitable in its returns to the municipality than would be Governor Odell's plan for a tax on gross earnings. The Governor, in a recent speech in this city, tried to make out that the local tax assets and receipts would really be but little diminished by the substitution of the tax on gross earnings for the franchise tax; but a less candid and ingenuous discussion of figures bearing upon an important public measure has rarely been made by an important public official. We cannot discuss them in detail here; but, when it is stated that even on the Governor's showing, he had no better plan for compensating the local taxpayers for the loss of such a tax asset as the franchises than by depriving them of a large part of the benefit which they hoped to derive from the Sinking Fund revision, it will be appreciated that there is very little benefit for New York taxpayers in the proposed tax on gross earnings.

The truth is that the Governor is a tenacious man, and is ready to upset the most promising local arrangements in order completely to abolish the direct state tax. A tax on gross earnings would bring him appreciably nearer the consummation of his pet scheme; and so a tax on gross earnings he must have, whatever the consequences. But public opinion in this city should make a decisive objection to this sacrifice of local to state interests. It is very well to abolish the direct state tax on real estate; but when every means which the Governor proposes to accomplish the abolition increases the burdens of the real estate taxpayers in New York, it is time for them to fight such an attempt to collect $10 from them in order to save them $5. The franchise tax repeal, the tax on real estate transfers, and the tax on mortgages are all of them measures which will increase the burdens of the already overburdened real estate taxpayer—particularly in the Greater New York. It is time to call a halt.

DOUBT may very well exist as to whether labor interests are wise in pushing anti-injunction measures in the way that they are doing. They now have one before Congress and others before state legislatures. Of the latter, one was introduced at Albany this week. There is very little chance of any of them passing, and grave doubts whether any could be maintained on constitutional grounds if passed. That now before the Legislature of this state is not as radical in its provisions as the others, in that it does not seek to deprive the courts of the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes, but stipulates only that before injunctions shall issue notice shall be given to the parties against whom they are directed, the length of notice to be left with the courts. The value of an injunction in the first place is to prevent the commission of illegal acts at the moment when they are about to be or are being done, and it would be manifestly absurd to say that the Legislature can deprive either an employer or an employee of the privilege of seeking a remedy for illegal acts which would be irremedial if not prevented by immediate and mandatory action of the courts. In taking a contrary position, as they do in these anti-injunction measures, the labor interests are not holding themselves with that fairness towards the rights of others that their best friends like to see them do. Moreover, while they thus prejudice themselves in the eyes of the public, they are gaining nothing because of the improbability of their anti-injunction measures becoming law, or of their being sustained by the courts should they happen to go upon the statute books.

VERY flattering to our enterprise and the prospective growth of our cotton manufacturing industry, though not quite convincing, is an announcement that comes from France. This is in effect, that a group of protectionists, comprising two ex-Premiers and a former Minister of Commerce, have founded a Colonial cotton association to promote the cultivation of that textile in the Soudan and other French possessions. The given motive of this combination is a fear that the United States may at a future time retain the whole of their cotton production for their own consumption and create for themselves a monopoly of cotton manufactures and sales. The founders of the movement declare that our home consumption has increased in ten years from 2,422,000 bales to 3,908,000 bales, or 61%. While we ought to be proud of this tribute to our industry, we have to bear in mind that, taking the figures given as correct, our consumption of home-grown raw cotton amounts as yet to only something like thirty to thirty-five per cent. of our total production, and that, even if the cotton industry was not afflicted by a pretty severe labor problem, as it is, we are still a long way from the monopoly feared. However, it is not an unpleasant idea to cherish, that with enterprise and time we may one day realize for our Gallic friends the fears that they now profess for political ends.

BEGINNING with this issue the Record and Guide will publish a series of carefully prepared articles by Mr. R. M. Hurd, the President of the Lawyers' Mortgage Insurance Co., on the scientific basis of city real estate values. Mr. Hurd is peculiarly well qualified for this task, because he combines large practical experience with a thorough grasp of economic science, and it is expected that these articles will prove to be especially useful at the present time, when the Tax Department is trying to assess real estate upon a definite rule and according to a more scientific method.

THE bill introduced by Senator McCarren, providing for the appointment of a commission to arrange for the erection of new municipal buildings, looks toward a most desirable improvement in the method of housing the city departments. It is absurd for a great city like New York to scatter its offices among a lot of miscellaneous private buildings, when it could obtain much more convenient accommodations at no greater cost by erecting a handsome and impressive set of public buildings. The bill provides excellently both for securing the land for the new city hall, for the preparation of the plans, and for the construction of the building in accordance with them. Next to the proper location of the building, which has been practically settled in advance, the most important matter is to secure a fair competition for the plans of the new city hall, and to make it certain also that these plans, after they are once adopted, will not be changed in any essential respect. The character of the commission provided for by the bill insures this continuity of policy in designing and erecting the building. The bill also gives the commission power to destroy the erecting buildings in the City Hall Park, which is undoubtedly a necessary step in the proper improvement of City Hall Park. It will probably be amended, however, so as to deny it the power of removing the present City Hall, which must, of course, be preserved intact, and consequently need not be exposed even to the slightest danger of demolition.

Theory of Urban Land Values.

CHAPTER I—GENERAL PRINCIPLES.

THE basis of agricultural land values has been established since the time Ricardo, and throws light on the fundamentals of our problem. Value in urban land, as in agricultural land, is the resultant of economic or ground rent capitalized. As first laid down, the theory of agricultural ground rents emphasized fertility as a source of rent. Later, when it was noted that it was not the most fertile lands that were first occupied but rather those nearest new settlements, accessibility or promity to cities was recognized as an important factor in creating agricultural ground rent. In cities, economic rent is based on superiority of location only, the sole function of city land being to furnish area on which to erect buildings.

Urban economic rent is ascertained by deducting from the gross rent of land and building, first, all charges for services, such as heat, light, elevators, janitors, agents' commission for collecting rents, etc.; second, taxes, insurance, and repairs, and, finally, interest on the capital invested in the building. This interest on the cost of the building must exceed the average interest rate by an amount equal to the annual depreciation of the building, thus providing a sinking fund sufficient to replace the building at the end of its life. To make a correct showing the building must be suited to the location and managed with ordinary ability, or the apparent economic rent will have little or no bearing on the value of the land.

The rate of capitalization, turning income into value, is based on the average interest rates of all investments and fluctuates with them, although within closer limits and more slowly. Wide differences occur in the rates of capitalization of rents from land of different uses in the same city, and smaller differences from land having the same use in different cities. Where a locality is advancing in value, capitalization rates are low, where stationary they are normal, and where declining they run very high. After the vital factor of prospective increase or decrease of value, the lesser factors are stability of rents, ease of convertibility,—in part by mortgaging or in whole by selling,—and character of utilization, as involving the rates of depreciation of different classes of buildings. In general, the larger the city and the higher the class of property, the greater the stability of rents, and ease of convertibility and the lower the rate of capitalization. Differences in rent are plainly apparent, but differences in rates of capitalization are frequently overlooked, although a very large proportion of value in urban land comes from a low rate of capitalization. To illustrate, of two pieces of land yielding an economic rent of $10,000 annually, one well located and improved with office building or retail shop might sell, excluding the building, on a 4 per cent. basis, or for $250,000; while the other, covered with cheap tenements, might sell, excluding the buildings, on a 10 per cent. basis, or for $100,000. The rate of capitalization is ascertained by figuring backwards, i. e., dividing average prices paid for similar land by the net income, which shows the interest rate which the community is satisfied to receive on such investments.

While intrinsic value is correctly derived by capitalizing ground rent, exchange value may differ widely from it. As ordinarily expressed, "value" means exchange value, average sales being considered the best test of value, and since all ownership lies subsequent to the date of purchase, the estimated future prospects form the mastering factor of all exchange values. Although speculation in the sense of assuming large risk for the chance of large gain, is normally confined to limited sections of cities where marked changes of utility are taking place, speculation in the sense of an attempt to make money from an increase in the value of property apart from its earnings, is a factor in all real estate transfers. We may note that real estate speculation is always for the rise, speculation for the fall or "short" sales being impossible, owing to the non-representative quality of land.

Even where properties are fully improved for their present use, if a new utility arises or is anticipated, since this may involve a different basis of economic rent, capitalization rate and value, by such estimated difference, the exchange value may vary from the present intrinsic value. If the new utility does not arrive, prices may advance and recede, while values do not change, but if the new utility arrives, both prices and values will alter their level.

To be reckoned with under the head of future prospects are not only local changes of utility, but the rate of growth of the city as a whole, the prosperity or depression of the surrounding section and the success or failure of the industries directly supporting it. Moreover, general financial and economic conditions enter so largely into exchange values, that values are at times not based on income, or supply and demand, but represent simply a condition of the public mind.

The dependence of value in land on economic rent is clearly seen in the origin of any city, utility in land arising when the first buildings are erected, but not value in land, as is evidenced by the fact that the first settlers are commonly allowed to build their houses wherever they please and enclose whatever land they need, as occurred in New York and many other cities. As a city grows, more remote and hence inferior locations must be utilized and the difference in desirability between the two grades produces economic rent in locations of the first grade, but not in those of the second. As land of a still more remote and inferior grade comes into use, ground rent is forced still higher in land of the first grade, arises in land of the second grade, but not in the third grade, and so on. Any utility may compete for any location within a city and all land goes to the highest bidder, but owing to the limited suitability of certain areas for certain purposes, some land has but one utility. Whatever competition there is here, will be among those of the same class of utilization. Where, owing to increase or decrease of various utilizations, their area and location change, competition among different classes of utilization arises. Practically all land within a city earns some economic rent, though it may be small, the final contrast being with the city's rentless and hence, strictly speaking, valueless circumference. The prices at which land on the outskirts of a city is held may represent either the cost of platting and opening streets, or more frequently the discounting of future hopes, the chief factor lowering values being the extent of competing land due to the fact that area increases as the square of the distance from any given point.

An apparent exception to the law of no value in the site when a city starts, occurs where a city is speculatively undertaken and the lots sell at high prices in advance of utility. The difference between price and value is usually demonstrated before many years, the invariable reaction carrying the prices of lots as far below their value as they were formerly above it. Thus lots in Columbus, Ohio, which sold in 1812 at $200 to $300, sold in 1820 at $7 to $20, and more recently there are the collapses in the early history of the speculatively started towns of West Superior, Wis., Tacoma, Wash., Wichita., Kan., and Sioux City, Ia. The attempt to force economic rent into city land seems to be uniformly unsuccessful, history showing that cities grow and are not made, and that human beings cannot be uprooted and moved in large numbers and immediately adjust themselves to the different opportunities of a new environment.

Why are ground rents paid for some locations and not for others? In general terms the difference in desirability is based on the social service which they render, or conversely, the sacrifice which they save. The land which is most convenient is first utilized, and that which is less convenient is made of service in accordance with its diminishing facilities. Since convenience means economy in time and effort, the value in any piece of land will represent the cost saved or the pleasure obtained by its use, as compared with the use of land worth nothing, multiplied by the number and economic quality of the people for whom the saving is made. Thus the value of all urban land ranges from that which least serves the smallest number of people of the lowest economic quality, up to that which best serves the largest number of people of the highest economic quality.

Since value depends on economic rent, and rent on location, and location on convenience, and convenience on nearness, we may eliminate the intermediate steps and say that value depends on nearness. The next question is, nearness to what?—which brings us to the land requirements of different utilities, their distribution over the city's area and the consequent creation and distribution of values.

Our problem divides itself into two sides, one the study of the structure of cities, their origin, growth, movements, etc., the other, an analysis of the gross rents due to various utilities, their economic rents, rates of capitalization and resulting land values.

Beginning with the structure of cities, if cities grew at random the problem of the creation, distribution and shifting of land values would be insoluble. A cursory glance reveals similarities among cities, and further investigation demonstrates that their structural movements, complex and apparently irregular as they are, respond to definite principles. The basis of this similarity is that the same factors create all modern cities, commerce and manufactures, with political and social forces, being everywhere operative, the chief difference in influence coming from variations in their relative power.

Cities originate at their most convenient point of contact with the outer world and grow in the lines of least resistance or greatest attraction, or their resultants. The point of contact differs according to the methods of transportation, whether by water, by turnpike or by railroad. The forces of attraction and resistance include topography, the underlying material on which city builders work; external influences, projected into the city by trade routes; internal influences derived from located utilities, and finally the reactions and readjustments due to the continual harmonizing of conflicting elements. The influence of topography, all-powerful when cities start, is constantly modified by human labor, hills being cut down, waterfronts extended, and swamps, creeks and low-lands filled in, this, however, not taking place until the new building sites are worth more than the cost of filling and cutting. The measure of resistance to the city's growth is here changed from terms of land elevation or depression, and hence income cost, to terms of investment or capital cost. The most direct results of topography come from its control of transportation, the water fronts locating exchange points for water commerce, and the water grade normally determining the location of the railroads entering the city. As cities grow, external influences become constantly of less relative importance, while the original simple utilities develop into a multitude of differentiated and specialized utilities, tending constantly to segregate into definite districts.

Growth in cities consists of movement away from the point of origin in all directions, except as topographically hindered, this movement being due both to aggregation at the edges and pressure from the centre. Central growth takes place both from the heart of the city and from each subcentre of attraction, and axial growth pushes into the outlying territory by means of railroads, turnpikes and street railroads. All cities are built up from these two influences, which vary in quantity, intensity and quality, the resulting districts overlapping, interpenetrating, neutralizing and harmonizing as the pressure of the city's growth bring them in contact with each other. The fact of vital interest is that, despite confusion from the intermingling of utilities, the order of dependence of each definite district on the other is always the same. Residences are early driven to the circumference, while business remains at the centre, and as residences divide into various social grades, retail shops of corresponding grades follow them, and wholesale shops in turn follow the retailers, while institutions and various mixed utilities irregularly fill in the intermediate zone, and the banking and office section remains at the main business centre. Complicating this broad outward movement of zones, axes of traffic project shops through residence areas, create business subcentres, where they intersect, and change circular cities into star-shaped cities. Central growth, due to proximity, and axial growth, due to accessibility, are summed up in the static power of established sections and the dynamic power of their chief lines of intercommunication.

Turning to the various types of buildings occupied, we note that buildings are frequently spoken of when it is the utility carried on within them which is meant. That it is utilities and not mere buildings which are influential should be strongly emphasized, since the view is commonly held that buildings create value in land, so that where expensive buildings are erected the land will be expensive, and where cheap buildings are erected the land will be cheap. It is easy to disprove such a superficial view by noting misplaced buildings, such as a business building in a residence section, a residence in a business section, or an expensive residence or business building in the midst of cheap ones, which, even though occupied, probably do not yield enough to pay taxes. Also the buildings of an entire section may by no means evidence the value of the land, as note the handsome residences on the upper west side of New York on cheap land by contrast with the old brownstone residences on the costly land near Fifth Avenue; or witness any declining business section from which the tenants are removing, so that values are falling, although good buildings remain. Nevertheless, it is true that the quickest method of arriving at an approximate estimate of the value of land is by looking at the buildings by which it is covered, for in general, buildings are properly located. To say, however, that buildings create land values is to reverse the truth, buildings being the servants of the land and of value only as they fulfil its needs.

The continual readjustments in the life of a city reflecting the total social relations of its inhabitants, leads to the concept of a city as a living organism. That such a concept is popularly held is shown by the common phrases, the "heart" of the city, to represent the business centre, the "arteries" of traffic to represent the streets, the 'lungs" of the city to represent the parks, and to carry the simile further the railroad depots and wharves may be called the mouths through which the city is fed, the telephone and telegraph lines its nervous system, while man in his residence has been likened by Spencer to a protoplasm surrounding itself with a cell.

One fruitful source of error in studying land values is to regard the problem as involving only a point of time instead of a period of time. Any valuation based on present facts alone is incomplete, consideration of the past influences and future prospects being vitally necessary. The life of value in land, whether the unit taken is a city, a section of a city, or a single lot, bears a close analogy to all other life in being normally characterized by a small beginning, gradual growth and increased strength, up to a point of maximum power, after the attainment of which comes a longer or shorter decline to a final disappearance. Thus all value in city land undergoes a continuous evolution from a state of non-existence through a cycle of changes, to a final dissolution, or to a new birth, when the process is repeated on the same land. One more qualification should be made limiting the working of economic laws, viz., the individual factor, which may cretae or destroy cities, sections within cities, or individual properties within sections. A striking uniformity exists, however, in the obedience of individuals to economic laws, self-interest being a compelling factor, so that individual sections, especially on the negative or destructive side, may be classed as exceptions.

Underneath all economic laws, the final basis of human action is psycological, so that the last stage of analysis of the problems of the structure of cities, the distribution of utilities, the earnings of the buildings which house them, and the land values resulting therefrom, turn on individual and collective taste and preference, as shown in social habits and customs.

CHAPTER II.

2. FORCES CREATING CITIES.

Defence against enemies, the chief factor in primitive times creating cities, survived as an influence affecting the first settlements in this country, the early forts on the Atlantic Coast and in the West drawing population around them in the same way that the Roman camps on the borders of the Danube and Rhine, and the Cossack camps in southern Russia started cities. With the establishment of civilized government the necessity for defence has vanished and population is concentrated either by commerce or manufactures, or by the less important political and social factors.

Commerce, or the distribution of commodities, involves their storage and transfer, and requires warehouses, docks and freight depots, while the population engaged in this business requires residences, shops and public buildings. Where the products handled are of low value, and the handling is a simple transshipment, the result of even a large flow of commodities in locating population at a point of trans-shipment may be small. It is when the transfer of goods is accompanied by a breaking of bulk or by a change of ownership, there being then added the complex mechanism of commercial exchange performed by importers, exporters, wholesalers, retailers, insurers, brokers and bankers, that wealth is accumulated and localized, with consequent power to control business for local benefit.

Manufactures are of constantly increasing importance in city building, owing to the development of the factory system and the advantages of labor supply, transportation, and markets in the larger cities. Diversified manufactures are a creation of the last fifty years, the law of development being an evolution from a rough working of coarser forms of necessary articles in the newer sections of a country, through various grades of refining and specialization, to a great variety of necessaries and luxuries in the older and more populous sections. A city created solely by manufactures is a modern development, among such being Essen, Germany, Pullman, Ill., and South Bend, Ind.

Political forces operate to build up a city when it is the seat of national, state or county government, either legislative, executive or judicial, or all combined. The administration of government as a single factor has created but few cities, Alexandria furnishing an ancient example, St. Petersburg, Moscow and Washington later examples, and in this country a few state capitals being arbitrarily started, such as Columbus, O., Indianapolis, Ind., and Lincoln, Neb., nevertheless the ropad growth of Berlin, London and Vienna has been largely due to the centralizing of national government in those cities. In many American state capitals, city growth is injured by public attention being diverted from business to politics.

All other factors creating cities may be broadly classed as social, cities being centres of culture and furnishing education, art, fashion, intellectual stimulus and amusements to their tributary country. The social factor operates in direct ratio to the size of the city, social ambition and opportunities constituting a steady attracting force through the varlous grades of cities, migration being from the farm to the village, from the village to the town and from the town to the city. Thus the fact that New York counts among its inhabitants the great majority of American millionaires is of vital importance in maintaining its luxurious standard of hotels, shops, theatres, clubs and restaurants, which in turn attract the pleasure-seeking travel of this country. In so far as a city is a market or consuming centre, business is created and population attracted, cities in some cases being consuming points only, such as Atlantic City, St. Augustine, Newport, etc., where wealth is not created, but a city is required to minister to those distributing wealth.

All cities which have attained any considerable size include in varying proportions all the above factors of commerce, manufactures, political and social forces. In each city the sections built up by the different factors may be clearly distinguished, these flourishing or decaying according to the prosperity or decline of their special factors. Thus the railroads, docks and warehouses evidence the city's commerce; the factories its industrial energies; the retail shops the consuming power of the population; the residence sections the wealth, social grades and numbers of the citizens; and the buildings of public and semi-public utility the standard of civilization and civic pride of the city.

The underlying factors which start all the processes creating and distributing wealth, are the energy and enterprise of the people, these being in the last analysis the sole sources of wealth. Raw materials, waterways, favorable climate and other natural advantages are only indirectly decisive and always presuppose men to exploit them.

Real Estate Situation.

A Broadening Real Estate Market.

Whatever the effect of the new assessment upon real estate speculation, it certainly is not discouraging operations. The market during the past week has been exceptionally active. and gives promise not only of a continuation of this activity, but of becoming broader and more diversified. In the near future, for instance, two important auction sales, which will test the demand for property in different parts of the city, are scheduled, and it would not be at all surprising to find during the coming spring a decided increase of activity in this important branch of the market. Tenement property, also, continues to be in good demand, and plans for a large number of new tenement houses are being filed. The bulk of tenement house building continues to be done on the East Side, particularly the lower East Side, but we look during the next few years for an increase in the number of such buildings erected on the lower and middle West Side. A great many new factories and warehouses are being built in that part of the city, which both diminishes the habitable area and increases the local demand for labor. It will be many years before the conditions on the West Side will become anything like those on the East Side; but it may be confidently expected that before long Greenwich village will be stirred to renewed life. Our building columns contains one of the first announcements that have been made of a large lmprovement timed to be completed by the date the Subway trains are running. A firm of building material dealers, who have held for years a block frontage on Boulevard Lafayette, which measures in addition 250 feet on 161st street and 162d street, proposes to erect thercon two large six-story elevator apartment houses, which will contain altogether accommodations for nearly 500 families. We expect during the next few months to make many announcements of this kind, although whether this number will be greater or smaller, will depend to a large extent upon the syndicates controlling such huge batches of Washington Heights property. If those syndicates endeavor to maintaln a very high level of values, they will delay improvements until builders take confidence. It is very much to be hoped, however, that they will pursue the wiser policy of encouraging early building by offering easy terms in the beginning; and it will be a good thing for Washington Heights also to have the property sold off and improved in generous parcels like that above described.

The Demand for Expensive Dwellings.

The noticeable transactions of the past week have, however, been largely confined to dwelling house property. The most important exception to this statement is the purchase by a syndicate of the lot at 3 West 34th street running through to 35th street. A good deal, however, remains to be known about this purchase. The size of the plot is not one which makes it available for an expensive bachelor apartment-house, as has been stated. Moreover, the property has a much greater value for business than for residential purposes. It will be found, probably, in the end, that it has been secured as part of a scheme, the details of which are still undivulged. Expensive dwelling property has been in remarkable demand during the week. Mr. Perez Stewart has sold a house which he has erected on 52d street, while W. W. & T. M. Hall have disposed of No. 17 East 63d street. In addition to the above, John R. Drexel has purchased Nos. 1 and 3 East 62d street for the purpose of building a dwelling for his own occupancy. This is a very fair budget for one week, and following upon a good deal of similar news indicates as much strength as ever in this important branch of the real estate market. The demand will probably encourage builders, who are succeeding in disposing of the dwellings they nave erected to undertake other operations of the same kind. Part of the activity is the result, however, of the disposition of rich men who have already bought lots to shift around and secure others more to their liking. Mr. Drexel, for instance, had previously bought on 55th street, and this property will come back on the market. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., now that he has secured part of the Hotel Langham site, is offering for sale the plot he bought on 51st street, while we understand that the Belmont plot at Madison avenue and 51st street is also awaiting a purchaser. These changes do not mean that the streets in the fifties are becoming any less popular with rich men, but only that for special reasons these particular gentlemen have changed their plans. Several sales are announced of dwellings north of 59th street and east of Park avenue, all of them at pretty big prices. Brokers report an excellent demand for these houses; but the demand is discouraged by the way in which owners thereabouts continue to stiffen prices. It has rarely occurred in New York that the level of values in an old established residence district have undergone so radical and complete a transformation in so short a period as in the case of this district. It is no wonder that property-owners have come to believe that they can get any sum they ask for.

A Legal Check Unloosed.

A BROKER NEED NOT WAIT NOW FOR WRITTEN AUTHORITY BEFORE OFFERING REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

CHAPTER 128 OF THE LAWS OF 1901, MAKING IT A MISDEMEANOR FOR A BROKER TO OFFER REAL ESTATE FOR SALE WITHOUT THE WRITTEN AUTHORITY OF THE OWNER, DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Second Department has just handed down a decision that is of much interest to real estate brokers and all dealers in real estate.

Subsequent to January, 1902, Morris Grossman, a real estate broker, of Brooklyn, was employed by Jacob Caminez to get for him a purchaser for the premises 151 and 152 Siegel st., Brooklyn, at $13,500, but Grossman did not obtain the written authority of Caminez to offer the property for sale. Grossman found a purchaser, Alexander Reisenberger, able, willing and ready to purchase, but Caminez refused to sell at the price named. Grossman then brought suit to recover his commission, $135. Upon an agreed statement of facts, the case was submitted to Justice Walsh in the Municipal Court for the First District, Borough of Brooklyn, upon the 26th day of May, 1902, and the plaintiff's complaint was dismissed, the justice holding that the plaintiff could not recover, as he did not have the written authority of Caminez to offer the property for sale, and was guilty of a misdemeanor according to the provisions of Chapter 128 of the Laws of 1901.

Grossman appealed to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, which has rendered the decision above spoken of reversing the judgment of the Municipal Court and granting a new trial on the ground that the law is unconstitutional.

Justice Woodward, writing the opinion of the Court, says, in part: "It is not necessary to cite authorities for the proposition that the plaintiff has earned and is entitled to his commission under the circumstances ceded to exist, unless this right has been defeated by the provisions of Chapter 128 of the Laws of 1901, which undertook to amend Section 640 of the Penal Code, by adding a provision that, in cities of the first and second class, any person who shall offer for sale any real property without the written authority of the owner of such property, or of his attorney in fact, appointed in writing, or of a person who has made a written contract for the purchase of such property with the owner thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Continuing, Justice Woodward cites and reviews the following cases: People vs. Gillson, 109 N. Y., 389; Allgeyer vs. Louisiana, 165 U. S., 578; Butchers' Union Co. vs. Crescent City Co., 111 U. S., 746; Yick Wo vs. Hopkins, 118 U. S., 256, and further says: "These declarations of the courts, in dealing with these constitutional clauses for the protection of individual rights, are fully in harmony with that magnificent assertion of individual rights contained in the first section of the first article of our State Constitution, which declares: 'No member of this State shall be disfranchised or deprived of any of the rights or privileges given to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers." While it is true that in some instances, under the police power, this rule appears to have been deviated from, we are unable to find any case in which the courts have held that it was within the power of the Legislature to make an act, innocent and harmless in itself, a necessary or commonly-used instrumentality of carrying on the ordinary vocations of life, a crime in one portion of the State and not in another. Even the statute involved in the Gillson case (supra) did not attempt this, and that act was, as we have already pointed out, condemned as in violation of the constitutional guarantees. This is not a new statute of frauds, dealing alike with all persons; it is an attempt to deny to men engaged in a perfectly legitimate and lawful business—one of the ordinary occupations of life—in cities of the first and second class, the same power to make verbal contracts which is specially allowed under the statute of frauds. It is a denial, under a criminal penalty, of a right or privilege guaranteed to citizens generally, to make verbal contracts which are to be performed within a year, and is, as suggested by Mr. Justice Bradley, an abridgment of the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, as well as a violation of the guarantees of the State Constitution already alluded to in this discussion. The extent and limits of what is known as the police power have been a fruitful subject of discussion in the appellate courts of nearly every State in the Union. It is universally conceded to include everything essential to the public safety, health and morals, and to justify the destruction or abatement of a public nuisance. Under this power, too has been held that the State may order the destruction of a house falling to decay or otherwise endangering the lives of passers-by; the demolition of such as are in the path of a conflagration; the slaughter of diseased cattle; the destruction of decayed or unwholesome food; the prohibition of wooden buildings in cities; the regulation of railways and other means of public conveyance and of interments in burial grounds; the restriction of objectionable trades to certain localities; the confinement of the insane or those inflicted with contagious diseases; the restraint of vagrants, beggars and habitual drunkards; the suppression of obscene publications and houses of ill-fame; and the prohibition of gambling houses and places where intoxicating liquors are sold. Beyond this, however, the State may interfere wherever the public interests demand it, and in this particular a large discretion is necessarily vested in the Legislature to determine, not only what the public interests require, but what measures are necessary for the protection of such interests. (Barber vs. Connolly, 113 U. S., 27; Kidd vs. Pearson, 128 U. S., 1.) To justify the State, however, in interposing its authority in behalf of the public, it must appear, first, that the interests of the public generally, as disinguished from those of a particular class, require such interference; and, second, that the means are reasonably necessary for the accomplishment of the purpose, and not unduly oppressive upon individuals. The Legislature may not, under the guise of protecting the public interests, arbitrarily interfere with private business, nor impose unusual and unnecessary restrictions upon lawful occupations. (Lawton vs. Steele, 152 U. S., 133, 136, 137; Colon vs. Lisk, 153 N. Y., 188, 197, and authorities there cited.) Is there any interest of the public, considered as a whole, which demands this legislation, or is its object merely to enable people like the defendants in this action to avoid their just obligations, and to protect a few individuals from dishonest brokers? A real estate broker has no power to sell property; his mission is to bring to the owner a person able and willing to purchase the property on the owner's terms; and the fact that over-zealous brokers have imposed upon a few individuals, as compared with the many, is no reason why an entire class of business men should have their power to make contracts abridged by a penal statute. If there are dishonest brokers, it should be remembered that there are, likewise, dishonest owners of real estate, and the State has discharged its duty in the premises when it has afforded impartial tribunals for the adjustment of controversies and in the punishment of crimes, without arbitrarily interfering with legitimate business occupations and depriving citizens of the liberty of action which is necessary in the conduct of modern business affairs in a great city. This feature of the case now before us was fully treated by the Court of Appeals in Tyroler vs. Warden of Prison (157

N. Y., 116), and, in fact, the principle involved was completely disposed of in the discussion of that case, to which reference is made without fuller quotation, for the reasons which compel the rejection of the act in question as the law of this State. (See People vs. Havnor, 149 N. Y., 195, 199, 200, and authorities cited, People vs. Gillson, 109 N. Y., 389; Health Department vs. Rector, 145 N. Y., 32, 39 and authorities there cited.)

No necessity appears to us for this kind of an abridgment of the rights and privileges of real estate brokers for the protection of the public, and the means are unnecessarily oppressive upon individuals. In determining the reasonableness of this statute—and it is the question upon which the validity of the act depends—we are at liberty to consider the established usages, customs and traditions of the people, and to have in view the promotion of their comfort and the preservation of the public peace and good order. (Plessy vs. Ferguson, 163 U. S., 537, 550.) But in no aspect in which the case may be viewed are we able to discover any warrant for the statute, in which we have, to quote the language of the court in Colon vs. Lisk (supra) "another example of class legislation where the Legislature has attempted to improperly interfere with the private rights of the citizen."

The judgment appealed from should be reversed, and a new trial ordered, costs to abide the event.

OTHER DECISIONS.

CONTRACTOR UNWARRANTABLY PREVENTED FROM COMPLETING WORK—HE MAY RECOVER UPON A QUANTUM MERUIT.

A building contractor who, at a time when he has partially performed his contract and is not at fault thereunder, is unwarrantably excluded from the premises by the owner and prevented from completing his contract, may recover upon a quantum meruit for the work actually done by him. (Day vs, Eisele, 76 App. Div., 304.)

Dedication of Land for a Street.—Where the owner of a strip of land dedicates it to the public for street purposes and, before he revokes such dedication, the common council of the city in which such land is located takes formal action recognizing it as a public highway, such action operates as an acceptance of the dedication and constitutes the land a public highway. (Uhlefelder vs. The City of Mount Vernon, 76 App. Div., 349).

Landlord and Tenant.—A covenant by a landlord to repair the demised premises will not be implied from a clause requiring the tenant to do so being stricken out of the lease. The alteration of a lease, before its execution, by striking from a clause thereof, which originally provided that the tenant should "make any and all repairs internal and external to the demised premises," the words " and external' does not create an implied covenant on the landlord's part to make all external repairs, where no claim is made that there was an express understanding or covenant between the parties upon that subject. (Castagnette vs. Nicchia, 76 App. Div., 371.)

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT.

Notice by mortgagor to mortgagee to foreclose and collect debt after the same had matured.—Where a mortgagor has conveyed the premises to a grantee, who does not assume but takes the premises subject to the mortgage, the mortgagor is protected as a surety to the extent of the value of the land, and to that extent he is entitled to the same measure of protection that obtains in the case of a suretyship, where the grantee has assumed the payment of the mortgage. As to the value of the land, the mortgagee may not do any act, or suffer it to be done, to the prejudice of the mortgagor.

Where the land is only equal to the payment of the mortgage debt, or is in value insufficient for such purpose, and the mortgagee has been requested by the mortgagor to foreclose the mortgage and collect the debt, after the same has matured, if the mortgagee disregards such notice and permits incumbrances to be created thereon, which are superior as liens to the lien of the mortgage, to that extent he permits an act to be done which reduces the value of the land for the discharge of the mortgage. If the mortgagee omits to take legal proceedings to secure the full value of the land, he is guilty of an omission distinctly prejudical to the rights of the mortgagor. (Gottschalk vs. Jungmann, Supreme Court, App. Div., N. Y. "Law Journal," Jan. 22, 1903).

Lumber Production by States.

Michigan has ceased to be the first State in the Union in the production of lumber, and the honor is now in the possession of Wisconsin, not because that State has increased her output, for she has not, but for the reason that the State of Michigan no longer cuts so much as formerly. According to the latest Census Bulletin on lumber, the production in Wisconsin in 1900 was valued at $57,634,816, against $60,996,444 in 1890; in Michigan the value of the product in 1900 was only $54,000,000, against $83,000,000 in 1890. Another interesting fact shown is that in some Southern States the production of lumber was increased heavily. Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida and South Carolina have doubled their quantity respectively. In Kentucky the product was valued at $14,000,000 in 1900, against $8,000,000 in 1890; in Louisiana $17,000,000 in 1900, against $6,000,000 in 1890; in Mississippi $15,000,000 in 1900, against $5,000,000 in 1890; in North Carolina $14,000,000 in 1900, against $5,000,000 in 1890; in Texas $16,000,000 in 1900, against $11,000,000 in 1890; in West Virginia $10,000,000 in 1900, against $5,000,000 in 1890, and in Missouri $11,000,000 in 1900, against $8,000,000 in 1890.

Discussion of Some Particular Assessments.

Last week we published some figures comparing the assessments recently completed with the actual figures, as far as they could be determined by sales and prices expressed in deeds on file in the Register's office. This table showed some inequalities in assessments and the Tax Department is of the opinion that these inequalities, or ,at any rate, some of them, are due to our computation of values.

We print below all of the Department's objections. On one line we print the figures given in the Record and Guide of last week, and these figures are then followed by the Department's objections and our comments thereon. It will be seen that in some cases we are able to agree with the Department, whereas in others we must still maintain an amicable difference of opinion.

| | | 1902. | | | 1903. | |
| Location. | Dimensions. | Actual. | Assessed. | Per cent. | Assessed. | Per cent. |
| 34th st, 215-219 E. | 56.3x98.9 | $41,500 | $30,000 | 74 | $54,000 | 130 |

The Tax Department states that this property in 1902 sold for $65,000, and the assessment is thus only 83 per cent., not 130 as we figured it. As a matter of fact the parcel sold on Feb. 20, 1902, for $41,500, as stated in the executor's deed, and was transferred the same day for $64,000 and was transferred again March 5 for $65,000. The Tax Department will agree with us that an executor's deed probably goes nearer to the true value than the considerations given in the other deeds.

| | | | | | | |
| 39th st, No 212 E.. | 16.8x98.9 | 10,800 | 8,000 | 73 | 12,000 | 111 |

The Tax Department states that an extension costing $2,000 has since been added to this house, which would make the assessed value only 92 per cent. of the full value. This certainly qualifies our figures.

| | | | | | | |
| 39th st, No 33 E.. } 40th st, No 34 E.. } | 25x197.6 | 137,000 | 63,000 | 46 | 182,000 | 132 |

Two new 5-sty houses are in progress on these lots and in consequence the Tax Department estimates the assessed value higher than we did. This contention is correct.

| | | | | | | |
| 35th st, 68-70 W.. | 35.6x98.9 | 140,000 | 50,000 | 35 | 80,000 | 57 |

The Tax Department states that No. 70 was transferred in 1901 for $50,000, and claims that this is about a fair price. The Department also points out the fact that Mr. Searles, who owns Nos. 68 and 70, also owns the Broadway Tabernacle plot, which abuts on this parcel, and claims that in figuring the percentage of assessed value the 35th st and the Tabernacle property should be taken together. This would make a total valuation of $1,440,000, and as the property has just been assessed at $1,330 000, the rate is about 92 per cent. for the whole. In view of the fact that both parcels were separately assessed, we claim that the fact that Mr. Searles owns both makes no difference, and that the Department must stand by its own figures, which make the percentage of assessed value for Nos. 68 and 70 West 35th st only 57 per cent.

| | | | | | | |
| 6th av, 646 & 648 | 39.6x75 | 50,000 | 37,000 | 75 | 68,000 | 136 |

The Tax Department states that this property sold for $55,000, which is correct, not $50,000 as stated by us. It was resold for $80,000 (the latter figure is figured from the revenue stamps) which the Department considers is the full price, consequently the assessment is 85 per cent. of the full value. Which we agree is correct.

| | | | | | | |
| 5th av, No 363.... | 17.6x125 | 163,000 | 70,000 | 43 | 140,000 | 86 |

The Tax Department states that this price is correct, but contends that Mr. Altman paid an unusually high price, because he owned the other half of the block and wanted this lot. Also the Department says that Mr. Altman bought No. 365 in 1901 for $140,000. Nos. 363 and 365 are assessed this year for $140,000 and $135,000, respectively, making the average assessed value 90 per cent. of the "full value," as that has been fixed by the Department. We claim, however, and think the Department will agree with us, that prices paid in 1901 for property in this section are very much below their present value, and while we admit that $163,000 was a high price, there were other bidders at the auction sale of No. 363 who bid within a very few dollars of the figure at which it sold. In view of this we believe our figures are correct.

| | | | | | | |
| 38th st, No. 38 E. | 25x98.9 | 90,000 | 40,000 | 44 | 95,000 | 106 |

The Tax Department states that this house has been thoroughly overhauled and is to-day worth $105,000, consequently is assessed at 90½ per cent. In view of these facts we admit the correctness of the Department's contention.

A Fine Residence

NOW BEING COMPLETED BY CHAS. BRENDON & CO., ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS.

We illustrate herewith an excellent example of the newer type of fine house now being erected in this city. The old style, three and four-story, high-stoop dwelling is now fast becoming a back number, its place being taken by apartments on the one hand, and on the other by five, six and even seven-story dwelling houses, which are remarkable for their size and completeness.

The house at No. 39 E. 77th st, built by Chas. Brendon & Co., is in many respects similar to the one recently completed by the same firm at No. 32 E. 51st st, which was sold to Mr. H. Durant Cheever. The location is in one of the best residential sections of the city. The lot has a frontage of 21 feet 6 inches and is 102 feet deep. The house is 66 feet deep with extension and large yard in the rear. All materials and workmanship are of the best, the house during construction having been under the personal supervision of the architects.

The front is of granite, Indiana limestone, handsomely carved, and a light shade of red brick. There are elegant wrought-iron entrance doors and railings. The interior is most carefully planned, convenience being the first consideration. Every bit of space is utilized, and the rooms are large, well-lighted and most attractive. The trim is hardwood and ivory enamel with timbered ceilings, high wainscoting, etc., all of the finest cabinet finish. There are hardwood floors in the Reception Hall of the ground floor, throughout the first floor, and in the Library.

AMERICAN BASEMENT RESIDENCE, NO. 39 EAST 77TH STREET.
Planned, built and for sale by Charles Brendon & Co., Architects and Builders, 109 West 42d Street, New York City.

The plumbing is of the very best character and has been thoroughly tested; the fixtures in the kitchen, laundry, butlers' pantry and second story bath room are solid porcelain. The servants' entrance, stairway, hall and sleeping quarters are admirably arranged with reference to the privacy of the family and its guests. The flues are amply large for wood or coal fires, and each fireplace has been provided with outlet for gas log. Conduits for electric lighting have been provided throughout. In the cellar is a large laundry fitted with an improved clothes-dryer. In short, the building is complete and elegant in every detail.

The house is offered for sale, is open each day for inspection and can be seen without permit. For further particulars apply to Chas. Brendon & Co., architects and builders, 109 W. 42d st, City.

Among other buildings planned and now under construction by this firm, may be mentioned the following:

No. 38 E. 51st st, six-story American basement dwelling, being built for Dr. John L. Adams.

53d st, near Madison av, two 40-foot fireproof American basement dwellings, for Mr. Charles Buek.

The City's Bargain with the New York Central.

According to the views of some citizens, the City has scarcely exacted a full measure of recompense from the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co., for the rights granted in Park av and elsewhere, for the improvement of the Grand Central Station and the Park av tunnel. The letter of President Newman to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment was not a decisive and final acceptance of the terms, as it left certain details for future determination. For example, in regard to the elimination of the grade crossings of the Port Morris branch of the Harlem road in the Borough of Bronx, the company was willing to proceed with the work and to bear its just proportion of the expense, but just what plant would be found to serve all interests best could, in the opinion of the railroad company's president, only be determined after that plan had been completed and accepted.

Again, the company would agree to pay $25,000 per annum for the sub-surface of streets only on condition that the exterior lines of the particular plan under consideration be revised. Then, as to the requirement that the city, instead of bearing the whole expense of constructing the bridges, shall pay but $600,000 of it, leaving the rest for the company to settle, the company acceded to this, as President Newman said, but only upon condition that all other matters of detail in the recommendations on the part of the city should remain open.

In a word, it was by no means certain what the city would receive as the ultimate result. The only two points definitely settled by President Newman's letter were: (1) As to plans and terms for the elimination of grade crossings at Morris Heights, Fordham Heights and High Bridge, and (2) in regard to the elimination of grade crossings in the vicinity of Kingsbridge road, East 230th st, Broadway, Corlears st, Tibbetts av, West 230th st, and West 227th st.

Since the receipt of the railroad company's grudging acceptance there has been some further negotiations, and there has been this week an official announcement of a final agreement, but with particulars unrevealed. In due time, doubtless, it will be known what the city is to get.

Ex-Comptroller Ashbel P. Fitch, when asked by the Record and Guide what kind of a bargain he considered the city to have made, and if the city was being sufficiently paid for its concessions, replied:

"It seems to me too early to answer your question as to whether or not the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad has agreed to pay adequately for the privileges which it asks from the city authorities.

"The letter of Mr. Newman, the president of the railroad company, is by no means an absolute acceptance of the very reasonable and even favorable terms imposed by the city authorities.

"The proposition that the company shall pay the city the sum of $25,000 per annum in perpetuity is only acceded to if certain other conditions are arranged hereafter.

"The proposal that the city, instead of bearing the entire expense of constructing the bridges, shall pay only $600,000 of such expense, the railroad company to bear the balance of the expense, and to contribute the necessary interest in the land, is only accepted upon condition that all the other matters of detail contained in the city's recommendations shall remain open for consideration in order that other 'mutually satisfactory conditions' shall be agreed upon.

"This means, I suppose, that unless the railroad company are satisfied on all of their contentions the concession is not to be made.

"This grudging, reluctant and conditional acceptance is so vague in its terms that it seems to me impossible to say at the present time just what the city is going to get.

"The real success which has been won is the defeat of the monstrous attempt of the railroad company to build, largely at the expense of the city, an almost impassable barrier of communication through the heart of the town.

"It is important that the city treasury shall get fair value for whatever privileges are given, but the money advantage is much less in importance than the advantages which will accrue to the citizens in having as free access east and west across the Fourth avenue, as they have across any other of the avenues of the city. For insisting on this the city authorities are entitled to credit."

South Brooklyn's Hopes and Efforts.

Chairman David Porter of the Bay Ridge and Fort Hamilton Citizens' Association says that in no previous year in the history of that district was there so many, or anything like so many, improvements as in the year 1902.

"No one who has been keeping a lookout but can see signs of prosperity on every hand," he added. "Vacant lots are being sold to builders and the building of houses being arranged for. Houses are changing hands all around, and the feeling seems to be in the air that this district is on the verge of a boom.

"During the year our committee on railroads and tunnels has accomplished something that in my opinion will do more to build up this neighborhood than anything that has been done heretofore. They induced the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to make arrangements for the elevated to come to the surface by inclined planes both at Third Ave. and Sixty-seventh st. and Fifth ave. and Thirty-eighth st., which when completed will give a service to this neighborhood which will be second to none in the city. I understand from one of the railroad officials that the company has ordered one hundred new cars specially for this service, to be finished in May, when the new service will be inaugurated. This committee has also revived the agitation for a tunnel under the Narrows, and has secured the co-operation of other societies and boards of trade who are interested in the locality. They have also got the interest of Borough President Swanstrom, who has written a strong letter to the Rapid Transit Commission recommending that they lay out the following route: Beginning at the terminus of the tunnel that is at present laid out at Flatbush and Atlantic avenues; running thence in a southerly direction along Fourth ave. to Fort Hamilton; thence under the Narrows to the Borough of Richmond, with a spur from Flatbush and Atlantic aves. to connect with the new bridge. This matter is being actively pushed, and, if I do not mistake, we will hear of good results before this time next year.

"This time last year our friends around Fort Hamilton were distressed about the sewer system; lateral sewere were being built, but no trunk sewer. Our sewer committee took up the matter actively, with the result that a contract is now let and work will soon be commenced on a large trunk sewer in Ninety-second st. from Eleventh ave. to the Bay, which will cost over $500,000. The paving of Third ave. was commenced last year and is practically completed from Fort Hamilton to Seventy-eighth st., and the balance will be completed in the early spring, and from what we see of it up to the present time, we have reason to feel repaid for all the effort it cost to have this work inaugurated. Numerous other streets are being opened and paved and with improvements now under way, some of which in their advanced condition would warrant work being commenced in the early spring. I will be greatly mistaken if during the coming year there will not be a change in this neighborhood that has never been experienced before."

Details of the plans of the electric railroad in South Brooklyn were made public this week. The line is to be only one and a quarter miles long, but it will be of inestimable convenience to the manufactories in that district. The route is from 2d av and 41st st to 1st av, and along that avenue to 65th st. The name selected is the Bush Terminal Railroad, and besides connecting with the Long Island Railroad at 61st st, it will connect by means of floats with the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and other companies entering New York. The majority stockholder is Irving T. Bush, who is also president of the Bush Co., whose factories will be accommodated by the proposed terminal road. The capital stock is $15,000.

Building Operations in 1902.

Statistics of building for last year from eighteen large cities show an aggregate increase in the number of permits for new buildings and improvements taken out, over the previous year, but this increase is not so large as at former times. The amount of building, including both new constructions and improvements, was exceedingly large in the aggregate at all great centers during 1902, but in small towns generally there was, from all accounts, a falling off in the number of new buildings, though the amount of alterations was very large. The figures collected are as follows:

| | 1902. | | 1901. | | Per cent. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | No. | Cost. | No. | Cost. | Gain. | Loss. |
| Chicago | 6,074 | $48,070,000 | 6,035 | $34,911,000 | 35 | .. |
| Philadelphia | 11,359 | 27,703,000 | 12,840 | 29,519,000 | .. | 3 |
| San Francisco | 1,427 | 14,289 000 | 802 | 7,437,000 | 92 | .. |
| St. Louis | 4,502 | 12,853,000 | 3,722 | 13 207.000 | .. | 3 |
| Washington | 3,597 | 10,343,000 | 3,103 | 7,627.000 | 36 | .. |
| Los Angeles | 4,803 | 9,613,000 | 2,804 | 4,400,000 | 118 | .. |
| Minneapolis | 6,265 | 6,766,000 | 7,475 | 7,087,000 | .. | 5 |
| Kansas City | 2,943 | 6,617,000 | 3,103 | 6,222,000 | 6 | .. |
| Cleveland | 3,174 | 6,558,000 | 3,036 | 6,245 000 | 5 | .. |
| Detroit | 3,138 | 6,046,000 | 2,763 | 5,971,000 | 1 | .. |
| Milwaukee | 1,962 | 5,645,000 | 1,444 | 5,024 000 | 12 | .. |
| Buffalo | 2,109 | 5,422,000 | 1,058 | 4 338.000 | 25 | .. |
| Cincinnati | 2,807 | 4,668,000 | 3,146 | 3,505.000 | 33 | .. |
| Denver | 1,685 | 4,601.000 | 1,509 | 3.926,000 | 17 | .. |
| St. Paul | 1,269 | 3,337,000 | 1.374 | 4,261,000 | .. | 22 |
| Indianapolis | 2,764 | 2,989 000 | 2,522 | 3,744,000 | .. | 20 |
| Allegheny | 642 | 2,206 000 | 666 | 1,510.000 | 46 | .. |
| Atlanta | 2,816 | 1.835,000 | 2,696 | 2,824,000 | .. | 31 |

It is interesting to note in relation to this table that during the past year about $130,000,000 was spent in new buildings in

New York, Brooklyn and the Bronx, which is more than was spent in the six leading cities on the above list. This indicates what a market New York is for building materials compared to the other large cities of the country.

Tenement House Legislation.

The nature of the feelings entertained toward the Tenement House Law in some quarters of the city are clearly manifest in a number of radical measures that have been introduced in the State Legislature. That the efforts, forceful and unflagging, as it is believed they will be, and not without a measure of popular support, will at last avail to modify considerably the law's requirements, in the interests of building and allied trades, disregarding to that extent, as will be said, necessities equally as vital, is too probable to be disputed. Influences that weigh more with the members of law-making bodies than the appeals of humanitarians have very certainly been brought to bear, and it is believed that even some of the amendments that are now being pressed have the support of those possessed of the power to enact them into law. As the legislative session has but begun, the aspect and weight of the ultimate attack cannot now be calculated; it can only be hoped that what will be forced through shall not seriously wrong aims and sympathies which, though more benevolent and theoretical than commercial and practical, yet do honor to the age. It must be admitted, when only the business view is taken, that an elimination of some of the restrictions now enforced would tend to stimulate certain building interests which, because of a barrier set up by the existing law, have not had the vogue to which they were formerly accustomed. The theory of the greatest good to the greatest number may possibly apply; at any rate the mere introduction of amendatory legislation is an assurance of livelier building operations fully appreciated by the lines affected.

The bill of Senator Wagner exempts from the provisions of the Tenement House Law all 3-sty flat houses arranged for the occupancy of three families that were erected or completed before the passage of this act, or hereafter to be erected.

Senator Marshall's bill, amending the Tenement House Law for the benefit of Brooklyn, was referred to in a general way last week. Some of the particular provisions are radical in the extreme. The bill first amends the definition of the term "tenement house" by adding the words "or, by more than three families above the first story thereof." It provides for stairways of fireproof material in houses hereafter erected exceeding "four" (instead of three) stories in height. Third, that "in every non-fireproof tenement house hereafter erected exceeding four stories and cellar in height iron laths shall be used instead of wooden laths in the entrance halls and stair halls thereof." Other new provisions are:

In every tenement house the roof directly over the stair well shall be ventilated either by a ventilating skylight, the glass surface of which shall be at least twelve square feet in area, or by a window in the bulkhead, or by louvres in the door of the bulkhead, or by a skylight which is attached to the roof with hinges and so constructed that it can be set to remain open. Where the main hall runs through the building to the yard and the vent shaft is so constructed that it extends below the second tier of beams, a galvanized duct of not less than one hundred and forty-four square inches may be used to connect the water closet on the ground floor with such vent shaft for purposes of ventilation.

The bill strikes out the requirement that cellar walls and ceilings shall be whitewashed or painted at least once a year, and also the one requiring the owner to clean and keep clean all the rooms, halls, stairs, floors, windows, closets, walls, cellars and roofs to the satisfaction of the Department of Health. It eliminates all the matter of the old bill in Section 100, relating to vaults, sinks and water-closets, and provides instead:

All school sinks in existing tenement houses shall be kept clean and properly discharged and flushed at least once in twenty-four hours. Water closets may be placed in all now existing tenement houses and they shall comply with all the conditions of section eighty-five of this act as to the construction of vent shafts.

The present law requires that in all existing tenement houses the woodwork enclosing all water-closets shall be removed from the front of said closets, and the space underneath the seat shall be left open. That is eliminated by the Marshall bill, and the following is substituted: "In all now existing tenement houses the woodwork of water-closets in front of the seat, shall be made to open readily on hinges."

Roses and Thorns.

Such buildings as our new Stock Exchange and the new Chamber of Commerce may be very fine architecturally and beautiful in themselves, but it is unfortunate they are not by themselves, remarks the "Baltimore Architect and Builder." "To be appreciated they would have to be seen, and to be seen they would have to be set out on a plain somewhere—not crowded, as they are, into the shadow of the twenty-five-story air castles which New York's millions are rearing over New York's infinitely precious soil." Imagine the Chamber of Commerce and the Stock Exchange out on a prairie!

Questions and Answers.

WRITTEN AUTHORITY TO OFFER PROPERTY FOR SALE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of the 10th inst., you answer a question as to broker's commission, which is as plain as can be that the broker "sold the property." I want to ask two questions. (1) I receive from a dealer a printed list of properties; at the top my name is written, then follows printed: "You are hereby authorized to offer for sale the following properties, no refusal given herewith. I reserve the right to offer same through other brokers, and will pay usual commission to broker making sale, subject to change without previous notice." This list has name of dealer printed at bottom. Does that constitute under Chapter 128, Laws of 1901, a "written authority?" (2) I receive from a dealer a printed list of properties, giving description and prices, which list also has the dealer's name printed on it, but no writing on it and no authorization. Does that constitute under Chapter 128, Laws of 1901, a "written authority?"

Answer.—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for the Second Department has just decided that Chapter 128, of the Laws of 1901, is unconstitutional, so that an answer to the questions is unnecessary. On another page of this issue of the Record and Guide will be found a summary of the opinion of the Appellate Division.—Law Editor.

WRITTEN AUTHORITY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Enclosed please find clipping from the New York "Times" of Saturday last. The opinion of Judge Woodward seems to state fundamental law so clearly that any other decisions it must seem would follow this line. Will your Law Editor kindly give an exposition of this case for the benefit of the real estate business, and might I ask if he would consider the following points: (1) What other decisions are necessary to make this opinion hold in any case? (2) Who were the active promoters who got the original written authorization through?

Answer.—Elsewhere in this issue will be found a summary of the opinion in the case of Grossman v. Caminez, referred to. (1). The decisions cited by Justice Woodward bear him out in the conclusion he arrives at. The decision of the Appellate Division holds good until it or a similar decision is reversed by the Court of Appeals, but Justice Woodward's reasoning is so cogent that I do not think there is any likelihood of a reversal. (2) I do not know and have no means of ascertaining.—Law Editor.

The Death of James D. Murphy.

There was probably no better known builder and general contractor in New York than James D. Murphy, who died at his residence, No. 119 East 91st st, after an illness of several months. During his career he was always prominently identified with all building trade associations. He was known for his versatility as well as for the quantity and quality of his work.

Mr. Murphy commenced his business career in 1878 at No. 206 Broadway, where he remained until May, 1897, when he moved to his present quarters, No. 1181 Broadway. The following monuments still tower as firm and steady as the day he completed them, 22d Regiment Armory, 9th Regiment Armory, 7th Judical Court House, public schools Nos. 63, 173 and 79, although Mr. Murphy did a great deal of municipal work, he always had time to make a specialty of churches and institutions, among which are to be found St. Zion and Timothy, St. Anthony's, Lutheran Church 88th st, St. John the Baptist, St. Lawrence; St. John's, White Plains; St. Andrews' Novitiate, Poughkeepsie; Convent of the Little Sisters of the Poor, at Queens, Long Island, N. Y.; Catholic Protectory, Boy's Club, 50th st; Girls' Chapel Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, St. Monica's School, College of St. Ignatius and St. Francis'Parochial School. Too much space would be required to mention all of the private dwellings, warehouses, apartment houses and office buildings which have become things of beauty under the skilful handiwork of Mr. Murphy, all of which are fireproof construction and from five to twenty stories high. The amount of buildings that he has successfully completed when the prominence of buildings is taken into consideration is remarkable. Mr. Murphy's success is due, it may be briefly stated, to the fact that he was thoroughly familiar with all details of the building trade. He was a most finished and practical man as a journeyman builder, and was competent to judge work done under his supervision. In this respect he set a high standard to which all his employees will conform, the result is easily apparent when one observes a building completed under Mr. Murphy's supervision.

The business will be carried on as usual by his sons, who have been running it since last August, when Mr. Murphy became ill. The following persons were in attendance at the funeral connected with the building trades: Thomas Mulry, John McLaughlin, John D. Crimmins, R. H. Casey, William H. Murphy, George Wallace, P. K. Lantry, Mr. Keiley, John McQuade, Henry Grissler, Robt. C. Martin, Wm. McKeon, Frank Reynolds, James Buckley, James McCarthy, and a number of prominent architects, also a number of prominent men in civil and political life. The interment was in Calvary.

GRAND ST.—Jacob Jablons and Abraham Berson have sold 552 Grand st., a 6-sty brick tenement, with stores, on lot 25x100, for about $45,000.

BEAVER ST.—The Cotton Exchange is negotiating for the purchase of the old 4-sty building No. 64 Beaver st., 24.6x37.6, which separates it from the Coffee Exchange. The committee having the matter in charge, of which George Brennecke is chairman, will make its report next Monday, when it is expected authority to complete the purchase will be given. The present owner of 64 Beaver st. is Kalman Haas. The price to be paid for it by the Cotton Exchange is said to be $45,000.

MARION ST.—G. Tuoti Co. have sold for Henry Moll No. 19 Marion st, a 5-sty tenement, on lot 27x100.

SPRING ST.—Chris Schierloh has sold for the Fraser family of Montreal, Canada, No. 327 Spring st. This property has been in the family for the past hundred years.

MONROE ST.—Julio Gonzalez has sold to Weil & Mayer through the Ruland & Whiting Co., No. 5 Monroe st, a 5-sty tenement.

MULBERRY ST.—S. Sabarbro has sold Nos. 219 and 221 Mulberry st, a flat 44.4x74.6.

BROOME ST.—Oscar Englander has purchased from Charles Weirstein Nos. 271 and 273 Broome st, southeast corner of Allen st, a 6-sty tenement with stores, on lot 42.5x87.8.

34TH ST.—The valuable parcel of realty at No. 3 West 34th st, with a frontage of 25 ft. and a depth of 200 ft., running through to No. 6 West 35th st, was sold by H. R. Drew & Co., to Charles T. Barney. The property adjoins the site of the old Stewart mansion and is exactly opposite the Waldorf-Astoria. The lot on the 34th st side is now occupied by an old 4-sty brownstone dwelling, formerly the home of John Knower. It adjoins three lots owned by the Century Realty Co., of which Mr. Barney is a director. The price paid for the plot is said to be $250,000, but all sorts of fancy prices are mentioned, one being $600,000, the plot contains 4,937 sq. ft., half of which is 35th st property, at $600,000, the square foot price would be $121.32 and no one dreams of such a price for property on this street at the present time. Nos. 5 and 7, adjoining a plot 50x130, sold in 1901 to James C. Parrish for $315,000, or at the rate of $48.46 per sq. ft., and while prices have advanced on the street since that time, they are still far from $121.32 per sq. ft.

56TH ST.—The Empire City Realty Co. has sold No. 237 East 56th st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25x100.

IRVING PL.—Christine Ottmann has sold No. 30 Irving pl, southeast corner of 16th st, a plot 43.3x80, with two 4-sty dwellings, for $70,000.

MONROE ST.—Greenberg & Moschowitz have sold to Augustus L, Apelles, No. 31 Monroe st, a 6-sty tenement, on lot 25x100.

36TH ST.—Henry C. Valentine has sold No. 13 East 36th st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 25x98.9, between 5th and Madison avs. It is in the same block with the recent purchases of George C. Boldt.

47TH ST.—Edwin Lord has sold No. 76 West 47th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on lot 19x70.7. This property was reported to have been sold some two weeks ago, but the deal fell through.

52D ST.—Perez M. Stewart has sold to Levi C. Weir, president of the Adams Express Co., No. 12 East 52d st, a new 6-sty American basement dwelling, on lot 30x100.

GRAND ST.—Father Peter McNamee has sold to Jackson & Stern Nos 554 and 556 Grand st, northwest corner of Lewis st, old buildings, on plot 50x125 with an L 25x50.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

PARK AV.—Charles S. Gregor has sold for Daniel Robert, of Somerville, New Jersey, the "Palacio" apartment house, at the northwest corner of Park av and 65th st, a 7-sty building, 50x95x100, to The Lahey Co. In part payment Mr. Robert takes the plot, 100x99.11, on the north side of 148th st, 100 feet east of Broadway.

115TH ST.—Abraham Ruth has sold to Clementine M. Silverman the plot, 74.5x100.6, on the north side of 115th st, 400 feet east of Lenox av. The buyer will erect a 6-sty apartment house.

71ST ST.—Slawson & Hobbs have sold for George Kitching Nos. 336 to 340 West 71st st, three 3-sty dwellings, on plot 53x100.5.

113TH ST.—The Weigand estate has sold to A. Goodman No. 112 West 113th st, a 5-stv flat. on lot 19x100.

106TH ST.—A. L. Mordecai & Son have sold for E. A. Wheaton a plot on the north side of 106th st, 150 feet east of Columbus av, 147.6x100. The westerly half of this plot has been resold by the same brokers to a builder, who will improve with a 6-sty apartment house.

65TH ST.—The estate of John R. Ford has sold to Nelson D. Stilwell a plot, 100x100.4, on the north side of 65th st, 100 feet east of Amsterdam av.

LENOX AV.—The West Side Bank has sold a plot, 75x100, on the east side of Lenox av, 25 feet north of 137th st.

133D ST.—William Rosenzweig and Bernard Klingenstein have sold Nos. 216 and 218 West 133d st, two 5-sty flats, each 27x99.11.

130TH ST.—Sophie Fabregon has sold No. 111 West 130th st, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 17.6x99.11.

119TH ST.—Anna Lowenstein has sold No. 75 West 119th st, a 3-sty dwelling, 18.9x50x100. Harry E. Zittel was the broker.

114TH ST.—H. Cohen has purchased from Amelia Rogers a plot, 50x100, on the south side of 114th st, 250 feet west of Broadway.

5TH AV.—Leopold Yesky has bought from Henry Einstein No. 1346 5th av., a 5-sty flat with store, on lot 25x100.

107TH ST.—James Snow has sold through Bryan L. Kennelly No. 305 West 107th st., a 5-sty American basement dwelling, on lot 17x101.10.

62D ST.—Herbert A. Sherman has bought for John R. Drexel, from Mrs. Prudence M. Boynton, the brownstone dwelling, on lot 20x100.5, at 3 East 62d st. Mr. Drexel has also bought, from Martin E. Greene, the adjoining house, at 1 East 62d st., on lot 22x100.5, 108 ft. east of Fifth av. The latter house has light and air casements over the houses on the avenue front. Mr. Drexel will build a new residence on the combined plot, 42x100.5. He bought last June Nos. 13 and 15 East 54th st., in the block with William Rockefeller and Dr. Robert F. Weir, and intended to reimprove that plot. But the threat of a rear wing to the Hotel St. Regis has changed his plans, in spite of the seemingly successful campaign of Messrs. Rockefeller and Weir to prevent any of the houses in the block from falling into the St. Regis ownership. It is therefore to be presumed that Mr. Drexel's Fifty-fourth st. houses will come into the market again. The McVickar Realty Trust Co. were also brokers in the transaction.

AUDUBON AV.—David Stewart has resold the plot of about four lots, at the southwest corner of Audubon av. and 191st st., for Mr. Strauss, who recently bought it from the Washington Heights syndicate. The new buyer is an operator.

The McLaughlin Real Estate Company bought from a syndicate composed of the estate of the late Senator P. H. McNulty, E. C. M. Fitzgerald and others a large tract of building lots formerly known as the Story farm. The price was $100,000. The McNulty & Fitzgerald Co. was the broker in the transaction. The tract is one of the choicest in the suburban section of the borough. It borders on Fort Hamilton av., Gravesend av., Church av. and Ocean Parkway. The new owners will develop this tract by putting in all modern improvements and divide it into home building sites.

The Improvement League of the Thirteenth Ward of Brooklyn, being well satisfied with the new tax assessment, praise the work of the present city administration.

"The property owners of Whitestone are inclined to be satisfied with the assessment figures," remarks the Herald of that village. The total assessment for Whitestone amounts to $2,296,310 as compared to $2,042,435 last year, an increase of $253,875. In College Point, the asssessment amounts to $3,046,430, as compared to $2,931,305 last year, an increase of $215,125. And in Flushing, real and personal property is assessed at $8,738,890, an increase of $749,855 over last year.

Brooklyn.—The Williamsburg Savings Bank, No. 175 Broadway, Brooklyn, will build an annex to its present building on a plot 58x58 at a cost of $300,000. The exterior of the building will be of plain and polished granite and the interior of Ohio limestone and granite columns. The president, Wm. T. Lamb, has the work in charge.

Real Estate Notes.

Jules S. Bache is the buyer of the plot 51.10x100.8, on the north side of 86th st., 187.9 west of Madison ave.

Charles H. E. Ropes has been elected president of the General Building & Construction Co. Wm. J. Merritt is vice-president and general manager.

Henry J. Leist was the broker for Thomas M. Miner, who purchased several parcels at 3d av and 127th st, for a theatre site, which appeared in our last issue.

Lorenz Weiher, not Lorenz F. J. Weiher, is the buyer of the plot, 100x100.11, on the north side of 111th st, 300 feet east of Broadway, reported in our last issue.

Postmaster-General Payne. Attorney-General Knox, and Secretary Shaw have arranged to be in New York city, January 28 and 29 to investigate the New York Post Office building question.

Schmeidler & Bachrach recently purchased No. 140 West 4th st, a 6-sty tenement, on lot 32.6x109, and sold the southwest corner of Lexington av and 113th st, and Nos. 158 and 160 Orchard st.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers will, after May 1, occupy the two central rooms in the rear of the second floor, adjoining those formerly occupied by the Central Realty Bond and Trust Co. The lease is for one year.

The premises No. 12 Union square and the connecting property Nos. 102, 104 and 106 East 15th st, will be sold at auction by order of court on Feb. 13th, to partition the Dam estate. John M. Thompson, auctioneer.

John Kensett Kellogg, of No. 80 William st, transacts a general real estate business, embracing selling, renting, appraising, entire charge of property, and placing mortgage loans and insurance. He is an experienced and careful worker.

Frank L. Wing took title from Mrs. Constance M. Andrews to No. 359 Fifth ave., 65.10 ft. north of Thirty-fourth st, 16.8x100, at $147,500, which is at the rate of $221,250 for a full lot. The buyer leased this property about two years ago with an option to purchase at $100,000 within two years.

Heil & Stern, active and successful realty workers in the mercantile district, have to better accommodate their largely increased business removed to the modern and well located Holtz Building, Nos. 604 and 606 Broadway, southeast corner of Houston st.

The first annual report of the Title Insurance Co., of New York, made a most gratifying exhibit to the stockholders. The company after charging off all the expenses of organization earned over 7 per cent. on the capital stock. During the year 1902, 1,440 titles were examined and loans on bond and mortgage were made to the amount of $6,229,180, of which $5,107,630 were sold to investors.

John Donnelly, long-established and successful in realty work, has joined forces with Daniel Wiegand, and the firm is now John Donnelly & Co., with offices at the old stand, No. 177 Broadway.

Andrews, Bell & Co. will remove their offices next Tuesday from No. 20 East 42d st to No. 504 5th av, corner of 42d st, in the renovated Hotel Bristol, where they have secured handsome and commodious quarters.

August Belmont entered the directorate of the Century Realty Co. This is the first occasion in which the banker has become identified with the business of operating in real estate, as the primary object of his Subway Realty Co. was simply to facilitate the acquisition of property needed for the Rapid Transit road. Edwin Thorne and former Corporation Counsel John Whalen were also elected directors of the Century.

With characteristic enterprise and good judgment, John P. Kirwan has issued a 15-leaf calendar for 1903, showing some of the famous landmarks of Broadway in the early days of the city, together with up-to-date views of the improvements of the same sites. Mr. Kirwan's offices are at 1505 Broadway, southwest corner of 44th st, "Longacre Square," the centre of a section where realty deals have been very frequent and costly improvements numerous.

Another right-about-face movement was executed by the Rapid Transit Commission in the matter of the station at 104th st and Central Park West. Contractor McDonald appeared before the board and said that the building of the station would mean a delay of at least eight months on the opening of the system. The cars for the underground railroad, he said, would be delivered at the company's sheds on the Harlem River and would have to be drawn through the eastern tunnel.

"It is apparent," he said, "that if the East Side branch is tied up for eight months the rest of the system will have to be tied up also. While we are blasting rock for the station work on the tunnel itself must be stopped. There will be no 'Harlem in fifteen minutes. Notwithstanding the fact that the Commission has decided to abandon the station, they may be delayed the eight months,' in opening the road. It is said that the interested property owners are now organizing to test the question as to whether they can abandon it in the courts, if that is the case eight months may be a very moderate estimate of the delay in opening the road.

Harry S. Black resigned his position as president of the George A. Fuller Company on Tuesday. Mr. Black has been president of this corporation since the death of George A. Fuller, who was his father-in-law. He was one of the chief organizers last summer of the United States Realty and Construction Company with which the Fuller Company is amalgamated. He resigns from the presidency of the latter company in order to be able to give closer attention to his duties as chairman of the board of directors of the former. Judge S. P. McConnell has been elected president of the Fuller Company.

For the fourth time since the Board of Education decided to erect the De Witt Clinton High School, the site will be changed. At one time a site was purchased on Stuyvesant square, between 15th and 16th sts. That was given up and another chosen on 10th av, between 58th and 59th sts. Thursday evening, in the meeting of the Executive Committee, Mr. Lummis, of the Building Committee, called attention to the fact that that location is undesirable; 59th st is to be widened, he informed the Committee, and 40 feet will be taken from the plot purchased. The occupation of the remainder of the block by gas-tanks and the location on the opposite side of the street of the freight terminus of the New York Central Railroad, were other objectionable features. The Committee on High Schools was directed to consider the question, and to report to the Board of Education at its next meeting.

Latest News About the New Brunswick Hotel.

The final details in the purchase of the Hotel Brunswick site, and the deeds of the different parcels included in the site were executed yesterday. The properties secured are seven in number, and form a square 197.6x130.6, occupying the block front on the east side of 5th av, between 26th and 27th sts. They are all taken by the Brunswick Construction Co., which will hold title until the new hotel is finished. Three of the parcels were bought through Charles T. Barney, for a total of $1,300,000, the north corner of 26th st at $550,000, the 7-sty building to the north of it at $520,000, and the piece, 30x197.6, at No. 7 East 26th st, $230,000. Through J. Delmage Trimble were also secured three parcels, at a total of $1,030,000. These were at the south corner of 27th st, at $250,000; the Lottimer house, No. 3 East 26th st, at $400,000, and the adjoining Burden house, No. 5 East 26th st, at $380,000. It was the purchase of the last piece, which had light and air easements, that finally resulted in the success of the long drawn-out negotiations.

Finally, the small building just south of the corner of 27th st was bought from James G. Wallace at $190,000. The total paid for the entire plot is thus $2,520,000. On this plot the General Building & Construction Co. have been awarded the contract for erecting a 20-sty hotel, with 1,100 rooms, at a cost of about $3,500,000. The finished building will be turned over to the Brunswick Hotel Co., of which Gustave Baumann, of the Holland House, will be president. Among the underwriters to the bonds of the company are Arnold, Constable & Co., B. P. Cheney, Charles T. Barney, William F. Havemeyer, Sidney Dillon Ripley, William Allen Butler, Jr., and Edmund L. Baylies. The Knickerbocker Trust Co., as trustee, holds a mortgage for $7,500,000 to secure the bonds of the company. This mortgage was also recorded yesterday.

Building in England.

The slackness which was apparent at the end of 1901 continued during 1902, if anything being worse than the previous year. As a rule corporations and public companies have been little disposed to embark upon fresh undertakings, while speculative builders are still inclined to play a waiting game. The continued high price of material, combined with the maintenance of the old rate of wages, has undoubtedly impeded enterprise. Latterly the prices of certain minor items of material have become a little easier, but not to a sufficient extent to influence trade. In the provinces the want of employment has driven a good many workmen to London, where things appear to be little better. According to the recently issued returns of the Board of Trade, the percentage of unemployed members among union carpenters and joiners throughout the kingdom was 4.4 at the end of November, as compared with 3.9 at the corresponding period last year.—Builders' Journal and Architectural Record (London.)

Material Market.

CEMENT.

Though it is midwinter, few mills have yet had opportunity to accumulate stock. A remarkable demand continues, and all the prospects of the present are for a production in 1903 greatly exceeding last year's. Prices are stiff at the levels adopted at the first entrance of winter, which some consumers have thought may possibly be an effect of agreement, but dealers maintain that no combine is necessary in the present relation of supply and demand. Be this as it may, the Eastern manufacturers have just formed an association, and on some questions at least will hereafter present a united front, though it is officially said that the organization has no ulterior trade motive. At the meeting, which was held in the Hotel Bellevue, at Philadelphia, R. W. Lesley, of the American Portland Cement Co., was elected president; J. B. Lober, of the Vulcanite Cement Co., vice-president; A. F. Gerstell, of the Alpha Portland Cement Co., secretary; and E. M. Young, of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co., treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Ernest R. Ackerman, H. W. Maxwell, W. W. McClay, J. H. DuMarry, W. H. Harding, George E. Bartol and W. W. Warren. One of the chief things to receive attention is the matter of car-shortage, and a committee has been appointed to consult with the railroad companies.

Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman, of the Lawrence Cement Co., said this week: "In all our experience we have never had such a large inquiry during the month of January for future delivery as we have had this month. The stocks of cement on hand at the mills are not one-third of what they were a year ago, the great demand for cement in the fall contributing partly to this state of affairs, and, in addition thereto, mills are having great difficulty in obtaining a supply of coal. We look for an enormous business as soon as seasonable weather for building operations prevails, and we even think the scarcity of domestic cement will be greater in the summer than ever before."

The general manager of the Charles Warner Co. said: "As regards the condition and prospects of the market for the coming year, we can say that in all the years of our experience we have never seen so active a demand at this time of the year as there is at present, nor can we remember at any time so much prospective work as at the present time. Adding to this the inability of the railroads to properly care for the traffic, the increase in freight rates, the increase in wages and in the cost of coal, and almost every other material, the prospects are for very high prices the entire coming year and a scarcity of almost every material used in building construction. If proper care and diligence is not taken to secure early contracts for delivery of material with reliable concerns, great hardship will be experienced by many concerns in the building business, as well as private persons comtemplating improvements and additions."

Messrs. Fredenburg & Lousbury said: "The manufacture of Portland cement is rapidly assuming a position of one of the largest and most important industries of the country. The industry is of necessity in strong hands, because of the large investment required to make cement under favorable conditions. It has, in not a few instances, attracted men whose means have been acquired in other lines and who now seek more worlds to conquer. Their judgment has, in most every instance, been indicated by results. The demand for Alpha Portland is the best in the history of the company, and no difficulty is anticipated in disposing of the output. The general market continues buoyant, prices firm for spot deliveries, with a hardening tendency as the season advances."

SEWER PIPE.

It is reliably reported that negotiations are well advanced toward instituting a working agreement, to be maintained by all manufacturers east of the Mississippi, with every probability that the plan will go into effect at an early date. A rumor that a Pittsburg company has secured an option on a string of 22 manufacturing plants cannot be confirmed. The state of business in this line furnishes no exception to the general rule of prosperity for building materials, and dealers expect even better times during the coming year. Pipe of the sizes used in real estate construction are quoted as follows: 4-inch, 5½ cents; 6-inch, 8.1 cents; 8-inch, 13.5 cents. The Southern demand is particularly strong this winter. Arthur M. Pierson & Co., New York, are shipping 6,000 feet of 30-inch pipe to Charleston.

LIME.

A meeting of lime manufacturers was held in Indianapolis this week for the purpose of organizing a national association, but particulars of the proceedings have not yet come to hand. The objects stated in the call were: "To promote better business methods and more friendly feeling among the manufacturers; to foster and encourage local organizations; to prevent indiscriminate price cutting and over-production and the consequent glutting of the market. It is also a part of the business of the association to educate its members up to new methods of manufacture, and a general exchange of ideas along this line that all may conduct their business with less trouble and more profit."

The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., replying to an inquiry by the Record and Guide, say: "We think the general prospects of the lime industry for the coming year, are very good. Our company is manufacturing more lime just now than ever before at this season of the year. Our prices remain unchanged, but we have increased the weight of our selected finishing."

The New York Lime & Cement Co., Carthage, N. Y., state: "Trade has been good. We hope to increase it next year, and increase our output next year by building new kilns and making other improvements to cheapen the cost of manufacture."

Another manufacturer said: "Our business increased during last year, but the cost of manufacture has also increased tremendously. We believe the demand will be greater during 1903. Hard wall plaster is rapidly replacing lime for plaster work."

BLUE STONE.

A dealer said: "We did not do near so much business last year as in 1901, on account of the low prices, but the prospects are much better for the coming year."

Labor Problems.

The Plate and Sheet Glass Glaziers' Union, which is affiliated with the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, recently presented a "modest request," as they called it, to all employers of glaziers, cutters and setters. Said they: "The trade at which we earn a living is probably the only one in the building trades line that works over eight hours a day. We decided to lay before you nothing impossible to grant, but a very modest request; that is, that you grant us a decrease in the hours of labor, from 59 hours a week to 52½ hours, to be applied as follows: 9½ hours on five days a week, and on Saturdays 5 hours, with the same pay. In view of the fact that every other building trade is working 44 hours a week, we feel that our request is a modest one, and we have no doubt that you will be generous enough to concede this. It is useless to again demonstrate to you that a man can turn out more efficient work when he works less hours and rests sufficiently, than when he works long hours and is always tired. We are sure that this concession will doubly repay you and hope that only the most friendly feelings may exist between us."

The demand was made on the first of January, and on Monday of this week the men stopped work in all cases where they had been refused. Twenty-two firms were affected; but practically there was no resistance by the employers, and by Wednesday morning the incident was entirely closed. The philosophy of the appeal was irresistible, and the employers are now looking hopefully for the double payment that is promised.

HOUSESMITHS ASK FOR MORE.

Next, the structural iron workers. If they are not allowed 50 cents more a day, to begin on the first of next May, then there may be trouble. The demand is made by Local No. 2, of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, whose jurisdiction extends over Greater New York and vicinity. With a membership of 3,600, and controlling the operation of erecting the structural steel and ironwork of buildings, they think they are in a position to make an impression. At present receiving 50 cents an hour as a minimum, they demand for the future a scale of 56¼ cents an hour; doublt pay for all overtime, and a half holiday on Saturdays the year round, instead of during only half the year, as now.

The secretary of the union, Frank Hannan, asserts that some firms have already agreed to grant the demand. But if there should be a general resistance on the part of employers, the case would, under Article 2 of the proposed agreement, be the subject of arbitration. The section in full reads as follows:

> The party of the second part further agrees that in case of trouble or any misunderstanding between the parties of this agreement, the difference shall be arbitrated. Work shall proceed pending the arbitration, under the conditions of this agreement. The arbitrators shall be three entirely disinterested parties, one selected by each party to this agreement, and the third selected by these two, and the decision of these arbitrators shall be binding to both parties. But none of the definite agreements of this contract shall be subject to arbitration, and decision of arbitrators shall be rendered within six working days. A sympathetic strike by other trades, or called by the central bodies, where it is necessary for the parties of this agreement to take part to protect union principles, shall in no way be considered a violation of this agreement.

It would appear that before a cessation of work can be ordered, the differences must be submitted to arbitration, though the section is not clear in its meaning. Only from inference is it supposable that both parties will submit absolutely to the decision of the arbitrators. However, there is some prospect that the issue will be adjusted without recourse to a strike on the part of the workmen.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

The National Brick Manufacturers' Association will meet at the Brunswick Hotel, Boston, Mass., February 4 to 7.

The American Ceramic Society will hold its fifth annual meeting at the Brunswick Hotel, Boston, Mass., February 2 and 3.

It is reported that J. H. Fink, for several years engaged in the wholesale lumber business in this city, is to open a retail yard on his own account at Weehawken.

The annual dinner of the Paint, Oil and Varnish Club, last evening, at No. 100 William st, was, like its predecessors, a well attended and interesting function.

E. B. Hunting & Co., lumber, having been succeeded by the Granger Stubbs Lumber Co., the offices of the former at 11 Broadway are now occupied by the successors, with Mr. S. C. Strook in charge.

Mr. T. S. Miller, local representative of the W. M. Ritter Company, of Columbus, O., has just returned from a tour of the company's mills in West Virginia and North Carolina. He says the outlook for a good demand in 1903 is exceptionally bright.

The Booth & Lewis Company, which became inactive a year ago, is revived. The offices are at 18 Broadway, and the officers are Frank A. Lewis, president; W. S. Skinner, secretary and treasurer, and these, with R. Maxwell Anderson, constitute the board of directors.

The Emporium Lumber Co., of Keating Summit, Pa., has opened a New York office in the Metropolitan Building, with C. O. Shepherd in charge. They handle hardwood and white pine.

H. B. Ives & Co., New Haven, Ct., handle builders' hardware and find business good in their line.

The election of Judge S. P. McConnell to the presidency of the George A. Fuller Co., is an indication of the type of man that is desired at the head of a modern construction company. Not a mechanic, engineer, financier, or even an architect, but—well, a man like Judge McConnell, whose qualities can be admired but scarcely described.

It is said that experiments by Professor Edw. D. Campbell, Ann Arbor, Mich., have resulted in inventions of value to the cement trade. His experiments were along the line of determining just what temperature should be used in calcining Portland cement from any specified material, and it is thought that his inventions consist of apparatus for maintaining and controlling heat for the desired temperature.

For a large office building the ashes problem is to be solved in this way. The cans containing the ashes will be collected in the boiler-room, by a flat car traveling on a track in front of the boilers, and conveyed to a boot or pit, and dumped into it. From the boot rises an elevating conveyor, or bucketbelt, to lift the ashes through a hole in the sidewalk, and discharge them into a cart at the curb. When not in use the conveyor can be folded and shortened enough to permit of the lid in the sidewalk being put back.

In the issue of the Record and Guide, on Jan. 17, an illustration and description of the Hotel Somerset on West 47th st, was published, in which description the name of Frederick C. Browne was given as the architect. The plans for this building were indeed originally drawn and filed by Mr. Browne for Mr. Henry L. Felt, who sold the building while excavations were in progress, to Messrs. Street, Wykes & Co., but Mr. Clarence Luce was the architect for Messrs. Street, Wykes & Co., and it was from subsequent designs by him and under his supervision that the building, as illustrated, was erected.

Wellesley College is to have, through the generosity of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, an entirely new and up-to-date power plant. Apparatus will be installed for heating all the buildings on the college grounds, which extend over several acres, and the grounds will be lighted by electricity throughout. Electric motors also will be used for operating elevators and blowers for ventilation purposes. Mr. Rockefeller has recently purchased from the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., for this plant, two alternating-current, engine-type, two-phase alternators, separately excited, one of 150 kilowatts, and one of 75 kilowatts; also a five-panel switchboard.

Mayor Low is quite unable to coincide with the views of the Merchants' Association regarding the Aqueduct Commission, and refuses to cite the commissioners to show cause why they should be removed. He cannot perceive any substantial basis for the action proposed by the Merchants, and therefore it would be inadvisable and uncalled for. Indeed, the work of the Aqueduct Commissioners has impressed the Mayor as being both painstaking and intelligent. The public would much rather believe that the waterworks are being properly attended to than the contrary, and the assurance of the Mayor is a relief from further apprehension.

Many advantages are claimed for the Krolman system of flat arch construction which is patented and has been tested and approved by the Department of Buildings. Its use in such structures as the new eleven sty office building, No. 27 East 22d st, by Henry Acker, builder; at 165th st, near Broadway, by Builder Picken, who will use it in the construction of an apartment hotel at Nos. 157 and 159 West 47th st, testifies to the merits of the Krolman system, which is fireproof and provides a perfectly level ceiling finish, without laps. Further particulars and estimates of cost will be furnished by John Krolman, of No. 527 East 79th st; telephone 3803 A 79th.

With the great increase of demand for reinforced concrete fireproofing comes forward the Wight-Easton-Townsend Co., 160 Fifth av., city, with their Lock-Woven Steel and Concrete Floor Arches. This system has been thoroughly tested by the Bureau of Buildings, it having been given two series of tests, and by these it has established full approval for the widest spans permitted for flat arches. Its use is authorized by the bureau for spans up to six feet on the flat arches, with the legal allowance of six inches provided by the code. Allowance as to floor loads extends from 300 lbs. to 115 lbs. per sq. ft. The proprietors hope by using high carbon drawn steel, and thoroughly galvanized, to furnish a fabric that will be a distinct advance in security and strength. The system has met with sudden and emphatic approval, and the above-named firm has already received contracts for the Imperial Hotel addition, seventeen stories; the 12-story Hotel Touraine, the 11-story St. Paul Hotel and for the 12-story apartment hotel that is going up at West 36th st. and Seventh av.

The Tenement House Law provides that tenement houses less than four stories in height, and which also do not contain accommodations for more than four families in all, may be equipped with such other iron, steel or wire cable fire-escapes as may be approved by the Department of Buildings; such escapes to be capable of sustaining 2,000 pounds, and to be of sufficient length to reach from the top floor to the ground, and with rungs not less than 12 inches apart and not less than 15 inches in length. A letter from Tenement House Commissioner De Forest, which has been brought to our attention, states that the Hains Standard Fire-Escape was approved by the Department of Buildings on Oct. 11, 1900, and was extensively installed under this approval prior to Jan. 1, 1902, when the Tenement House Department came into existence. There is a question whether an approval already given does not continue until affirmatively revoked, but assuming that the approval of the Tenement House Department is necessary, the Commissioner states that the escape has his approval, and that he is confirmed in this conclusion by the favorable opinion of the New York Fire Department.

A Belgian on the American Cement Trade.

Mr. Camile Borges, of Toural, Belgium, where he is largely engaged in the cement business, is visiting this country. His company employs seven thousand hands. He estimates that the total importation of cement into this country will be 10,000,000 barrels during the present year, which is at least double what it was last year. This is a remarkably large estimate, considering that the total consumption here in 1900 was but 10,868,703 barrels. However, he said:

"The imports of cement into the United States up to about two or three years ago amounted to some 3,000,000 barrels per annum. For the few years previous to the last two the manufacturing of cement in America increased to considerable proportions, thus somewhat lessening for a while the importations from Europe. But quite recently the demands for cement in America have been so large that both the American and European factories were unable to fill them. The home production was then probably from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 barrels per annum, but it has steadily increased until it is now quite 20,000,000 barrels per annum. But during the past year at least 5,000,000 barrels of cement have been imported in addition to the home production, something heretofore unheard of in any country of the world.

"Not only that, but on what seems to be the best of authority the importations of cement this present year will be no less than 10,000,000 barrels, besides the still larger increase in home production. This, in my opinion, shows better than anything else well could, the vast amount of public improvements in the way of sewers, drainage, bridge and building construction now going on in America. We annually send about 75,000 tons of cement to the British Islands, England, Scotland and Ireland, and do enormous business with even far-off Japan and Australia, but in no corner of the globe is there such an era of construction requiring the use of cement as in America.

"It is in America also that the greatest strides have been made in the new uses to which cement is now being put. In Chicago, for instance, there is a fine cement sewer. There are concrete-covered drainage canals in New Orleans, and, with the construction of the sewerage system soon to begin, there will doubtless be a number of concrete sewers. Concrete is now extensively used in foundation work where previously it was not used at all.

"I doubt if there is any business known among men in which America does not play the leading part just now, but however that may be, in the cement business it is certain that America leads and doubtless will continue to do so for many years to come."

Reduction of Fire Hazards in Building Construction.

In an article by Perez M. Stewart, Superintendent, and Rudolph P. Miller, Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Buildings in the Borough of Manhattan, attention is directed to the main lines along which improvements may be expected, and to the features of construction that tend to the greatest extent to accomplish the desired results, with more especial reference to the conditions in large cities generally and in New York city in particular. A careful consideration and thorough study of this matter, the authors maintain, must convince every owner that the introduction of safeguards against fire will bring a fair return on the increased outlay in reduced insurance rates, besides meeting a moral obligation that he owes to his lessees, tenants, neighbors and himself. "One of the large hotels of Manhattan maintains a room in a burnt condition as an indication of what can happen in a fireproof hotel without the knowledge of any of the patrons or the proprietor. A fire that originated in this room, it appears, had almost entirely burned itself out before any one was aware of it. The owners of large department stores are beginning to realize the importance of thorough fireproof construction and the advantages of safeguards against fire, and the conviction is arrived at almost entirely through commercial considerations. Nor is it the loss of goods, which are generally fully covered by insurance, but the loss of time and business consequent upon a serious conflagration that brings this about. Some of the points made in the article are these:

"The safeguards that can be, to a greater or less extent, provided by legislation are such as affect the materials and methods of construction:

"First: By compelling the use of so-called fireproof materials, reducing to the greatest possible extent the food for a fire;

"Second: By prescribing the manner of construction to protect the structure itself from the effects of fire and confining fires as far as possible within certain limits;

"Third: By demanding the use of such devices and forms of construction as will afford protection against fire from the outside;

"Fourth: By requiring the installation of apparatus to fight and quench fires where they are inside or outside of buildings;

"Fifth: By calling for safe and adequate means of escape for the inmates of a building in case of fire.

"Among the materials most commonly used in building construction which are generally considered incombustible may be enumerated the following: Brick, stone, terra-cotta, iron, steel, mortars and concrete. By incombustible materials in this connection is meant such as will not burn or produce flame when subjected to a heat of 2,000 to 3,000 degrees F. Incombustible materials are not necessarily fireproof, and here it should be explained that the word "fireproof" is to be used throughout this article in its general accepted meaning in connection with building construction; that is, fire resisting. It is important that this should be kept in mind."

Requirements of the Building Code of New York are thus commented on:

"Barring small outhouses and sheds, the Building Code of New York requires all buildings to be enclosed in walls of incombustible materials, except in the outlying, sparsely settled sections of the city. In such localities, the limits of which are sharply defined, wood may be used. But even here limits as to the height and proximity of buildings are established. For the purpose of encouraging the substitution of incombustible materials for wood as enclosure walls, the code very propertly permits modification of its provisions in other particulars. The filling in between studs with brick, terra-cotta or other incombustible materials, and the covering of partitions, walls and ceilings; in frame buildings with wire lath and plaster, and the substitution of tin or slate for shingles in roofing are highly recommended for reducing fire risks.

"In thickly settled districts the walls of buildings should be of incombustible materials. The roofs, while not necessarily of incombustile materials throughout, must at least have a covering of some such material. The purpose of this will appear later on. Ir. the interior construction (within certain limitations) no restrictions are made in the New York Code as to the use of incombustible materials, except for certain very vulnerable parts, such as shafts in which the use of fireproof material is required. When certain classes of buildings of a public character exceed 35 feet in height, and when any building exceeds 75 feet in height, and again when buildings exceed certain areas, fireproof construction is required; that is, walls, floors, partitions, stairs and all main structural parts must be of incombustible materials, properly protected to resist the destructive effects of fire."

Messrs. Stewart and Miller concede that there is a certain superiority of wood over iron or steel in its use for posts and girders in buildings, in that the strength of the wood post or girder diminishes practically in proportion to the loss of cross section due to the burning away of the material, whereas in the case of the iron or steel columns the loss of strength increases very rapidly with the rise of temperature. The result is that in the case of wooden posts or girders the structure stands as long as there is sufficient material in the member, while in the case of the iron or steel column the structure collapses as soon as the temperature has reached the danger point, but it is the opinion of the authors that the best method of protecting steel and iron columns is still an open question. What is desired is some covering that will stay in place under the action of fire and water and will keep the heat from the column, and at the same time will protect the iron and steel against corrosion.

Metal window frames and sash, glazed with wire glass, are spoken of favorably as a fire-stop; likewise automatic sprinklers. In regard to standpipes, the article says that the installation of one in every building over five or six stories in height in our business district, or within a certain area, with provisions for hose connection at the street level outside of the building and on each floor and on the roof, would so greatly facilitate the work of repressing the flames as to reduce the fire risk to a degree that would justify the expense of the apparatus.

Bay Window Ordinance.

The Board of Aldermen have passed the following amendments to this ordinance. The borough presidents are designated as the persons to issue permits; payments for permits to be made in whatever way may be most convenient:

"Section 3. Each application for the erection of a bay window projecting more than 1 foot beyond the building line shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the last assessed valuation of the property on which said bay window is to be erected, which appears upon the books of the Department of Taxes and Assessments. Except as hereinafter provided ,the amount that shall be paid as compensation to the city for privilege of erecting each bay window shall be at the rate of 10 per cent. of the assessed valuation per square foot of the property on which the said bay window is to be erected (not less than $1 nor more than $5), for each and every square foot, or fraction thereof, of area covered by said bay window beyond the building line for each and every story through which it is carried. (The rate to be based upon the assessed valuation of the property as confirmed by the city authorities.)

"If the projection of a bay window does not exceed 1 foot beyond the building line, and it is not carried higher than the sill of the second-story windows, the rate throughout the city of New York shall be 10 cents for each square foot or fraction thereof of area covered by said bay windows beyond the building line."

AN ANALYSIS OF WANTS AND OFFERS.

The usefulness of the Want and Offer Department of this paper to all who are actively interested in real estate becomes more marked from week to week. As showing the variety of the business of which this department is practically a bulletin, a review of the advertisements in Number 1816, and in last week's number will prove interesting. In the Record and Guide of January 10, the premises, Nos. 154 and 156 East 70th street were offered for sale; a most desirable opening for a real estate man of first-class ability was announced; an auctioneer, appraiser and broker seeks a position; a Nassau street firm offers apartment houses in the Ninth Ward and on Washington avenue; a broker offers to take charge of high-class property for 2 per cent. on collections; a superintendent of first-class department houses expresses a wish to make a change; an advertiser wants a store on the central West Side; a broker offers 56 feet front on 46th street, near 5th avenue; a young man familiar with real estate seeks a position; an experienced man wishes rents to collect; full commission is promised to brokers who succeed in selling an apartment always rented; an established real estate business is offered for sale; a broker announces that he has cash buyers for properties in certain described localities; a decorator wants a salesman; $40,000 is sought on a second mortgage; an experienced builder wants a responsible position; builders are tendered lots with loan for erecting frame houses; water front is offered for sale; an equity in a flat with some cash may be exchanged for building material and labor, and low-priced lots are offered near an "L" station in the Bronx.

In last week's paper some prior announcements are repeated, and a firm offers $400,000 to loan at 4 per cent. and $350,000 at 4 1-2 or any part; the approaching removal of a brokerage firm is noted; a young man desires a position as collector; an extra large house near Madison Square is advertised for sale; a plumber wants desk room and work from an agent, owner or builder; a broker in a twenty line card specifies nine properties he has for sale; a man who has a thorough practical knowledge of building, according to his statement, wants charge of an office or of a construction department, and an uptown firm places a desirable plot for operators on the market.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was banded into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious; real names being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will he found at the end of the list.

Editor Record and Guide:

The lien placed on Bathgate Avenue job by Kloepfer Bros. is entirely unjustified. They have been paid every cent due them upon that work and we have their receipted bills for same. We have taken immediate steps to bond the lien and have commenced proceedings against them for damages.

The Private Branch Exchange System of supplying TELEPHONE SERVICE is particularly adapted to the requirements of LARGE HOTELS and APARTMENT HOUSES

By means of a Private Branch Exchange the general telephone service, local, suburban and long distance, is available in every room and apartment. A complete interior service is also supplied, adding largely to the efficiency, and decreasing the cost of the hotel service proper. No modern Hotel or Apartment House should lack a Private Branch Telephone Exchange.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious; real names being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

SOLE MAKERS AND PATENTEES

This (MF) trade mark is stamped on every sheet of the best roofing tin made. This (MF) mark means "Most Favored," because this brand is most favored by architects, dealers, and builders everywhere. MF Roofing Tin was first made in Wales 50 years ago—later the process was improved in America—and the product developed, until now MF Roofing Tin is more in demand than any other brand. The superior quality of MF Roofing Tin is attested by the first prize awarded it at the Paris Exposition, 1900, where it was in competition with all the world.

MF

The entire tinning process is effected by skilled hand labor, without the use of acids or rolls. The very best plates, a great amount of pure tin and new lead, the utmost care in manufacture, successively contribute to making MF the best of all roofing. It is most economical, because it lasts longest—many roofs made of MF 50 years ago are sound as ever today. MF Roofing Tin is sold by dealers everywhere. Specify it in your building estimates. Ask your roofer, or write { W. C. CRONEMEYER, Agent, Carnegie Building, Pittsburg and receive illustrated book on roofing.

Vol. LXXI. JANUARY 31, 1903. No. 1820

The Index to Volume LXX. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between July 1 and December 31, 1902, is ready for delivery. Price, $1.00. This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions — deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 14 and 16 Vesey St.

SUCH a market for stocks as there was this week was one of better prices, but the advances were so obviously the result of speculative manipulation that very little importance can be attached to them. There was also more life in the limited list of active bonds, but here it was rather at the expense than at the gain of quoted values. This contradictory movement of the latter class of securities proves the artificiality of that of the first. There are no more signs of outside buying than there were a week ago, and the month ends with the market thoroughly disappointed of the traditional January buying. This is unfortunate because we are nearing the time when the spring commercial demand for money is approaching, when the reserves which pile up at the beginning of the year begin to decline again. For this reason an advance in stock prices in February is unusual in normal times. The known operations of the Treasury foreshadow a change in the weekly bank statement from that reported for the past four or five weeks. With the absence of support from outside declines in the surplus reserves will be likely to encourage professional operations on the short side; and, should the demand for money with the opening of the active business year be as great as the continued liveliness of all lines of business would have one to believe, liquidation may also be produced. Some gratifying features of special applicabiiity have come to the front this week. One of these is the statistical position of copper. The reserves appear to be smaller than at this time last year, and the revival of European business is pretty sure to include a considerable amount of electrical development by which the consumption of the metal will be accelerated. Another of these features is the influence of the coal situation upon net earnings of the Coalers, some of which have reported for December a decrease of operating cost accompanying increased gross earnings, so that the added receipts from coal wholly benefit income.

NEITHER is there much activity in the exchanges, nor more satisfactory conditions as to money abroad than here. Very little business is doing, but while it is said that the Venezuelan question overshadows the market, it is doubtful if more would have been doing if there had been no Venezuelan question at all. It is to be noted that although the reserves of the Bank of England have been very materially strengthened since the beginning of the year, the promised reduction of its typical rate is not made and it continues to stand at 4 per cent., which is higher for this time of the year than it has been for many years, excepting 1900 and 1901. This can only be explained by an unusual demand for money from some quarter, and is all the more surprising because of the limited commercial and industrial movement. The expectation of the Transvaal improvement loan may have something to do with the maintenance of the rate at a high figure, but the issue of this loan cannot be made for sometime and a temporary reduction of the rate would be possible if there were not other contributing causes for its strength. Gossip says that the loan will be for £40,000,000, be guaranteed by the British government and bear 3 per cent. interest. If these details are correct, the loan will be in great demand and not unlikely Consols, which pay only 2½ per cent. after April 1 next, which is 2.7 per cent. at present quotations, will be thrown over in favor of the new bonds. These have no connection with the Transvaal war contribution bonds, which will have no guarantee and will therefore be of a higher demonination, but of which the first issue of £10,000,000 is not to appear until next year. While on this matter, it may be pointed out that in spite of the labor difficulty, the production of the Rand continues to increase, the output for December being 196,023 ounces, compared with 187,375 ounces for November, and a monthy average for the year of about 140,000 ounces. Another great financial operation which cannot fail to affect the money market is the proposed conversion of the Austrian debt of $700,000,000 to 4 per cent. Austria has out silver and paper loans, which are quoted at big discounts, and the country's credit requires that these should be substituted by gold bonds. But this is another matter that throws its shadow a long way before, because the enabling act has yet to be passed. There is always money in these conversions, but Austrian securities are too far out of the way for American capital to take them up. Some indirect relief is anticipated from the fact that the Budget Committee of the French Chamber of Deputies have reported that a loan will not be necessary to meet deficiencies. It is believed from this that there will either be no loan at all or one so small that it will not disturb even the surface of the market. Financial papers report the French to be large buyers of foreign securities, including American railroad bonds, but if there is no more actual sign of the buying of the others than of our railroad bonds the report exaggerates the facts, or the buying is being done in a way that leaves no trace behind it. One thing is clear, and that is that the scare of French capital is over, as the savings bank and other statistics show that the surplus capital is running again into ordinary channels. Throughout Europe the improvement of the business situation is reflected in more confident and cheerful opinions.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE is at a loss to understand what the city stands to gain from the passage of the bill recently introduced at Albany, providing for the separate valuation of the land and the building in the tax assessment books. This provision will complicate the work of the deputy assessors without being of any great assistance to them in their foremost task of hitting off as near as possible the full value of the property assessed. It is probable that no one not intimately familiar with existing real estate conditions can realize how impossible it will be in a great many instances to make any useful dscrimination between the value of the land and the value of the improvements. In the case of modern buildings, of a fixed type, built under rigid economic conditions, it would probably help an expert in making his appraisal to estimate separately the cost of the building and the cost of the land, but such cases constitute less than the majority among all the parcels of Manhattan real estate. The borough is covered with buildings, which while they are of temporary use in providing income for the owner, are almost a negligable quantity in the value. The land is practically vacant land, and sells for the price it does because it is available for a certain kind of re-improvement. How could such houses be valued? If they were burned down to-morrow the land would be as valuable as it is to-day, and yet if the land were written down on the books as worth as much as the house and land together, what would the insurance companies say? Take the case of the old Progress Club for instance. Here is a building which cost about $400,000 to erect about a dozen years ago, yet quite unexpectedly a purchaser was found in 1901, who was willing to pay so much for the land, that the club could afford to throw the building in. How could an appraiser, who was estimating separately the value of the building and the land, have made any sensible discrimination between the two? Thousands of buildings in Manhattan are kept temporarily on the land pending improvement, because they help to pay expenses, but it would defy the powers of the most expert appraiser to place upon them their precise value to the owner. In fact under existing conditions the chief advantage of attempting to separate the value of the land from the value of the improvement would be to prepare the way for the introduction of some scheme of single taxation; and so far as that is the purpose of the proposed legislation, it would be as well to frankly proclaim it. The actual and present value of the whole property is the only value the assessors need to find for the purpose of our present laws, and their hands are full enough as it is in attempting to catch that elusive figure.

WHILE it is not likely that the city ordinances will be amended to give street cars the right of way over other forms of wheeled traffic, something will doubtless be done to regulate the latter in order to serve the great public interest involved in the former. What is most important in this connection and most likely to afford relief is a consideration of the means to be taken to relieve the congestion upon the great arteries of travel. For instance, if the carriageway of Broadway could be widened this would be of great advantage, particularly below Canal st. It has been suggested that this should be done by reducing the width of the sidewalks, but these are now hardly sufficient for the foot traffic of the busy hours of the day and unless compensation could be given for the parts taken this suggestion is impracticable. Compensation may be found by condemning and removing all surface projections beyond the building line, and in view of the utter impossibility of considering an ordinary widening of a downtown throughfare because of the cost, it seems as if this is the only way by which greater freedom of movement upon these streets can be obtained.

THE apparently inspired article in "The Empire Review" of London, explaining that Great Britain and not Germany initiated the allied movement against Venezuela, emphasizes what we said last week of misconceptions that the public form of matters of international politics, and how unsafe it is to accept any but official reports. The statement puts Germany in a much better light than before: First, in moving only on the invitation of Great Britain; and, second, in patiently accepting the onus of being the instigator of the arbitrary action against Venezuela until the real principal revealed himself. Still the press of this country abates none of the suspicion with which it regards all acts of Germany in this hemisphere. This is due to the conspicuous severity, with which Germany has acted when once embarked on the enterprise, but this again may be as capable of explanation as was her entrance upon it. The circumstances seem to suggest that we should throw part of the censure we are so busily applying upon the British ministry, but that may be left to Parliament when it meets, because not only are the British press and people already disgusted with the whole matter; but now, considering their feeling toward popular Germany as a result of the latter's position during the Boer war, they must feel indignant and humiliated that their government have not even the excuse of the misled to justify them for putting the country into such a position. It is easy to conceive that the British government will do everything possible to close the incident satisfactorily before Parliament meets, and this is perhaps the most encouraging feature of the whole business at the present moment.

THERE is a bill in Congress which, if passed, would in all probability prevent a recurrence of monetary stringency such as was experienced last fall, but which languishes for want of an emphatic expression of public opinion to show that it is desired by the people. This is the Fowler assets currency bill. It embodies a principle approved by several successive Secretaries of the Treasury, by bankers who represent the practical as by economists who stand for the academic or theoretical side of the question. In form it expresses the results of a series of experiments made by capable hands, which would provide for an emergency currency appearing with precision with the necessity therefor and, consequently, preferable to the artificial aids to the money market furnished by stretching official powers. It is unnecessary to describe the machinery by which this would be created, as it has been done many times already, and every intelligent business man must be acquainted with it. But it is apparently necessary to throw out a reminder that if this measure is desired, Congress should be made acquainted with the fact and that this can best be done by letters addressed to the representatives of the writers. If business continues as active as it now is, without legislative relief there is every likelihood that there will be another money squeeze in the fall; it is not altogther sure that we will escape one the coming spring and every business man is, therefore, directly interested in seeing that the indicated relief is provided.

IT is to be hoped that the local board will recommend something more than a mere half remedy for the widening of 59th st, and that the property owners on that street will acquiesce in a plan to make the width of the street fully adequate to its manifest future needs. Fifty-ninth st is undoubtedly destined to become one of the most important cross-town streets in Manhattan, just because it is the first cross-town street south of the Park, and because it is in the way of being a most active business centre. Even if it were not proposed to terminate the Blackwell's Island Bridge at 59th st and 2d av, it would still become in the course of time, from the Grand Circle east the line of an enormous amount of traffic, because the districts immediately north and south of it, both east and west of the park are destined to be the location of an extremely dense population. But when it is remembered also, that much of the wagon and the trolley traffic which will eventually be developed between Manhattan and Queens will have to use 59th st to a greater or smaller extent, it will be realized that the greatest width as yet proposed will not be too much for that street. During the last decade the population of Queens increased from about 87,000 to about 153,000. At the same rate of expansion it will be almost 300,000 by 1910, and more than 500,000 by 1920. But it is obvious that after the completion of the Long Island Tunnel and the Blackwell's Island Bridge, the ratio of increase will be much quicker, so that it would not be at all surprising to find 700,000 people living in the borough by the year 1920. It can be imagined how much carriage, truck, and trolley traffic such a population would generate with Manhattan, and it would be both a short-sighted policy and very poor economy to not provide at once for the immense demands which will eventually be made upon the surface of this street.

The Need of a Tax Reform Programme.

NOTHING is more apparent at the present time than the fact that if the real estate interests of New York City want to exercise any effective control over the ways and means of taxation in the future, they must find out what they want, and organize to get it. At the present time they occupy the anomalous position of being the people whose pecuniary interests are most affected by any change in the methods of distributing taxes or assessing taxable assets, while at the same time they are not properly organized either directly or indirectly to protect those interests, or to propose alternate measures for the raising of sufficient money to meet local and State expenses. This would not make so much difference, provided the present distribution of taxation was either just to them or an equitable distribution of public burdens, but as everybody is aware, they are extremely discontented with the present incidence of local and State taxes. It is not simply that an unfair proportion of the actual burden falls upon them, but that the present system is so arranged that every increase in taxes, and every important change in the method of collecting them has a disturbing effect upon real estate business and values. So far as national taxation is concerned, the protected manufacturers have insisted that Congress make as few changes in the tariff as possible, because every such change has a distressing effect upon this business, but in respect to local taxation the property owners most immediately affected are constantly exposed to the inconvenience and loss of just such changes without effective means of redress; and if this is so, it is largely because the property owners themselves are not united, either in the defence of their interests or in the support of a more equally distributed system of taxation.

There is all the more reason why they should seek to agree at the present time upon some proper system of tax equalization, because public opinion has been aroused recently to the extreme necessity of tax revision. Ever since Governor Odell assumed office, he has concentrated all his influence upon the task of bringing about a definite scheme of tax reform. The proclaimed object of all his measures and recommendations is the abolition of the direct State levy upon real estate. Undoubtedly this is an excellent object, so far as it goes, and, if he can bring it about, it would permanently save the real property owners of New York City about $4,000,000 a year, a saving which was only temporarily effected in the current tax levy. But unfortunately the Governor has reached the end of his resources in respect to new sources of special taxation, and the three measures which he proposed in his last message would, if carried out, have the effect of directly or indirectly of collecting from the owners of real estate in New York City the money, which was saved to the owners of real estate all over the State by means of the abolition of the direct tax. As we pointed out last week, the abandonment of the franchise tax would sacrifice between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 a year in local revenues for the sake of securing half that sum to the State, while the tax on mortgages and real estate transfers would fall with a particular weight upon such a center of speculative activity in real estate as is the Greater New York. These new taxes should meet consequently with the most vigorour and determined opposition. It would be better by far to let the general State tax levy remain as it is than to abolish it by the means Governor Odell proposes. It is very probable that in the course of five or six years the income from the special taxes already authorized may increase so largely that it will not be necessary to find additional sources of special taxation.

All the reforms of Governor Odell merely touch the margin of the real problem. The gross anachronism of the present system of taxation, which is responsible for the excessively heavy burdens from which real estate suffers, is the tax on personal property. It is unnecessary at this date to discuss either the policy or the justice of this tax on personal property. It is at once comparatively useless as a source of revenue, grossly unjust in the property it hits or misses, and a public scandal and offence both in the way it is necessarily collected and evaded. But while no one defends the personal property tax on any public ground, whatsoever, it has remained irremovably upon the statute book; and if the property owners of New York wish to have some relief from their direct burdens, they must agree upon some practicable and equitable method of raising money from other people besides real property owners. At the present time the only alternate scheme, which has been seriously urged is the one which has been constantly, but unsuccessfully presented to the Legislature, giving the localities power to assess taxable property in their own way, but this bill has not only met hitherto with little or no success at Albany, but it leaves undecided what measures a city like New York should subsequently take to put its own house in order. There is an influential group of tax reformers, who as we know would like to dispense with the personal property tax entirely without substituting any other tax in its place, but it is safe to say that the real property owners of New York City will have sufficient influence to prevent such a disastrous increase in their burdens. It is safe also to say that there are really only two substitutes for the personal property tax which would be at once easily collected, sufficiently productive, and equitable in the distribution of its burdens. One of these would be a tax on rents, and the other a tax upon business. Both of these taxes would have to be carefully arranged for the purpose of preventing the burden from becoming so considerable as to drive away either population or business from the city; but it is manifest that in spite of initial opposition it would be possible to raise twice as much money from either of these taxes as the sum now raised by the personal property tax without discouraging people from either doing business or living in New York City. If property owners are wise they will begin a serious agitation for tax reform along these lines, and will keep it up until some actual result is achieved.

The Theory of Urban Land Values.

CHAPTER III. LOCATION OF CITIES.

Situations favorable for defence determined the location of ancient cities, as with the Greek colonies on a promontory or an island, the Etruscan cities on hill tops, Athens with the Acropolis, Rome on seven hills, Paris on an island and London in the midst of swamps. In modern times the individual settler locates his cottage to satisfy his first needs for water, wood, grass, shelter, etc., and small settlements are widely scattered in all available spots. It is largely geographical superiority which renders certain localities capable of satisfying more extensive demands and lifts small settlements into cities.

Trade routes, the lines of least resistance between the sources of products and their final markets, have in all ages located commercial cities at the points where a break in transportation occurs. Where a trade route traverses an ocean or lake, cities arise at the harbors which have easy topographical approach from productive regions and from which markets can be readily reached. For example, the phenomenal growth of New York is due to there being but one topograhically easy route from the West through the Appalachian Range to the Atlantic Coast, concentrating the flow of products to New York, aided first by the Erie Canal and later by the New York Central and other railroads. Where a gulf exists, the trading city is commonly located at the innermost angle, as with Christiania, Liverpool, Genoa, Naples, Venice and Hamburg. Where the action of the sea closes harbors, ancient cities were ruined, as with Ephesus, Utica, and the coast cities of Asia Minor and northern Africa, by contrast with which modern cities retain their harbors by constant dredging.

Where the trade route follows a river, cities arise either near the mouth where ocean and river navigation meet, as at New Orleans or Philadelphia, at the head of rivers where river and creek navigation meet, as at Albany, Richmond and St. Paul, at the confluence of two or more rivers or branches of the same river, as at St. Louis, Omaha, Mayence, Coblentz, and Cairo, at the intersection of a river and a canal, as at Richmond, Syracuse, Evansville, and Fort Wayne, at an obstruction in the river requiring unloading, as formerly at Louisville, or at a marked bend changing the direction of a river, as at Cincinnati, Kansas City, Madgeburg, Toulouse, and Lyons.

A river in forming a natural highway forms also a natural barrier to intercourse between its two sides, so that facilities for crossing the river may so concentrate travel as to create a small trade route and thus a town at the river crossing. For example, Harrisburg started at a ferry across the Susquehanna River; Rockford and Reading at fords in the Rock and Schuylkill Rivers, Terre Haute at the bridge of the National Pike across the Wabash River. Deep water in rivers will locate cities, as with Memphis, Vicksburg, Natchez, Bremen, Rotterdam, Antwerp, and Havre. New Orleans owes its location to the fact that the land on which it was built was a few feet higher than any river land within many miles of it.

Land trade routes, prior to the time of railroads, created cities at their intersections, commonly in the centre of great plains, as with Paris, Vienna, Moscow, Berlin, and Prague. Other points were where plain and mountain met, requiring a change in transportation, as with Turin, Milan, Augsburg, and Munich. The old trails from the Missouri River to the West caused the beginning of a number of towns as oufitting points, such as Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, and Topeka.

When railroads were invented, they superseded all other land trade routes, and owing to the greater economy, both in the construction and operation of railroads which follow a water grade, their influence has in most cases strengthened existing cities located by water routes. The exceptions to this occur where railroads run contrary to the general topography of the country, as in the Mississippi Valley, the trade routes now running east and west and not, as originally anticipated, north and south; where mountain barriers are overcome by means of tunnels, such as those under the Alps and the Cascades, and where railroads in process of building have made temporary terminal points, which started cities, as with Worcester and Atlanta.

In manufacturing, the extractive industries locate near raw materials, lumber mills being built near forests, as in Saginaw, Bay City, Minneapolis, and Seattle; iron foundries near iron or coal mines, as in Pittsburg; smelters near gold and silver mines, as in Denver and San Francisco; salt works near salt wells, as in Syracuse, and formerly Lincoln; oil refineries near oil wells, as in Cleveland; salmon canneries near the waters where salmon run, as in Portland and Seattle; friut canneries near orchards, as in Los Angeles and San Jose; beet sugar factories in or near beet sugar fields, as in Saginaw and Bay City. The extractive industries migrate as raw materials are exhausted. Thus the lumber industry has moved from Maine to Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and finally the Pacific Coast, and the meat-packing industry from New York to Buffalo, Indianapolis, Chicago, and finally Kansas City, Omaha, and St. Joseph, near the centre of the corn belt.

Water power, when of sufficient volume and fall and located in a section of natural resources, has created many cities, such as Fall River, Lowell, Minneapolis, Spokane, and Schaffhausen. Also in many cities water power greatly stimulated the early growth, although steam has since supplanted it, as in Providence and Philadelphia. The recent development of electric transmission of water power for long distances is promoting the growth of Buffalo, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore., and Seattle.

As industries become more specialized a steady supply of highly trained labor becomes of greater importance, tending to draw them to the larger cities, but opposed to this is the greater danger of strikes in large cities, which creates a slight counter movement towards smaller villages. A further argument for the larger cities is that they furnish a home market for much of the product, and that being located on trade routes low transportation rates are given, the commercial and industrial factors thus reacting on each other. Climate is a factor to be reckoned with in the textile industries, cotton and woolen manufactures being aided by a moist atmosphere. The general tendency of manufacturing seems to be, first, to create many small towns, and later to promote the growth of the larger cities already started by commerce.

Where politics govern in selecting a city site the location is ordinarily a compromise. Thus Washington was located half way between the north and the south, before the west was developed, and Columbus and Indianapolis were located at the geographical centres of their respective states. The influence of climate in locating cities is shown in such summer resorts as Newport, Bar Harbor, and Lenox, and such winter resorts as Los Angeles, St. Augustine, Atlantic City, and Pasadena.

The exact starting point of cities is worth noting, since all growth consists of movement away from it. To say that a city owes its location to a harbor, to the head of river navigation or to a fertile inland plain, is somewhat indefinite, since a large part of the harbor may be neglected and valueless, and the head of river navigation and the inland plain may furnish many other locations apparently equally desirable and yet not utilized. In the early days when protection was all-important, the fort was the point of origin, but with commercial cities the starting point is the most convenient point of contact with the outer world; this being a wharf where deep water and a high bank meet, if transportation is by water, the intersection of turnpikes topographically located, if transportation is by wagon, and a railroad depot placed for the convenient shipping of products, if transportation is by rail. With river cities the requirement of deep water and a high bank, and further, the avoidance of swift currents, was frequently best met where a creek ran into a river, the first docks of New York being on the creek where Broad St. now is; of Philadelphia, where Dock Creek joined the Delaware River; of Toledo, where Swan Creek joined the Maumee River; of Memphis, where Wolf Creek joined the Mississippi River, and of Richmond, where Shockoe's Creek joined the James River. Where steep hills descend close to the water's edge there are in some instances two starting points for the town, one for business buildings at the water's edge and the other for residences on the hill, as at Richmond, Knoxville, and Kansas City. At Omaha, owing to variations in the height of water, the town started about ten blocks back from the waterfront.

Where the first settlers, having in mind a future city, lay out a plat at the inception of the city, the starting point of the city may be determined arbitrarily, the central point being a public square or a public building. Corporate or private ownership is in some cases sufficiently powerful to alter the location of a city, either by forcing it away from the original point of the older settlement, as at West Superior and Tacoma, or by preventing it from occupying its normal site, as at Houston.

Sometimes the first location of a city is so unsatisfactory that the entire settlement is moved, as with Akron, O., where the soil did not hold the water from the power canal for the flour mill, Hence the mill was moved and the town followed. Also Charleston, S. C., first started on the west bank of the Ashley River, and Mobile moved in 1710 from 27 Mile Bluff. Small towns have been bodily moved either to avoid municipal debt or to secure better locations. Recently in the Dakotas several towns were moved on rollers from six to twelve miles, from the small rivers on which they were first built to the new extension of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. In most cases vested interests, both in the buildings and in the value of the land, are too powerful to permit of a wholesale moving, the efforts of inhabitants being aimed towards counteracting any deficiencies of location by increased or differently directed labor.

While we may properly speak of cities as having started from one centre, the largest cities have swallowed up many villages and towns, both their own offshoots and independent settlements, New York having absorbed Greenwich, Chelsea, Bowery, Harlem, Brooklyn, Long Island City, etc.; Philadelphia having absorbed Spring Garden, Northern Liberties, Kensington, Southwalk, Moyamensing, etc., and Boston having absorbed Roxbury, Dorchester, Charleston, Brighton, East Boston, South Boston, etc. The impetus of the chief city is so great as to practically obliterate the influence of the smaller towns.

The importanee of studying the geographical location of cities is due to the insight thus obtained into their structure, the distribution of population conforming to the same principles within a city as without. Topography operates in a similar manner, whether within or without a city, in causing population to flow along the same levels. Water surfaces, whether within or without a city, if navigable, facilitate the movement of population, and if non-navigable prevent it. The law of continuity is the same, every city being a link in the chain stretching from the first settlements in a country to the last, and every growth within a city a part of the chain of development which first reaches the city from the outside and continues its life within. Manufacturing has the same centralizing effect, whether on a large scale it creates a city or on a small scale it builds up a district within a city. The small streams of products from the farm, the forest or the mine flowing together on the way to their markets, create trade routes, and similarly the inhabitants of a city, controlled by economic forces and flowing together on their daily way to their places of business, create traffic streets or city trade routes. Railroads which create cities at their terminals and, in lesser degree, at their transfer points, have their counterpart in street railroads which draw utilities and values to their terminals, and, in lesser degree, to their lines and street intersections. Finally, the law of gravitation, which draws bodies together in direct proportion to their mass and in inverse proportion to their distance, operates similarly in drawing together two cities or in drawing together two sections within the same city.

The Real Estate Situation

There were no prominent sales during the week which indicated any unfamiliar lines of activity, but there were a couple of announcements made about 5th av property, which deserve some comment. One of these is the statement that Mr. W. E. Finn, the purchaser of the old Waterbury residence, at the northeast corner of 5th av and 11th st, proposes to improve the property with a 10-sty apartment house. This announcement will undoubtedly be a relief to the inhabitants of the neighborhood, who are extremely desirous that this part of 5th av shall preserve its residential character. So far business has not intruded south of 12th st, and it may be expected that it will not do so in the immediate future. During the last few years several apartment hotels have been built in this vicinity, on or just off the avenue, but there has been apparently no temptation for business men to pay the prices property owners demand. This is as it should be. The preservation of Washington Square North as a residential oasis in the midst of the surrounding waste of business adds an agreeable variety to the city, and provides a place of habitation for people who want central locations at prices that are not excessive. The wonder is not that sections like Chelsea Square, Grammercy Park, Stuyvesant Square, and Washington Square North have been preserved for respectable residential houses, but that during all these years of deficient transit facilities, these sections have not been covered, as parts of the West Side are covered, with nothing but modern apartment houses. The fact that the property around these squares has been improved only to a moderate extent is a curious illustration of the extent to which fashionable motives prevail among people who do not pretend to be fashionable. The other noticeable 5th av transaction is the purchase by Marshall Field of No. 287 5th av, which gives Mr. Field the whole block front on the east side of 5th av, from 30th to 31st st, except No. 289. There is probably no more interesting subject for guessing in the whole field of undetermined real estate operations than that of the purpose for which Mr. Field is acquiring this property. It is incredible that he is piecing together a block front merely to invest his money, for he is paying such high prices, that the present income from the properties must be a poor percentage upon the capital involved. There is consequently every reason to suppose that he wants a block front for some definite purpose, and the only kinds of purpose for which such property could be used would be either a high-class dry goods store or a hotel. As a hotel is unlikely there remains only the first alternative. Of course these calculations may be all wrong, but what an immense boom it would give to business and values on 5th av, if retailers such as Altman and Marshall Field should establish thereon handsome and spacious modern stores.

A Couple of 5th Avenue Sales.

Last week the Record and Guide mentioned the fact that the market was manifestly broadening, and that statement has been confirmed to a remarkable extent by the business of the past week. Fully 100 sales are reported in our "Gossip" columns, and chiefly of small residential properties situated all over the city. There are a number of purchases for improvement, a number for investment, and a number merely for speculation. The activity in spite of the comparatively quiescence of some of the larger railroad and realty corporations exceeds even the big totals of last year, and if it is maintained will make the year 1903 a most extraordinary year in the history of New York real estate. Although the proportion of speculative transactions is large and must necessarily remain so, still there is evidence of a widespread interest in real estate, and one which is likely to increase during the next year or so. If this is so, one of the first signs of such general interest will be the greater activity and vitality of the auction market, which made a good beginning during the past week. The event in this branch of the business was the sale by Peter F. Meyer of four 6th av parcels, one on 3d av and one lot on 8th av. With the exception of the 8th av, and one 6th av lot, the properties offered were all choice corners, and the offering served to draw the largest audience that has been in the auction room for some weeks. The bidding for the property offered was good; and while it is not known at present whether the buyers represented interested parties, there was an abundance of outside bidding by the speculative contingent up to almost the prices at which the various parcels were finally knocked down. The two 38th st corners which were the cream of the sale fetched top prices. No. 765 6th av, which adjoins "Jack's" well-known restaurant went for $50,000. If the owner of the restaurant turns out to be the buyer he certainly secured a bargain. The 8th av lot was bought by the United States Realty Corporation, and taking into consideration that they own all the balance of the block they did very well to purchase the remaining lot at $36,000. Altogether it was an excellent beginning to the spring auction business.

Brokers for Real Estate Assessors.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

How is the assessor to arrive at a proper valuation, and how is he to become properly fortified for the individual arguments, which daily arise, from persons who justly or otherwise, wish to have the valuation on their particular holdings readjusted for their benefit? In regard to the appraisal of city real estate at its full value, in my opinion, there are no men fully qualified to appraise real estate generally throughout Manhattan Island, or even a large section of same, for there are always many changes always occuring to alter valuations. After considerable thought on the subject, I offer the following suggestions: Have as assistants to appraisers, two real estate brokers in the immediate district, who know the values, and if it be necessary on account of structures on certain properties, have the local board enlarged to three, taking in one active builder, who is in touch with such improvements. This board of three could act in conjunction with the assessor for that certain district. The aggrieved real estate holder would then have to present a very strong case, and also thrash out his argument with his nearest and best-posted real estate dealer. This would simplify the work of the equalization board. It would then be possible for the Tax Board to call before it the local real estate appraiser of any district (when there appeared an inequality or apparent partiality shown in lists) for fuller explanation. For the city's best interest, it might be well to place the compensation for this work on a very moderate percentage basis, thereby insuring to the city a better class of work, and, it would leave to the assessors and their assistants to qualify their work done. In the downtown districts, where there are so many large office buildings, it might be well to enlarge the number of assistants or give them smaller districts. No one would object to this line of appraisal if they were assured the same careful and conscientious policy were carried out throughout the city, and until this or something similar is done, I fail to see how we are to arrive at a fair and equitable valuation.

There are a great number of real estate brokers who are competent to fill all requirements. The Real Estate Board of Brokers (although I am not a member) have on their list many men of ability, and who would be perfectly competent to carry out this line of work. I have no private axe to grind in this matter, but what suggested the idea was the fact that one client of our's who owns three pieces of property, one piece being on the East Side, one piece in Harlem, and the other lying on the West Side of town are assessed as follows: One piece at $36,000 less than he has been offered and refused. Another at $10,000 less than he would take, and the third at $500 more than his asking price. The three pieces, lying as they do in different sections of the city, have been improved for the last twelve years, have each, in all probability, been assessed by different assessors. Quite a number of other properties which we have looked into for our clients, show as wide differences. If you will place this before your readers it may open a way to secure justice for all.

Yours very truly, JOHN T. DUFF.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

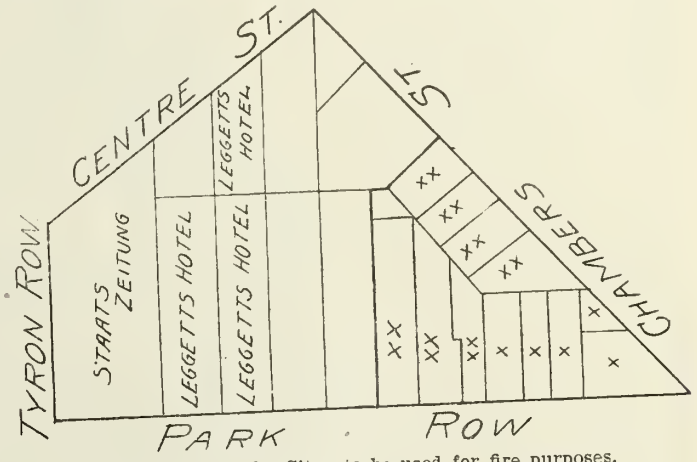
Dear Sir: I regret to see that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided against the law requiring brokers to have a signed authority when offering property for sale.

Although Judge Woodward, who makes this decision, is learned in the law, and in that respect is supposed to be beyond the criticism of a layman, I cannot help but feel that this law was a just and beneficial one. Far from being harmful and interfering with brokers, it really was a great protection against dishonest and slippery real estate owners, and at the same time protected the honest owner from the shyster who carries his office in his hat.



There are certain rules and regulations which apply to every business to keep it within certain bounds, and for the mutual protection of those engaged therein.

Why should the real estate business be made an exception?

Yours, J. J. ARNOT.

Opposition to a Proposed Fire House.

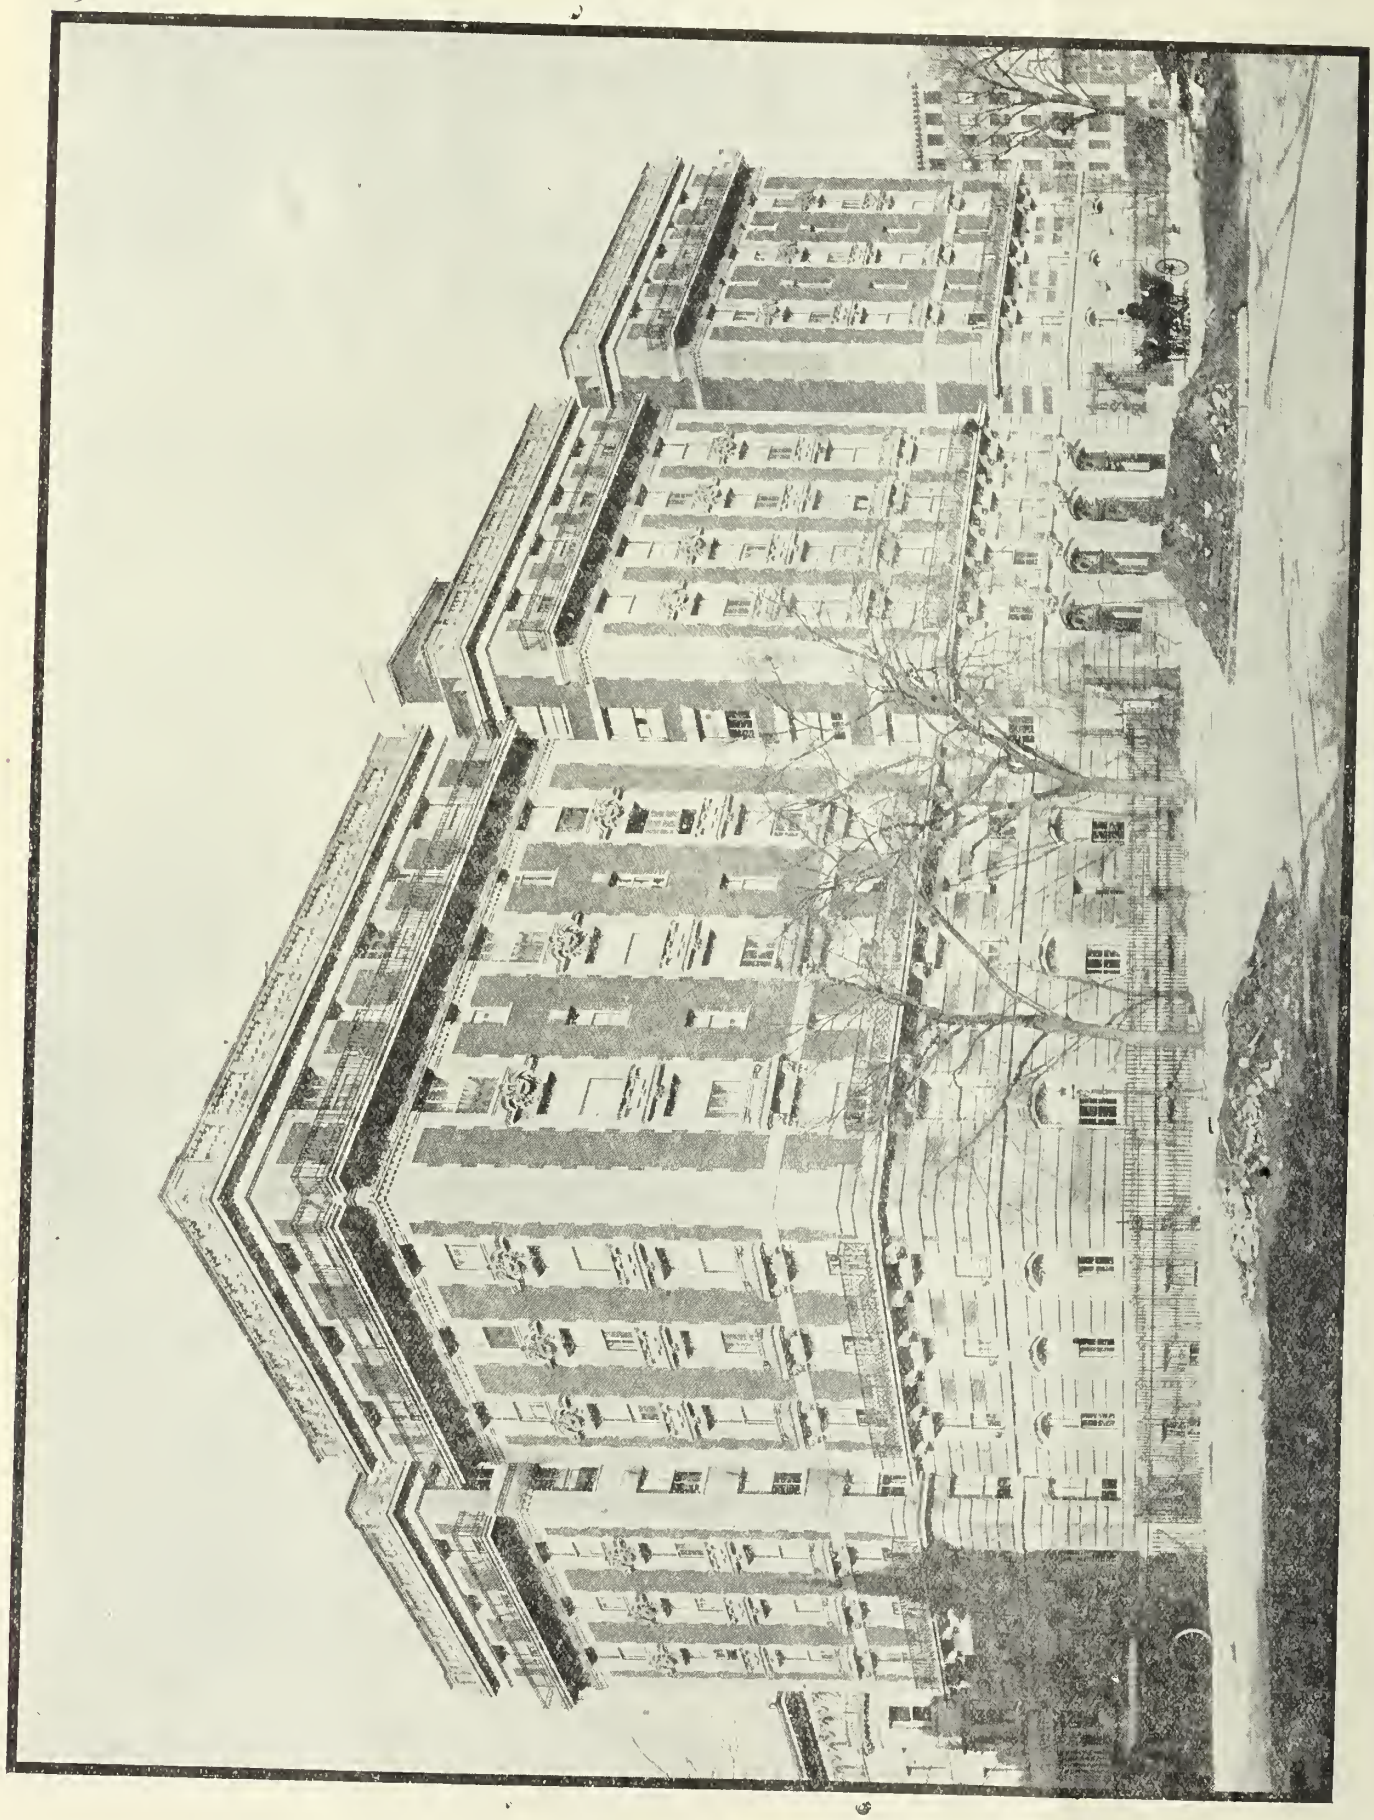
Regret is expressed that the city, which owns a parcel of land on the southwest corner of Chambers st and Park Row, has determined to devote part of it to a use hardly in consonance with the ambition which others have formed for the neighborhood. The city's property has a frontage of 138.3 on Park Row, and 159.10 on Chambers st, and is situated in a block that has been often marked as a site for grand purposes. Recently, however, plans were completed for a hook-and-ladder and engine-house to extend through the block and have a frontage of 92 feet on Chambers st and 60 feet on Park Row, the cost of the building to be $80,000. The wisdom of selecting such a position for a fire-engine house, however ornate and elaborate its architectural design, cannot be perceived by citizens more deeply interested in the locality than city officers can possibly be. As the block is only across the way from the City Hall Park, and faces the open place in front of the entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge, it has a commanding situation, and one certain to be required sometime for nobler purposes than that to which its principal area is yet devoted. Not only is the site considered too good for an engine-house, but it is also, for physical reasons, deemed unfitted.

X X. Owned by the City; to be used for fire purposes.
X. Owned by the City.



It would be impossible to run a hook-and-ladder truck out of the house to Park Row with any degree of facility, both because of the narrowness of the thoroughfare and its frequently congested condition; and should the Chambers st side be selected for the main exit, the house would have to be set back from the street line fully 8 ft. in order to secure the room in which to turn the long fire-truck. Moreover, as it is said that eight out of ten calls for the fire-engine now stationed at the corner of Chambers and Centre sts are for fires east of Park Row, it would seem the part of wisdom to cast about for a site east of the Row, in a quarter where the presence of a fire-house would do no damage to property values, and where it would be more conveniently placed for service.

Again, does it not decrease the value of the city's other lots in that corner of the block to cut out a slice so important, when the tract is considered as a whole? Would it not be wiser, if the city has no finer edifice to set there, to sell the whole plot and buy a fire-house site in a neighborhood where sites are less valuable? So it seems to some. The entire plot is now covered by old buildings, which are rented very low considering the value of the land they occupy; and while the city is quite right in wishing to put the land to better use, it might perhaps with advantage pause to consider the recommendations which interested citizens are making, as above indicated.

Advantages of Washington Heights.

The statement of William Barclay Parsons, chief engineer of the Rapid Transit construction, that trains will be running in the Subway by October 1, 1903, has doubtless called the attention of investors and builders to the upper part of Manhattan Island, and particularly to Washington Heights. Rapid transit will benefit this district more than any other section of the city, as it has hitherto been inaccessible on account of the lack of proper transportation facilities. The scheduled time for trains in the Subway from 157th st to the City Hall will be but twenty minutes, about ten minutes less than it now takes from 81st st, which means bringing Washington Heights in point of time nearer to the lower part of the city than the West Side is to-day.

When speaking of the future of this section, Mr. William D. Morgan, who is prominent in that section, said: "Washington Heights is high, healthy, and has many natural advantages; the avenues are wide, and most of the streets are well paved and sewered. The city has made a number of improvements there, such as the Speedway, the Boulevard Lafayette, and the Riverside Drive extension, which is nearing completion. The effect on Washington Heights property of the running of the Rapid Transit road cannot be otherwise than beneficial, and will enhance values materially. The opportunity for building operations

EUCLID HALL; BROADWAY, 85TH AND 86TH STREETS.

George Hill, Architect.

The subject of this interesting picture is a good example of the modern apartment house, though not among the largest and most costly. Situated on the west side of Broadway, it measures on the ground 102.5x112 feet, and contains seven stories. The owner is Mr. H. Dongan, of 2291 Broadway, and the total cost was $600,000. In the exterior walls brick and stone appear in very pretty combination. The mason work was done by Slattery Bros.; the carpenter work (rough), by Paul B. Pugh & Co.; steam heating, Mulhern Steam Heating Co.; plumbing, Byrne & Murphy; iron, Simons & Morsefelder; cut stone, Hughes & Scanlon; roofing, Schwoerer & Co.; fireproofing, John W. Rapp; electric work, Brown & McClure; plastering, Campbell & Morgan; tiling, Alfred Boote Co.; trim, Kertscher & Co.; decorating, Albert Scott & Co.

is pronounced, the section being desirable for improvements by the erection of a fine class of private dwellings and apartment houses.

"Land at the present time is worth, I should say, from $4,000 to $15,000 per lot, which would enable the builders to produce a private dwelling for $15,000 to $30,000. Compared with the West Side, where lots are selling at $15,000 to $50,000, and dwellings from $30,000 to $75,000; this section should appeal to the investor or builder as a good business proposition. At the present time the apartments are all well-filled, and upon the running of the road the demand will far exceed the supply. Obviously, then, now is the time to secure bargains in private houses, which will surely increase in value in the near future."

The N. Y. Central and the Subway.

It has been both affirmed and denied that the New York Central will have the privilege of using the Subway tracks downtown; but from the latest intimations we are inclined to believe that the connection will be made. The questions to be settled are as to the allotment of cost and the traffic schedule; and inasmuch as these are the subjects of discussion, it is a fair assumption that the fudamental proposition has been conditionally agreed to. When the motive power on the suburban lines of the Central has been changed to electricity, the equipment will be uniform with that of the Subway; and no violence will be done to Subway methods by the admittance of Central trains. It is known that the New York Central is disposed to make the most liberal concessions to the Interborough Company, which controls the Subway.

The first public announcement of the exact terms of agreement between the city and the New York Central, in regard to the railroad terminal improvements, is expected to be in the form of a bill introduced in the Legislature to secure permission for making the changes. Doubtless in this act a connection with the Subway will also be legally provided for. It is understood that the railroad company will not be restricted to the use of electricity as a motive power, but may employ any power except compressed air or steam. Clearly, transportation changes of a revolutionary kind are impending. Presently we shall be entering comfortable railroad coaches at the City Hall and riding swiftly and uninterruptedly many miles up the State without being obliged to change cars, or being troubled by locomotive smoke and cinders. The Pennsylvania Railroad tunnels under the North and East Rivers will duplicate in a large degree the enterprise of its rival for the benefit of those who live in New Jersey and farther westward, and on Long Island. The effect of it all will be to gradually, in the course of years, transform Manhattan Island, at least below 59th st, into an arena of business almost exclusively; just as the city below the Bridge is now devoted exclusively to business. It will be unlike any other city in the world, a place to which half a million men will pour down every morning to grapple and contend with Business, and in the evening hie themselves back through subways and tunnels and over bridges to the mainland, drawn by invisible electric cords to their various village homes, where flowers have room to bloom and the roar of the L is not heard.

When the Fire Was Out.

The fire in the Franklin Building, on Murray st, was a test of much severity for fireproof construction, and the triumph of the latter was very complete. The fire raged with intensity in a printing office on the sixth floor, and would have been confined to that office if it had not been for the pipeways to the floor above. Trough these the flames crept, and an engineering and patent office situated immediately above the printery, was destroyed, so far as its contents were concerned. The interior walls, floors and ceilings withstood the flames, and the safety of the building was in nowise impaired; the most serious damage is a crack in the exterior wall, noticeable in the jamb of a window. The frames of most of the windows were burnt away, and these were practically the only parts of the structure that did burn. The one weak spot was found by the flames, else they would have been confined to the floor where they originated.

Bedford Branch Library.

The Bedford Branch of the Brooklyn Public Library will be a notable edifice when completed. The exterior is designed as a rectangular mass, unbroken in facade, with an extension in the rear for offices and book stacks. The street facade, directly opposite the axis of Hancock st, is designed in three bays, of which the centre one forms the main entrance to the library.

The material is Bedford stone, combined with brick of a soft red tone, and the three main openings in this front are treated in such a way as to emphasize the importance of the main reading room, in the first story, the windows in the second story being placed between the main cornice and a broad sill course, thus giving to this story the aspect of a frieze.

It is said that the building depends for its architectural beauty when completed wholly upon the careful study of proportion in its various parts, rather than upon any elaboration of ornament or sumptuousness of material.

State Legislation for New York City.

Section 762 of the Greater New York Charter prohibits any person from standing, or sitting, in any aisle or passageway of a place of amusement. Senator Grady has introduced an amendment to the effect that the lobby space in the rear of and between the inside aisles and passageways may be used for standing-room only in such manner as not to obstruct the inside aisles.

Senator Elsberg has introduced a bill to amend the domestic relations law, in regard to conveyances by husband and wife to each other. Husband and wife may by the present law convey or transfer real or personal property directly one to the other, without the intervention of a third person, and Senator Elsberg proposes that the wife may release directly to her husband her inchoate right of dower in any real property held by him, and the husband may release directly to his wife his tenancy by courtesy in any real property held by her.

Senator Dowling has a bill that provides for a test vote in the City of New York in regard to the municipal ownership of municipal transportation lines, and of municipal gas and electric light plants. By the terms of the measure it is made the duty of the commissioners of election, as a part of their preparation for the general election to be held in November of this year, to prepare a separate ballot with the questions printed thereon. In case a majority of all the votes cast in such election should be in the affirmative, it would then be the duty of the Mayor of the City of New York to appoint a non-partisan commission of five citizens to devise means of carrying out the affirmative will.

Mr. Ramsperger's bill to provide for the better protection of life and property in the building and operation of freight and passenger elevators, requires an automatic electric alarm to notify the engineer of a break or parting of the rope used in operating an elevator.

Senator McCarren has handed up a measure to provide for the erection of a municipal building in the City of New York for offices and courts. Authority is given for the appointment of a commission to select a site in Manhattan Borough, to construct the building over streets, and upon a portion of City Hall Park, to remove the brownstone building now occupied by the City Court, the Register's Office, the fire-engine-house and the County Court House, to institute proceedings for the condemnation of land, to advertise for the submission of plans and specifications for the building, and to award contracts for construction, when the plans have been approved by the art commission. Full authority is given to the commission to complete and furnish the buildings, and to the usual officers to issue bonds in payment of the total cost. The framers of the bill have in view the seizing of property not now owned by the city in the square, or block, bounded on the south by Chambers st, and opposite City Hall Park. They would put Chambers st in an arcade and build over it, and so provide room in one great structure for many municipal offices now occupying rented quarters. They would remove structures that now only encumber City Hall Park, and would make the historic Hall itself more prominent in its position.

By Assemblyman Fitzpatrick.—To set apart a pier at the foot of 36th st, East River, for recreation purposes.

By Assemblyman Hinson.—To amend the transportation corporations law, relating to inspectors of gas meters. The bill provides for the appointment of a gas and electrical chemist, by the State, at a salary of $2,500 a year, to test samples of gas and the candle-power of electric lights. The object is to protect consumers.

By Assemblyman Butler.—Providing for the registration of master or employing hydraulic, steam, and hot-water fitters, and for public supervision of such work.

By Assemblyman Byrne.—Increasing the salaries of the Aldermen of New York City from $1,000 to $2,000.

By Senator Dowling.—To amend the Franchise Tax Law by wiping out the separation of franchise assessments from the assessments on other classes of real estate, thus leaving both the assessment and the collection of the tax in the hands of local boards of assessors.

What Brokers Think of the Decision of the Appellate Division.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Sir: I have read with much interest the decision handed down by Justice Woodward in the case of Grassman vs. Caminez.

While from a purely legal standpoint this decision may be a good one, yet I cannot but feel (with most brokers I am sure) that the provision of Chapter 128 of the laws of 1901, were most beneficial to the real estate business and helped to lift it to a higher plane. That there are "dishonest owners of real estate, as well as dishonest brokers," is only an argument in favor of the signed authority, for, armed with this, no broker need fear that the question of his commission being rightly earned will ever come up. Yours very sincerely, HERMAN A. PORTER.

On Tuesday, Feb. 3d, James L. Wells will sell at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, a number of properties situated in the middle district of Manhattan and admirably suited for improvement. Among them the following parcels call for special notice: No 129 Front st, Nos. 126-128 East 13th st, Nos. 107-113 West 25th st, No. 112 West 26th st, Nos. 261-265 West 33d st, Nos. 355-357 West 36th st, Nos. 220-222 West 41st st, No. 253 West 47th st, and a plot on East 53d st, between 3d and Lexington avs. Titles are guaranteed free of cost, and books, maps, etc., may be seen at the auctioneer's offices, No. 141 Broadway.

On Feb. 19th there will be sold at public auction at No. 72 Woodworth av, Yonkers, by the receivers of the late firm of W. & J. Kellcck, stone merchants, the interest which that firm had in the premises at the foot of Wells av in that city, and the stock of stone on hand, and all the tools, horses, wagons, etc., used formerly by them in their business.

Attention is directed to the announcement on another page that a large piece of water front property, on the north corner of 36th st and East River, with all wharfage and cranage rights, is for lease for a term of years at moderate rental. Applications should be addressed to Henry Keale, of No. 25 Broad st, for further particulars.

Retirement of Francis C. Moore.

In retiring from the Presidency of the Continental Insurance Co., and thus severing his connection with the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, Mr. Francis C. Moore has also resigned as a member of the Board of Examiners. In resigning from the latter body Mr. Moore addressed to its chairman the following letter:

"In consequence of the termination of my official connection with The Continental Fire Ins. Co., which disqualifies me as a delegate from the New York Board of Fire Underwriters to the Board of Examiners, it becomes necessary for me to notify you that I shall be unable to attend any more meetings.

"I cannot retire from this Board without expressing my appreciation of the privileges of membership and the value of association with the competent men who compose it. I have never, in a long and busy life, met with gentlemen who seemed to bring to their task a higher sense of duty to the city, as well as to those whose grievances were submitted to their consideration, than in the case of this important Board."

Following the receipt of that communication the Board of Examiners passed the following resolution:

"The resignation of Mr. Francis C. Moore from membership in this Board of Examiners after a service of over eight years thereon as the representative of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, is deemed a civic loss by his fellow members. His recognized standing among underwriters as the leading authority on fire insurance subjects was fully maintained during his term of membership in this Board; and from a broader standpoint even than that of the great business interests which he so ably represented, his influence and vote were always for justice and liberality in determining questions submitted to the Board. Never narrow-minded, wise and generous within the restrictions imposed by the laws and ordinances under which the appeal cases had to be decided, with an intimate and extended knowledge of building construction both in practice and in theory, earnest and painstaking in every duty imposed on him, his fellow members hereby record their appreciation of the faithful and able services rendered by Mr. Moore, and their regret that in consequence of his retirement from the insurance business his connection has been severed with this Board of Examiners."

Real Estate Notes.

The Sterling Realty Co. informs us that Nos. 18 and 20 West 32d st has not been sold.

Mary Casson is the buyer of No. 76 West 47th st, reported sold in our last issue. M. E. Hewitt & Co. were the brokers.

Mandelbaum & Lewine will on May 1 move to Nos. 135 and 137 Broadway, where they have rented a suite of offices on the third floor.

H. Rinaldo & Bro. were the brokers in the sale of the northwest corner of Grand and Lewis sts to Jackson & Stern, reported in our last issue.

F. De R. Wissmann, H. S. Leverich and W. H. Wadhams are directors of the Reliance Realty Co., incorporated on Thursday with a capital of $50,000.

E. V. Pescia negotiated the lease of three 7-sty tenements, Nos. 306 to 310 East 106th st, recorded on Tuesday. The term is five years, and aggregate rental $36,000.

Leopold Weil negotiated the sale of the old Macy store on 13th and 14th sts, a 9-sty structure, transferred this week to Herman Sielcken. The consideration is said to be $1,100,000.

After 35 years' occupancy of offices at 299½ Broadway, Wm. C. Walker's Sons are removing temporarily to 321 Broadway. The old buildings are coming down to make way for the towering Barclay Building.

Wm. Cruikshank's Sons are specialists in the general management of real estate. Their offices continue at the old stand, 51 Liberty st. Wm. M. and Edward A. Cruikshank comprise the firm.

The Realty Company of America has been incorporated with a capital of $325,000. Herbert Dongan, S. L. Chamberlin and F. C. Kronmeyer, the latter of No. 2 Wall st, are directors. Mr. Dongan built Euclid Hall, on Broadway, 85th and 86th sts.

The long-established business of Sydney Fisher continues to increase in volume, because of intelligent and painstaking efforts on behalf of all clients, whose properties are managed or rents collected. Mr. Fisher's office is in the Appellate Building, 58 Lexington av, corner 25th st.

D. H. Scully is one of the hustling and successful realty workers with offices north of Central Park. His well-equipped quarters at 57 East 125th st, between Park and Madison avs, are well-known to owners, operators and builders. His lists of properties for sale and exchange include many desirable parcels.

The 67 and 69 Wall St. Company was incorporated in New Jersey on Thursday with a capital of $250,000, by Louis B. Dailey, Kenneth K. McLaren and H. O. Coughlan. Mr. McLaren is a professional incorporator, with New York offices at 135 Broadway. The property mentioned stands in the name of Wm. F. Havemeyer.

The U. S. Cabinet officers who came this week to spy out a site for the new post-office, returned to Washington without leaving an inkling of their decision. There is even some apprehension that their proceedings were started too late to secure action by this session of Congress. At any rate, the net result of the visitation, so far as the public yet knows, is nothing.

J Straus & Son have sold Nos. 937 and 939 Jefferson av, two 4-sty brick double flats, for J. Straus to H. Berman, and No. 92 South 2d st, a 3-sty and basement house, for Herman Berman to Adolph Leiffer.

Raymond F. Almirall, 4th av and 42d st, Brooklyn, has prepared plans for a branch building of the Brooklyn Public Library, librarian's office, No. 26 Brevoort pl, which will be located at Pacific st and 4th av. The material is red brick and limestone and the plans embody all the requirements of a public library. Other plans in preparation are for the Williamsburg Branch, to be located at Rodney st, Division and Marcy avs; the De Kalb Branch, corner of Bushwick and De Kalb avs; Greenpoint Branch, corner Norman av and Leonard st.

The McNulty & Fitzgerald Co. have sold the famous Kouwenhoven farm, in Flatlands, Brooklyn, to a syndicate of Philadelphia capitalists, which intends to subdivide and improve it for resale in building sites. The property comprises 100 acres between East 52d and East 59th sts, with frontages also on Avenues G to I and Paerdegat, Flatlands and Ralph avs. It brought about $1,500 an acre. The contract of sale was executed yesterday by J. B. and T. G. B. Kouwenhoven and the estate of P. G. Kouwenhoven. The syndicate was represented by Aaron Osterman.

For the New Bridge Approach.

The hearings on the proposition to widen Delancey st, to facilitate approach to the Williamsburgh Bridge, having been closed, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to widen the street on the south side from 75 to 100 feet, the exact space to be decided at the next meeting of the board, ater a report from the engineers.

A resolution was also passed to open a new street between Broome and Spring sts, 80 feet west of the Bowery.

Loaned Over $39,000,000 Last Year.

The World of Building

Material Market.

BRICK.

The Hudson River being tightly shut by ice, there will probably be no communication with the producers for some weeks, the ice being heavy. The supply at the wharves, both on uncovered and covered boats, is being taken up, except in two or three instances. Some Long Island brick is now coming forward, and there is no present probability of a shortage before the river opens. Prices are quite unsettled, varying almost with every cargo. The sale of an order is an event of mark, a subject for diplomatic negotiations, which usually end by the buyer yielding. In several instances $6.50 has been paid for brick which in midsummer would not be classed as special.

Mr. Francis N. Howland, of Candee & Smith, remarked this week: "There are very few brick in the market at present owing to continued cold weather preventing barges from going to Haverstraw, but most of the yards have quite some stock on hand, so that we do not fear a famine. It is difficult for us to determine at this time the prospects of the coming season; but from talks with architects and builders we judge the demand will fully equal last season's. We should imagine the prospects are good for the brick manufacturers' association holding their present organization together, so as to show a bold front to those who are now trying to unionize their boatmen, and possibly labor in the yards, even though nothing else be in prospect this coming year."

The suggestion of the Record and Guide, that the Association of Brick Manufacturers and allied trade societies should call the attention of State and municipal authorities to the desirability of encouraging home industry, has been well received, and some results may in due time become apparent. Fire brick manufacturers are negotiating for a consolidation, outside of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company of Pittsburgh. The new undertaking will be capitalized at $15,000,000, and 32 outside fire brick manufacturers have given options on their plants. The largest company that will probably go into the consolidation are the Reese-Hammond Fire Brick Company, with offices in Pittsburgh, and works at Bolivar, Pa.

STONE AND SLATE.

The trade of artificial stone-making has developed in recent years in high degree, and the product for many purposes is much esteemed. There are various sorts, and as many ways of manufacturing, but in one kind the ingredients are 4 to 6 per cent. of lime and 94 to 96 per cent. of sand. It is, in fact, an artificial sandstone. The ingredients are mixed and shaped into blocks, then placed in a boiler and exposed to steam for ten hours with a pressure of 120 lbs. to 150 lbs. per square inch. The pressure and chemical action combined bring about a union with the calcium in the limestone and the silicate in the sand, and these combined form a flint-like compound. Another type of artificial stone is made with cement and hydraulic material at the ordinary temperatures. To imitate natural stone, soluble glass is often utilized to bind together varied materials, as it reacts with lime and burnt clay.

The composition called plastic slate has much vogue in the metropolis. It consists mainly of finely pulverized quarry slate and asphaltic oil, forming a weather-proof cement. Upon the roof boards is laid first a layer of sheathing paper, then one of felt, followed by two courses of asphaltic slate with one of felt between; then in alternate layers, two courses of felt and two of plastic slate, making eight layers in all. Exposure to sun and atmosphere solidifies the entire mass into a strong body, which is semi-fireproof, i. e., slow burning. The cement itself is not combustible, but the interlayers are less resisting. When it is required that the roof shall be absolutely fire-resisting, the felt is chemically treated and rendered non-combustible, or is replaced by asbestos. Roof gardens of plastic slate are frequently seen, and are formed by reinforcing the standard specification with one or more trowel courses in alternation with felting. For this use the cement is applied of an extra thickness and density to withstand the greater wear; is strong and durable, and of so little weight that no changes in the substructure are required. Laid over roof boards or concrete on dwellings, apartment houses, institutions, etc., a plastic slate roof garden practically adds an extra and spacious summer recreation room to the building; and when inclosed with glass, for a whole year. This roofing is put on over existing tin, shingles or slate, as well as on new buildings. The price is, for 90 per cent. of the jobs, from 4 to 6 cents per square foot.

E. J. Johnson & Co. report that the stock of common roofing slate is at this time exceedingly scarce, more so than it has been in the past, and that prices are being held firmly.

CEMENT.

The Rosendale mills are mostly closed now, according to mid-winter custom; but the Portland mills are in full cry. Prices are firmer, if anything, than a week ago, and this not owing to agreement, manufacturers and dealers say. "Supply and demand will regulate prices; no mere association, such as the one just formed, can do it; the performances of some members in the market won't jibe with their speeches in the meeting."

Mr. W. P. Corbett, of Sinclear & Babson, sales agent for Alsen's American Portland Cement, when speaking this week of the general status of the market, said: "Our views for the near future are optimistic. However, the cement business has been more speculative than the stock market. Prices dropped about one year ago as low as 85 cents at the mill for first-grade American Portland, a figure at which few factories would have been able to continue work for any length of time. Without warning and unforeseen by the most astute judges, prices advanced in rapid jumps until an increase of 100% was reached in a few months. Since then quotations have ruled firm, although at this season, as should be expected, there is a moderate reaction. Barring a labor war or other unfortunate calamity, we anticipate a very large demand and high prices for standard brands for 1903. Such situation will unfortunately probably result in many inferior foreign and domestic Portlands, being foisted upon the market at the flood, a probably inevitable result in all lines of business under similar conditions."

Mr. John P. Kane, who makes the "Trowel Brand," said: "Business was never better, and the year 1903 promises to be the banner year with us."

FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION.

Mr. Guy B. Waite, of the Guy B. Waite Company, when interrogated by the Record and Guide, replied: "We think the prospects bright for moderate and large operations; there is less of the cheaper class in sight. Portland cements are firmly held at the top notch in prices; manufacturers are not anxious to close large contracts. We are inclined to think that there exists an understanding among important cement manufacturers about prices to be charged. Steel can be furnished more promptly than last year, and there seems to be more soliciting for sales than last year."

Alignum is a material that is acquiring prominence. It is a mineral substitute for wood, especially designed for the interior finish of buildings, where fireproof construction is desired. It is absolutely incombustible, and has been approved by our building department for use where fireproof construction is required. It is easily worked with tools into any desired form, does not shrink or swell, and is susceptible of highly artistic finish either in plain finish or the imitation of any wood desired. Thomas Mathews, secretary of the Alignum Company, says: "Hitherto we have made a specialty of doors, trim, flooring, wainscoting, stair treads, etc. It may be readily adapted to other uses, but so far we have limited ourselves to the lines named."

The Wight-Easton-Townsend Company, engineers and contractors, are manufacturing a lock-woven steel fabric for fireproofing uses in floors, roofs, partitions, bridges, piers and grillwork. It is claimed that for reinforcing concrete a slender, flexible member at frequent intervals is better than rigid members at wider intervals. This fabric being furnished in lengths of 300 to 500 feet, can be used continuously from wall to wall, and in double or triple folds for great strength.

IRON AND STEEL.

At the bar-iron meeting here last week an effort to advance prices failed, though the minority yet hope to induce the rest to come to their terms. In structural material we understand that foreign manufacturers are advancing their prices. The delivery of domestic beams is considerably more prompt than heretofore, and at lower prices. The supply of angles under 3 inches has recently become so plentiful that some cutting is reported. In the smaller lines of staple hardware values have shrunk not a little; the word "demoralized" is even being used in regard to them. Yet the tide of business is full; orders are coming in to manufacturers in increased volume. It would seem as if a determination had been made in various lines of iron and steel products to be more accommodating to small builders, to induce perhaps more general operations in real estate construction during the coming year.

PAINTS.

The National Lead Company has raised the price of White Lead, dry or in oil, Red Lead and Litharge, under date of January 23. White Lead in oil is now quoted at 6¼ cents per pound, for lots of 500 pounds and over, and at 6¾ cents a pound for smaller orders. Large buyers are not placing orders for linseed oil; the market has a firm tone. Turpentine is bullish, and consumers are purchasing in smallest possible quantities. Quotations at this point, according to quantity, are as follows: Southerns, 63 to 63½ cents; machine-made barrels, 63½ to 64 cents per gallon.

Toch Brothers, 468-472 West Broadway, who have been making high grades of oil colors and mixed paints and certain specialties for the paint trade for many years, report the outlook for the spring trade excellent. The paint trade has developed a number of meritorious specialties. A new and unique paint is used for damp-proofing walls on the inside; it can be plastered or cemented over, thus saving furring and lathing in some places.

TIN-PLATE.

Quotations are unchanged, being based on official prices that, it is understood in the trade, will hold till April. Replying to an inquiry for the Record and Guide, in regard to trade prospects, Mr Frank Dickerson, Second Vice-President of the American Tin-Plate Company, said: "It is a little early yet for us to give any accurate estimate as to the business in roofing tin. Our business generally is very satisfactory indeed, and we are receiving plenty of orders, of which a goodly number are for roofing tin, but whether more or less than usual we cannot at this writing state."

Klaw & Erlanger, No. 127 West 58th sts, are the owners of the New York Theatre, and J. B. McElfatrick & Son, No. 1402 Broadway, the architects.

29TH ST.—D. C. Weeks & Son, masons and builders, No. 289 4th av, have been awarded the general contract for the 5-sty brick and stone building for the New York Telephone Co., No. 15 Dey st, which will be erected at No. 32 East 29th st, from plans by Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, No. 1123 Broadway. The building will be similar to the adjoining structure, now owned and occupied by the company.

28TH ST.—F. L. Blom, carpenter and builder, 1st av and 34th st, has the general contract for extensive alterations to the 4-sty and basement brownstone front building at No. 18 East 28th st, on plot 25x100. The property belongs to Mrs. Ama J. Stone, and will be altered to stores and bachelor apartments from plans by Alfred H. Taylor, No. 53 West 33d st. There will be three suites on each floor and a full-width studio on the top floor. The entrance will be covered by a marquise and the hall lined with marble. The beveled and riveted plate glass windows will extend through the basement and first story, giving the effect of a 2-sty window. J. Romaine Brown & Co., the agents, No. 53 West 33d st, have already had many applications from prospective tenants, and they predict great popularity for this style of building in the neighborhood of the future New Brunswick Hotel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BROOKLYN.—The Williamsburg Savings Bank, No. 175 Broadway, Brooklyn, will build a 1-sty annex, 54x54, to its present building on a plot 58x58, at a cost of $300,000. The exterior of the building will be of plain and polished granite and the interior of Ohio limestone and granite columns. The president, Wm. T. Lamb, has the work in charge. Helme & Hudswell, Broadway and 8th st, Brooklyn, are the architects.

60TH ST.—The Harmonie Club, No. 45 West 42d st, will erect a 7-sty clubhouse to cost about $400,000 on a 75-ft. front plot on the south side of 60th st, 125 feet east of 5th av, and almost opposite the Metropolitan Club.

8TH AV.—W. F. Conner, of the theatrical firm of Liebler & Co., No. 1402 Broadway, has purchased Nos. 981, 983 and 985 8th av, old buildings, on plot 50x100, between 57th and 58th sts. It is probable that a theatre will be erected, although Mr. Conner says he is not yet at liberty to say what improvement will be made on the property.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

Bigelow & Brown is the name of a new firm of civil engineers and contractors, with offices at 1133 Broadway. Mr. W. D. Bigelow was for ten years with Lewinson & Just, and his partner, Mr. J. J. Brown, was in the foundry business at Trenton, N. J.

The contract for a new pier on the westerly side of Blackwell's Island has been awarded, by the Commissioner of Docks and Ferries, to G. B. Sperin, the lowest bidder, for $9,329. He also secured the contract for furnishing 5,500 yards of rip-rap at 47 cents per cubic yard.

Buildings on the block between West 20th and 21st sts, and on the block between West 21st and 22d sts, 11th and 13th avs, Manhattan, will be sold on the premises at public auction, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., on February 4, 1903. By order of the Commissioner of Docks.

The Fort George Iron Works, at 183d st and Broadway, are very well known for the excellent quality of their product along special selected lines. They make specialties of fireproof clothes line frames for roofs and rapid transit sleighs and sleds. The manager is Mr. F. W. Hofele.

The Otis Elevator Company report the following contracts recently closed: North German Lloyd Steamship Company, Hoboken, N. J., ten electric passenger elevators; Kean, Van Cortlandt & Company Building, 28 to 32 Pine st, four hydraulic elevators; Hotel Willard, Washington, D. C., four hydraulic elevators and two electric elevators; and the Hotel Belvidere, Baltimore, Md., seven plunger elevators with a car travel of 160 feet.

The business of the late Byron W. Greene, Jr., dealer in second-hand materials, with offices and yards at Av B, 18th to 19th sts, has been purchased by his late employees and incorporated under the name of Byron W. Greene, Jr., Co. The business will be continued at the old location, and with a large stock the new company is prepared to furnish prices and estimates at figures which should command attention; their telephone number is 6617 18th st.

Mr. F. T. Ellithorpe, who has been long before the public as introducing various elevator safety devices, foremost of which is the Air Cushion, has opened offices at Nos. 95 and 97 Liberty st, and we are in receipt of a catalogue issued by his company illustrating a Ball Bearing Door Trolley for elevator doors. He has recently closed a contract to supply this device to all of the passenger elevator doors in the new "Hotel Astor," 44th st and 7th av, now in process of construction. His company is prepared to furnish estimates for installing Air Cushions, and to equip any horizontally-running door with their trolleys, etc.

Tenement House Commissioner De Forest has approved of the Harris Standard Fire-Escape for use in tenement houses less than four stories in height and which do not contain accommodations for more than four families in all. Commissioner De Forest is confirmed in his decision by the favorable opinion of the New York Fire Department relative to the Harris Standard Fire-Escape, which, by the way, was approved by the New York Building Department as long ago as Oct. 11, 1900. The New York offices of the Harris Safety Co. are at 1133 Broadway, St. James Building, where instructive literature concerning fire-escapes and fire-fighting apparatus may be obtained.

The General Building and Construction Company, of No. 100 Broadway, who have the contract for the new twenty-story hotel to be erected on the Hotel Brunswick site, 5th av, 26th and 27th sts, are also engaged in erecting a mammoth hotel at 5th av, southwest corner of 55th st, a feature of which will be the elimination of all woodwork. Another contract in hand is an up-to-date apartment hotel at the northeast corner of 49th st and Madison av. Charles H. Ropes is president, Wm. J. Merritt, vice-president and general manager, and Henry B. Cochen, secretary of the General Building and Construction Co., who combine experience, economy and skill in this work.

The officers of the National Fireproofing Company, of Pittsburg, with offices in this city, have been much annoyed by letters and orders intended for them being delivered to another concern of the same name. They have therefore secured at Chicago a preliminary injunction against the National Fireproofing Company, an Illinois corporation, restraining them from carrying on the business for which they were chartered, and interfering with the business of the Pennsylvania corporation. It is alleged that Hamilton and others undertook to obtain charters in different States for companies having the same name as the plaintiff company and then sell out to them for large sums of money. He is charged with having offered the charters for sale. The National Fireproofing Company of Pennsylvania claims to have filed their certificates with the Secretary of State of Illinois in compliance with the laws regulating foreign corporations. The Pennsylvania corporation are capitalized at $12,500,000.

The present-day system of construction provides for the assembling of all the parts in advance of the excavating, and in order to do this contracts must invariably be placed by builders with firms having exterior facilities, coupled with experience and thoroughness. That C. Grimmer & Son, of No. 230 East 37th st, stand in the very front rank as painters, decorators and hardwood finishers is evidenced by mentioning some contracts they recently completed and now have in hand: The Marie Antoinette Hotel annex, Aeolian Building, Algonquin, Child's 34th st building, Empire Building on University place, 42 Broadway, Kuhn, Loeb & Co.'s new building, William and Pine sts; and the 17-sty Penn Building, at Chestnut and 15th sts, one of the finest structures in Philadelphia. Messrs. Grimmer's contracts completed include such structures as the Washington Life, St. James, Transit, Empire, Clearing House, Johnston, Mills Hotels Nos. 1 and 2, and Dormitory Buildings on Amsterdam av, 120th and 121st sts.

The Vreeland Gas and Gasoline Engines continue to grow in favor with firms engaged in the building trades who require cheap and reliable power. This is so because the engines are scientifically and honestly constructed by the manufacturers, Kumberger & Vreeland, of 33 and 35 Sullivan st, near Grand. They will cheerfully furnish information to interested persons.

The Leatherole Company, with offices at No. 142 West 23d st, will have an opening next Monday to show a newly-patented article, "Leatherole," a sanitary wall covering which is as low in price as the best wall papers, but much more durable and richer in effect. They have a line of over three hundred samples in raised and embossed effects, and in all shades and colors which are suited to the smallest cottage or the most regal palace. Leatherole is manufactured in rolls 18 inches wide, is as easily applied as paper, will hide all cracks in walls, will not curl on the edges, is handsomely decorated in oil, thereby guaranteeing an absolutely fast color, can be re-decorated in any color without being removed from the wall, can easily be cleaned, is absolutely sanitary, and in the opinion of some decorators is destined to revolutionize the art of mural decoration.

What Unionism Has Done for the Plasterers.

The agreement recently entered into by the Employing Plasterers' Association and the Operative Plasterers' Society having now been printed, it may be studied with advantage by all interested in the efforts of organized labor to solve the riddle of contentment. It is considered by some that the plasterers have reached the highest mark yet attained by any building trade, for they seem able to lay down the strictest rules and to exact the largest concessions. Moreover, theirs is a craft requiring a high degree of intelligence from those who follow it most successfully, and one may, therefore, turn to these pages expecting to find the best conditions that trade unionism has yet evolved. We find, in the first place, that the daily wages of plain plasterers are to be $5.50 after the 1st of July; eight hours make the length of a working day, except on Saturday, when a half-holiday is taken; all overtime is reckoned as double time; no subbing or part payment of wages is permissible, and the week ends on Friday at 5 P. M. Pay-day is on Saturday, in the morning.

Regulations of a more distinctive nature are found in the sections relating to arbitration. A committee of five from the operatives and another from the employers constitute an arbitration committee, to whom all grievances must be referred, and they are vested with full power to act. In case of dispute they have the power to call in a disinterested party, who shall act as umpire, and his decision is binding on both sides. This committee is subject to the call of the president or chairman of either society. Charges brought against a member of either society must be submitted to the arbitration committee and settled. The O. P. S. must not order a strike against the members of the E. P. A., collectively or individually, nor can any member of the O. P. S. leave the work of a member of the E. P. A. before the matter in dispute has been brought before the arbitration committee for settlement. No foreman in the employ of a member of the E. P. A. can be suspended or taken from any job until his case has been submitted to the arbitration committee and their decision rendered.

Strikes are now permissible for only three reasons: (1) For non-payment of wages on pay-day, (2) against non-members or delinquent members, and (3) for the purpose of sympathetic action with other trades. A strike for the first reason would affect only the firm offending, and the second cause might suspend work only on a single job; so the only danger of a general strike on the part of plasterers comes under the third head, which permits of sympathetic action for other trades. This conclusion comes as near to abolishing strikes altogether as seems possible in the present era; and it is an entirely valid conclussion. The workman is entitled to receive his pay when it is due; the union man can not be expected to work beside one who is not a unionist, and if one admits the right of labor to organize at all, he cannot discountenance sympathetic action to some extent.

The scale of work for plain plasterers contains some interesting specifications. In tenement houses where there are ten rooms and a lobby or hallway to each floor or flat, the time for scratch coating is two days, or one day each for two men. The time for browning is six days, or three days each for two mtn. In browning, where there are extra rooms or extra closets, extra proportionate time is allowed. The time for hard finishing ten rooms and hallway in tenement houses is six days, or three days each for two men. For cornicing and finishing tops of rooms in tenement houses, the time for each room, with four angle and two break mitres, done with a common mould, of about seven inches projection, is one day, or one-half day each for two men. When there is a square panel the time is one and one-half days, or three-quarters of a day each for two men. In the larger tenement houses, called apartment houses, where there are large front and back rooms of about 13 x 16, and the common cornice mould is about ten inches in projection, the time for cornicing such a room, with four angle and two break mitres in it, is three-quarters of a day each for two men, and when there is a square panel in each room the time is one day each for two men. Coving in such buildings comes under the head of cornicing.

CHARACTER AND RULES OF WORK.

All plastering on lath is known as three-coat work: Scratch coat, brown coat and hard finish; all scratch coats to be thoroughly dried before being browned. On fireproof or brick two coats, brown coat and hard finish are required. All plaster plates must be browned with gauged mortar or patent material and finished. When patent cement is used for the scratch coat it must be on eight hours before the brown coat is put on. All work must be done in a thorough, workmanlike manner. This is a fundamental proposition; unionism will not protect the wilfully negligent or incompetent.

In regard to ornamental parts, the book specifies the following: "When any portion of a building is reserved for any character of ornamental decoration, estimates may be submitted for same. Said estimates for the said reserved portion must include all parts of plastering, plain and decorative, mouldings to be run in the place, and it shall be done by the contractor for the same. When any member of the E. P. A. obtains a contract for the entire plastering of a new building or buildings, he may sublet the plain plastering, except the plain plastering contained in the reserved and special parts, which said reserved and special parts shall be completed by the contractor for the same. It shall be permissible for the employing plain plasterer to sublet all ornament in his general contract."

Under the head of rules of work it is required that all plain plastering in the building shall be executed by non-shophand plasterers, but this rule does not apply to members who are competent in all branches of the trade. Interior and exterior plastering, whether of patent or other material, when done by the usual methods of plastering, is claimed and done by the members of the O. P. S. Interior cement work above the floor line is done by plasterers, members of the O. P. S. When possible, effort is made to include the placing of plaster plates and metallic preparations for plastering in the plasterers' specifications. Upon any employer failing to complete a job, the matter is referred to the joint arbitration committee for settlement to the best interest of the trade. A time allowance of ten minutes is allowed above the twelfth story when an elevator service is not furnished. The minimum rating of modelers to be $30 per week. No modeler can be laid off except at 12 o'clock noon or 5 P. M., after fifteen minutes' notification.

The agreement is to terminate on the 30th of April, 1904, and three months before that time a joint committee is to be appointed to renew or revise it. The document is signed on the part of the E. P. A. by John J. Roberts, H. M. Miller, P. H. McNulty, Michael Power, John Klee, Hugo Berger, James Thomson and G. S. Jacobson, and on the part of the O. P. A. by Harry H. Smith, Patrick Grimes, James Walsh, Samuel Gavan, John Owen, James Nilan, Thomas Malia and Saverio Guidera.

Prospective Building.

The following is a list of the most important building operations which, so far as yet announced, will be started during the coming spring. The list includes only such plans as are now being actively pushed, and the projectors of which would offer additional information.

FIFTH AVE., e s, between 26th and 27th sts. 20-sty hotel for the Brunswick Construction Co., of which Judge Henry E. Howland is president. General Building & Construction Co., 100 Broadway, are the general contractors, and have practically completed the plans.

MADISON AVE., n e cor 49th st, 12½-sty hotel for the Madison Ave. & Forty-ninth St. Co. The General Building & Construction Co., No. 100 Broadway, have the general contract, and have completed the plans. Architect, Herbert Lucus.

FIFTH AVE., cor 63d st, dwelling, on plot 100x100, for J. B. Haggin, No. 15 Broad st. Copeland & Dole, No. 51 Exchange pl., architects. Final plans are now under way.

BROADWAY, SEVENTH AVE., 42D ST., 16-sty office building for the "New York Times." Cyrus W. L. Eidlitz, 1123 Broadway, architect; Geo. A. Fuller Co., 137 Broadway, general contractors. Final plans not complete. Excavating being done.

PINE ST., No. 36, 13-sty office building, on plot 23.7 x 59.9, for Hanover Fire Insurance Co., No. 34 Pine st. A. B. Jennings, No. 82 Wall st., will be architect, and as soon as title is acquired, work will proceed.

ELEVENTH AVE., w s, bet 39th and 40th sts, 5-sty brick and stone abattoir, 200 x 125, for N. Y. Dressed Meat Co. Horgan & Slattery, No. 1 Madison av, architects. Preliminary sketches underway.

CEDAR ST., Nos. 62-64, new building to replace old Gilman Bldg., for Harvey Fisk & Son, Mutual Life Insurance Co., owners; Clinton & Russell, No. 32 Nassau st, architects. Preliminary sketches.

PARK AVE., s e cor 34th st, new 71st Regiment Armory. Clinton & Russell, No. 32 Nassau st, architects. Plans approved by Armory Board.

41ST ST., Nos. 127-129 W., 10-sty fireproof building on plot, 40x100, for C. C. Shayne, furrier. Ward & Gottlieb, No. 156 Fifth ave, architects. Final plans completed in one month.

42D ST., Nos. 18-24 E., 18-sty office building for Andrew H. and Davison H. Smith. Jas. B. Baker, No. 156 Fifth av, architect. Thompson-Starrett Co., Nos. 49-51 Wall st, general contractors. Final plans completed in six weeks.

FIFTH AVE., No. 12, 9-sty hotel for the Municipal Realty Co., No. 115 Broadway. Louis Korn, No. 31 West 33d st, architect. Plans completed and submitted to owners for approval.

42D ST., Nos. 254-258 W., 12-sty hotel for the Phoenix Realty Co. George Keister, No. 1133 Broadway, architect. Plans completed. General contract not yet awarded.

FIFTH AVE., n w cor 21st st, 11-sty store and loft building, for Hudson Realty Co., No. 135 Broadway. Buchman & Fox, No. 11 E. 59th st., architects. Plans completed, estimates receivable, old premises being demolished.

UNIVERSITY PL., n e cor 10th st, 12-sty addition to Hotel Albert, on plot, 50 x 100, for the Rosenbaum Estate, No. 16 Exchange pl. Buchman & Fox, No. 11 E. 59th st., architects. Final plans complete in two weeks.

BROADWAY, No. 111, 20-sty building. United States Realty Corporation. Work will probably start May 1.

BROADWAY, Nos. 1265-1269, 7-sty building for Browning, King & Co. John E. Nitchie, No. 21 Park Row, architect. Preliminary sketches now underway. Final plans completed in six weeks.

THIRD AVE., bet. 127th and 128th sts., theatre for Thomas M. Miner. J. B. McElfatrick & Son, No. 1402 Broadway, architects. Preliminary sketches.

SPUYTEN DUYVIL PARKWAY (Bronx), west of Broadway,. Manhattan College buildings, for the Christian Brothers. John E. Kerby, No. 1432 Broadway, architect. Final drawings will be completed in two months.

PLATT AND JOHN STS; addition to Woodbridge Building. Howells & Stokes, No. 100 William st., architect. Preliminary work.

PARK AVE., n w cor 61st st, 4-sty and basement limestone dwelling, on plot 58x100, for Lewis Nixon, No. 43 Cedar st. Ernest Flagg, No. 35 Wall st, architect. Preliminary sketches under way.

LEXINGTON AVE., bet. 25th and 26th sts; 69th Regiment Armory. Hunt & Hunt, No. 28 East 21st st., architects. Final plans approved by Armory Board.

FIFTH AVE., s e cor 52d st; dwelling for Morton F. Plant. R. W. Gibson, No. 76 William st., architect. Preliminary sketches underway.

FIFTH AVE., n e cor 72d st., 4-sty and basement dwelling, on plot 87x172, for James Stillman. McKim, Mead & White, No. 160 Fifth Ave., architects. Final plans underway.

SEVENTH AVE., NINTH AVE., 31ST AND 32D STS.; Pennsylvania R. R. terminal and hotel. McKim, Mead & White, No. 160 Fifth av. Preliminary sketches.

36TH ST., n s, bet Madison and Park avs, art museum and library, on plot 150 x 98, for J. P. Morgan. McKim, Mead & White, No. 160 Fifth av. Final plans underway.

MADISON AVE., Nos. 35-37, and E. 26th st., Nos. 38-40, 9-sty fireproof apartment hotel. Howells & Stokes, No. 100 William st., architects; Thompson-Starrett Co., No. 49-51 Wall st., general contractors. Final plans nearly completed. Old premises being demolished.

WALL, BEAVER AND PEARL STS., owned by Century Realty Co.; will probably be improved.

A Test of the Hennebique Process.

Some recent bearing tests made of the Hennebique system of armored concrete construction at the Sheldon House, No. 38 East 40th st, Manhattan, gave some interesting results. The floors, partitions and stairs in this residence, of which Mr. Ernest Flagg is the architect, are built according to this new system, and this is the first application of it that the Bureau of Buildings of Manhattan has permitted. The house being yet unfinished, the concrete work is at a stage to be clearly viewed.

The Hennebique principle consists of imbedding in concrete straight or cranked iron or steel-tension bars or stirrups to take the shearing stresses, together with distance pieces; and the system is applicable to the raising of entire buildings from foundation to roof. Care appears to be necessary in the selection and preparation of materials; the cement and steel used must be of the best quality. The tests made at the Sheldon house were on the floors, and the analysis from which the data here given is taken bears the certification of seven experts, including Rudolph P. Miller, Engineer of the Building Department of the City of New York; F. H. Dewey, Assistant Engineer of the Building Department; and Mr. H. Lorentz Malmros, representative of the architect.

The assumed live load of the beam to which the test was applied was 60 lbs. per sq. ft., in the architect's calculations; or a total load of 4,300 lbs. But the load actually put on for the purpose of this test consisted of 20 barrels of cement weighing 8,000 lbs., and a box (measuring 144 cubic feet) filled with 14,400 lbs. of sand, making a total load of 22,400 lbs. Though the span is 22 feet wide, there was no noticeable deflection of the beam. The results of the test are, of course, considered eminently satisfactory.

Questions and Answers.

We must remind our correspondents that we cannot answer anonymous communications. Readers must also remember that communications to us cannot invariably be answered the week they are received.

TRUSTEE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly give me the information, if there is a law, and if so when enacted, to the effect that a trustee of an estate cannot be sued as trustee.

Answer.—There is no statute to that effect. But under the law it often happens that a trustee incurs obligations for the benefit of the estate, for which he will be individually liable, and the estate cannot be held by the creditor. If I knew the facts of your case, I might tell you whether the trustee individually or the estate could be held.—Law Editor.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

The owner of a building applies direct to a lawyer for a loan of $10,000, which the lawyer agrees to make for a client, and for which the owner agrees to pay the lawyer 2 per cent. to cover. Is it necessary for the lawyer to have a written application from the owner, as would be necessary in the case of a broker under Law 1901, Chapter 128, in order to collect his fee?

Answer.—The law referred to has been held by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Second Department to be unconstitutional. A summary of the opinion of the Court will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Record and Guide.—Law Editor.

CONVEYANCE FROM WIFE TO HUSBAND.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly let me know the following questions in your Questions and Answers: A man buys a house in his wife's name. Eight years later she transfers the same to him, no consideration mentioned in the transfer. (1) Can he sell the house without her consent? (2) Would it be advisable to buy the house without her signing again when deeding the property to a third party? (3) If a small consideration were mentioned in the transfer to her husband, would it then be all right to buy from him without her signing?

Answer.—A wife may sell her real estate without joining her husband in the deed, but when a husband sells his real estate, the wife must join if it is desired that her dower be released. (1) He can sell, but if the wife does not join in the deed her dower will not be released. (2) No. (3) It makes no difference what consideration is mentioned in the deed.—Law Editor.

APPLICATION OF PAYMENTS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

We sold a bill of merchandise and received part payment for same. Gave a memorandum of the articles and credited the amount paid, also agreed to deliver the following day. Before sending them, we find that the purchaser had about two years previous bought from us and there was a balance due larger than the amount of his deposit. Can we apply this deposit on new transaction to the old account, and is it lawful to do so?

Answer.—You have no right to apply the deposit on the old account.—Law Editor.

RELEASE OF MORTGAGOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

(1) How can a mortgagor secure release from bond given to secure payment of a mortgage after the same has become due, and long after the property covered by the mortgage has been conveyed subject to it? Will a notice to the holder of the mortgage or to his agents that such release is desired be sufficient to prevent deficiency judgment in event of the property not bringing a sufficient sum to pay the mortgage and prior liens at a foreclosure? (2) If such a notice is sufficient, will you kindly print a form of same? Will not negligence on the part of the holder of a mortgage or his agents, who allows interest which is due semi-annually to run for a period of years without consulting the person liable on the bond and without taking any legal steps to collect the same or enforce the payment of taxes, relieve the bondsman to any extent?

Answer.—(1) A mortgagor cannot, under such circumstances, compel the execution of a written instrument releasing him from his liability on his bond unless he discharges his obligation by payment or otherwise, in which case he will be subrogated to the rights of the holder of the mortgage. The proper method of procedure is to serve a notice on the holder of the mortgage to enforce its payment. When an owner of land, who has given a mortgage upon it, conveys the land, his obligation thereafter is that of a surety for the payment of the indebtedness. If the holder of the mortgage upon receiving such a notice does not within a reasonable time thereafter, take steps to collect the amount due on the bond and mortgage, including taxes, etc., such failure will constitute a defense which the maker of the bond and mortgage can set up if he is made a party to the foreclosure action. (2) Not unless the bondsman has given notice as above stated.—Law Editor.

Legal Decisions.

DOWER—DEFEATED BY THE HUSBAND'S DEED BEFORE MARRIAGE—DELIVERY TO A THIRD PERSON.

An owner of two lots separately conveyed one of them to each of his two sons, they actually paying the consideration of one dollar, and he in their presence handed the deeds to an attorney, requesting him to hold them during the grantor's life, and at his death record and deliver them to the grantees, the grantor during his life to receive the rents and profits. He subsequently married, thereafter died, and thereupon the attorney recorded the deeds and delivered them to the grantees. Held, that the title passed to the sons when the grantor delivered the deeds, in their behalf, to the attorney, and that therefore when the widow subsequently married the grantor there was in him no estate to which dower could attach. (Yutte v. Yutte, 39 Misc., 272.)

The Use of Marble Veneers.

Some exception has been taken to the use of marble cut in slabs and used as a veneer for brick or stone walls. It has been urged that this method is likely to be destructive of good architecture, because of the danger that it will end in the entire concealment of the real construction of the work; but this argument is based on the assumption that the veneering of a wall with marble slabs must necessarily imitate construction. It is true that we sometimes see the walls of a room lined with small rectangular slabs of marble, carefully arranged, so as to break joint on the face, and sometimes with joints solid at the rises, instead of being allowed to show as quirks, or rebates, when, in short, every effort is made to deceive the observer into the belief that the walls are constructed of solid blocks of marble. In such cases the whole system of decoration may be deservedly denounced as a piece of falsework, quite as objectionable as the marble block wall papers which we occasionally see.

But in the right use of marble veneer there need be no attempt to deceive the eye. With the use of slabs too large to be mistaken for solid blocks, and with the long vertical joints necessitated in paneling with variously-colored marbles, we follow a treatment distinctly unconstructional. When we have a marble with any decidedly marked pattern in it, we can saw it into thin slabs; and by reversing these and placing them in juxtaposition, we can obtain very beautiful effects in a perfectly legitimate manner. A panel of this kind tells its own tale at once. The sections composing it cannot consist of entirely separate blocks, and they are put together without any attempt to break joint.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Departemnt of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

January 23, 24, 26, 27, 28 and 29.

The Private Branch Exchange System of supplying TELEPHONE SERVICE is particularly adapted to the requirements of LARGE HOTELS and APARTMENT HOUSES

By means of a Private Branch Exchange the general telephone service, local, suburban and long distance, is available in every room and apartment. A complete interior service is also supplied, adding largely to the efficiency, and decreasing the cost of the hotel service proper. No modern Hotel or Apartment House should lack a Private Branch Telephone Exchange.

Full information on request at any of the Contract Offices:

This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions — deeds, mortgages leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 14 and 16 Vesey St.*

SO far as the situation depends upon money it is improved this week by the publication of the official statement of the amount in circulation. This proves to be no less than about $95,000,000 more than at this time last year, and with speculation limited the supplies for other purposes ought to be fully sufficient. The circumstances of the moment modify opinions of the monetary future expressed before the actual figures of circulation were known, and the weekly bank statement will most probably reflect to borrowers a more favorable market than has been customary at this time of the year. Time money will likely keep fairly firm until spring demands are satisfied, but the attitude of dealers in paper and loaners expresses confidence in the business outlook for this year at least. Money on call is easy, and this has brought about the speculative advance seen in the market this week, which needs but little encouragement to be prolonged for sometime. The occurrences of the week have also been favorable to advancing quotations, and the incidents which have hitherto depressed things, such as the Venezuelan dispute are lost sight of in the confidence that their satisfactory disposition is well within the line of diplomatic certainty. Predictions of price movements are unsafe owing to the extremely professional character of the market, but with the outlook what it is, the reactionary movement begun yesterday should soon spend itself.

IT appears that London's monetary position is somewhat similar to that of New York. While the latter is known to be a large borrower abroad, the head of a large London loaning institution recently explained the comparatively high rates for money by saying that Europe's holding of English bills and consols give it a power over the London market to which the latter is not used and diminish its power to call gold at will. Another circumstance that makes money scarce, he said, was that there were undigested sales of consols carried on the market with borrowed money, estimated at from £20,000,000 to £25,000,000. This would also explain the heaviness of those securities. There is a revival of the talk that the country is living on its capital. One financial paper estimates this unnatural consumption for the past year at no less than £100,000,000, but as it has to admit that the data upon which it bases its calculation are imperfect, salt must be applied to the statement before swallowing. There is a difference of £120,000,000 between imports and exports for 1902, against which the offsets are, in undefinable amounts, interest on foreign investments, freights, commissions, etc. It is probable that the first alone is sufficient to make good the debit balance. Mr. Gladstone twenty years ago estimated the foreign investments of Great Britain at two billions sterling. That would be under the mark of to-day if it was correct then, about which doubt may be entertained, and it is easy to see that interest would figure largely against the foreign trade balance. However, in spite of the strength of the money market things are looking up. A better distribution of profits has been made by the railroad companies for the last half of the year just closed, and heads of banks and other financial institutions all take a cheerful view of the outlook when addressing their stockholders. They admit that business is being done at small profits, and that there are some troubles at hand, particularly in the readjustment of wage scales to meet the reduced profits of doing business, but expect these to give way before a reasonable presentation of the case and a recognition of the need for concession in order to hasten the recovery of business which is promised by the signs of the times. The only difference between London and the Continent is that the recovery has not proceeded so far with the latter, and that money is cheaper there owing to the consequently smaller demand. Fiscal affairs are occupying increased attention. Germany is discussing the advisability of modifying the "most favored nation" clause of commercial treaties, especially of those with the United States. It is claimed that this country under that clause has obtained benefits, for which it makes no return, through treaties made with Russia, Austria and Italy. This has resulted in our sending at times twice as much goods into Germany as we take therefrom; consequently Germans maintain that a readjustment is necessary. Austria had this country undoubtedly in mind in arranging the new tariff. Some of the proposed increases of duties are: Cotton yarns, 50%; fine woolens, 33%; leather, 20 to 50%; shoes, 20 to 80%; tobacco goods, 150%; textile machinery, 50 to 100%; electrical dynamos, 20 to 35%. These proposals are accompanied by an argument well known to ourselves, that in proportion as foreign goods are made dearer the consumer is forced to buy of the home manufacturer.

The Approach to the Williamsburgh Bridge and Other Street Improvements.

THE plans for the approach to the Williamsburgh Bridge which the Board of Estimate and Apportionment seems likely to adopt, are moderate and sensible. They include the widening of Delancey street to a total width of either 125 or 150 feet, the cutting of a continuation of Delancey street from the Bowery to the juncture of Elm, Marion and Broome streets, and the widening of several streets that run parallel to the Bowery, and west of the Bridge as far as Houston street on the north and East Broadway on the south. The object of these various street changes is obvious. Delancey street will, of course, be the main approach to the Bridge, and must needs be made very broad, so as to accommodate the trolley, wagon and carriage traffic which will converge on the Bridge from all quarters of the city; and this traffic will be very large, because the accommodation for wagons and carriges on the Williamsburgh Bridge will be so much better than it is on the present Brooklyn Bridge that drivers will choose the new route, whenever possible. Large as this traffic will be, however, we judge that a width of 125 feet will be abundantly sufficient both for use and good looks. The other street changes look toward the producing of proper means of access to the enlarged Delancey street. The new street that will be cut through from the Bowery to Elm street will provide a good route for trucks that wish to come from or go to the wholesale district west of Broadway, while streets west of the Bridge and parallel to the Bowery will be widened until they reach cross-town streets like East Broadway and Houston street, which are capable of accommodating considerable traffic. In this way wagons and carriages will obtain comparatively ready access to the Bridge from every important direction.

It will be noticed that these plans, which the Board will probably adopt simply provide for the immediate practical necessities, which will be imposed by the opening of the new Bridge, and do so at an expense which will in itself be large, but which will be much less costly than would have been several of the proposed alternate schemes. The route from the Bridge terminus to Cooper Square has apparently been definitely abandoned, because the widening of a street parallel to the Bowery from Delancey to Houston street will serve the same purpose—not at all so well, but at a much smaller expense. The matter of opening some direct route from the terminus of the Manhattan to the terminus of the Williamsburgh Bridge has been dismissed for the present. The Board is well advised in not considering any except immediate necessities in advance of the laying down of some comprehensive scheme for street improvements in Manhattan. A diagonal street from the Bridge terminus to Cooper Square would in itself be a most admirable and useful thoroughfare, but it certainly would not be wise economy on the part of the city to spend the large sum of money which such a street would cost until more immediate requirements are satisfied. An improvement so important and expensive as this must be postponed until the time comes for the careful consideration of a plan which will include all such street openings, and for some scale of relative expense, desirability and immediacy.

In relation to this comprehensive plan for improving the street system, it is significant that the Board of Aldermen have not acted as yet upon the mayor's suggestion that $10,000 be appropriated for the purpose of paying the expenses of an advisory commission. It is obvious that the number of people in the city who have any conception of the importance of planning ahead for the improvement and embellishment of the street system of

New York are exceedingly few; and that no considerable or sufficient popular interest has as yet been aroused. Hence it is that if the Commission is finally authorized, it should be careful to keep its recommendations within fairly practicable bounds. The trouble with the report of the Municipal Art Society was that the plans it suggested were so utterly beyond the possible purchasing power of the city that it struck very practical people as absurd; and they dismissed with the contemptuous remark that it would cost a billion or two. New York, it must always be remembered, is not a national capital like Washington or Paris, with the resources of a national government behind it. It is, on the contrary, essentially an industrial and commercial city, confronted by rigorous economic and fiscal restrictions and too much pre-occupied with the critical task of providing for its immediate transit and other necessities to consider schemes of improvement, which are very far-reaching and remote. The consequence is that, in case a City Improvement Commission is appointed, it should not recommend any changes without suggesting as well some means of meeting the expense. It should, that is, tie its recommendations down to some practicable financial scheme, and not consider that it has a license to plan all sorts of viaducts, monuments, new streets, water-gates and freight clearing-houses, without giving the slightest thought to ways and means. Such a course would render the whole project barren from the start.

For our own part, we imagine that the really practicable and necessary improvements of the street system of Manhattan will result naturally from the improvements in inter-borough transit—just as the widening of Delancey street results from the terminus of the Williamsburgh Bridge. In this way it will be found necessary to connected centers of business and traffic one with another—to widen 59th street that Blackwell's Island Bridge may be accessible, to find some means for relieving the present crush on 42d street, and the crush that surely will develop near the Pennsylvania terminus, to give the trolley cars some more direct means of reaching the terminus of the trolley tunnel, and so on. The first steps in this direction will be taken when the Rapid Transit Commission adopts the comprehensive rapid transit plan, which its engineer is now preparing and which will include, not only East Side and Jerome avenue extensions, but proper connections between all the termini of the different bridges and tunnels. For this will be a great object-lesson in the value of planning these improvements comprehensively and adequately. It will be the beginning of the opening up of New York and the removal of the present distressing and wasteful congestion.

IT should not escape notice that the world's production of gold in 1902 was but $10,000,000 less than it was in the year 1899, which saw the maximum of the South African production. This is not wholly due to the revival of gold mining in South Africa last year, because other countries have increased their output also. Still, as has been pointed out on previous occasions, South Africa is forging ahead again as a gold producer, and bids fair to take the leading place in that respect. Of all the facts connected with the world's gold production the most important are the rapidity of its growth and the bearing this has upon the prosperity of the trading nations. There was more gold produced in the last twelve years than in the preceding fifty, and we are now obtaining more per annum than was obtained per decade prior to 1890. According to Mint figures, the total world's output from 1840 to 1900 was $2,248,721,300 and of that amount $1.450,955,300 is credited to the decade 1890-1900. By recent calculations the output of 1901 was $266,559,884, and that for 1902 $304,589,862, or $571,099,746 in two years; consequently the movement is still one of progress. In these continued additions to the world's gold supply may be found an explanation of the wonderful expansion of industrial and commercial effort; and, also, the reason why the periods of prosperity are now longer than was once the case, and why, by the same reasoning, the eras of depression may be shorter and less severe in their effects than they have previously been. For example, the recovery of business activity in Europe which followed the Baring failure in 1890, endured for nearly ten years and recovery has begun again at the end of the comparatively short interval of two or three years. This interval, though marked by several events exceedingly trying to confidence, has not witnessed the dire distress that only too often characterized other eras of suspended activity.

THE task of giving a steady value to silver to which our government is lending its aid is not made easier by the continued increase in the production of gold or by the statistical position of the white metal itself. It is surprising to find that in the year of lowest prices ever known the record for output was made. This with the lessened use of silver, due to the adoption of the gold standard by countries which have hitherto used silver exclusively, and the constantly growing use of credits, reduce the employment of either metal to the minimum and, of course, gives the greater preference to the most stable of the two. Great Britain is pledged to the introduction of the gold standard to all her dependencies as soon as practical difficulties can be overcome, and there is doubtless foundation for the report that a system similar to that conferred upon India is soon to be adopted for the Straits Settlements. France proposes to follow this lead in her Indo-China possessions in order to relieve their trade of the disadvantages that China's suffers now and in a lesser degree that of the Philippines also. The logic of events clearly points out the way we ought to take in settling the currency difficulties of our Eastern possessions in order to create uniformity of values and avoid unfavorable differences in exchange. As silver declines in value, the silver using country must increase the volume of its exports in order to satisfy balances with gold-using countries. In the end both suffer, because, while at first the gold creditor is benefited by the larger amount of commodities received, the disadvantage to the silver-using country must sooner or later prejudice its purchasing power.

AS was pointed out recently in these columns the ability of this country to supply other manufacturing countries with all the raw cotton they need will endure for many years; still the fact that we have an exportable yearly surplus of from 60 to 65% of our crop, gives us an interest in all movements of our customers towards independence. The French cotton growing association formed recently to obtain government aid for inaugurating cotton growing in the Soudan, was suggested by the British Cotton Growing Association, which is experimenting in Africa with its own means and, being independent, is likely to be more successful. Recently they dispatched an expert, obtained in this country, to Sierra Leone, where experiments are to be made upon a sufficient scale to test the adaptability of the soil there to cotton growing. Already successful attempts have been made, under the auspices of the same association in South Nigeria and Gambia, and a small consignment of 26 bales has been shipped from the latter, which was valued at 10c. a pound, and declared to be suitable for the Lancashire market. This movement cannot have appreciable effect upon supply for a long time to come under the most favorable circumstances, but it must be interesting nevertheless to this country from which manufacturers' supplies are mainly drawn. A falling off in foreign demand for our raw cotton, if events bring this about, would stimulate home manufactures and compensation for whatever loss of trade was produced by changing conditions would be obtained in that way.

THIS much can be said for the Manhattan Company; that the new schedule which it is now gradually putting into effect removes any possible over-crowding except during the rush hours. There can be no doubt that throughout the period of ordinary travel its service is vastly superior to that of the surface roads, and that, if it had the advantage of cross-town transfers, as the Metropolitan Company has, it could make deep inroads into the latter's business. Even as it is, it is getting the largest proportion of the increase in travel, as its extraordinary statement for the last quarter of 1902 shows; and when the electric system is fully installed, and six-car expresses and locals operated on the Ninth avenue line, it will be offering to its patrons a better service than they have had for years. It will be very interesting to notice what readjustment of traffic will take place after the Subway is in operation; but there can be no doubt that under existing conditions, and those of the near future, the tunnel and the elevated roads together will handle most of the increase in travel—if, indeed, they do not actually reduce the patronage of the surface roads. Perhaps in that case the Metropolitan Railway Company will be able to find some means of providing better accommodations for its passengers. Its position is, however, an exceedingly difficult one, and with no effective relief in sight. The confinement of heavy trucks to certain definite thoroughfares and rules would be a palliative, but no real remedy; and absolutely nothing has been done since the agitation was begun looking towards either temporary relief or permanent cure. As the Record and Guide pointed out in the beginning, a local commission with definite powers of investigation, inspection and control is needed—one with full responsibility and full authority. Mr. W. F. King of the Merchant's Association rightly complains that the crusade of that body "has proved that the city authorities have no power over the railroads, and that the State Railroad Commission can suggest but not control." He also states that the Merchant's Association will retain "men of experience and ability" to watch the service and keep the railroads up to the mark. This again is a duty which should be performed by regularly appointed city inspectors. Every consideration of economy and expediency points to the enlargement of the powers of the Rapid Transit Commission, until it has the largest responsibility, oversight and control over every aspect of the transit situation in the Greater New York.

WHILE there is no evidence that the bill revising the Sinking Fund payments will fail to become a law, still every precaution should be taken to ensure its passage. Probably no piece of financial legislation at Albany of similar importance has been greeted with such cordial and almost unanimous approval. The recent hearing at Albany developed no opposition worthy of the name. The members of the Legislature representing the Greater New York should be made to understand by personal letters from their constituents that the passage of the bill is demanded by every consideration of policy and economy, and that it would be disastrous for them to endanger its passage by political trifling. The property-owners of New York stand directly or indirectly to gain by it almost as much as they have lost by the increase in taxation since consolidation; it will add several hundred million dollars to the investment value of real estate in the several boroughs; and it will at the same time give the city leeway to make a number of improvements of lasting benefit to the city's business interests. If this were the only good thing which the present administration had tried to accomplish, it would be sufficient to entitle it to high and lasting credit.

The Theory of Urban Land Values.

CHAPTER IV. THE GROUND PLAN OF CITIES.

By Richard M. Hurd, President of the Lawyers' Mortgage Insurance Co.

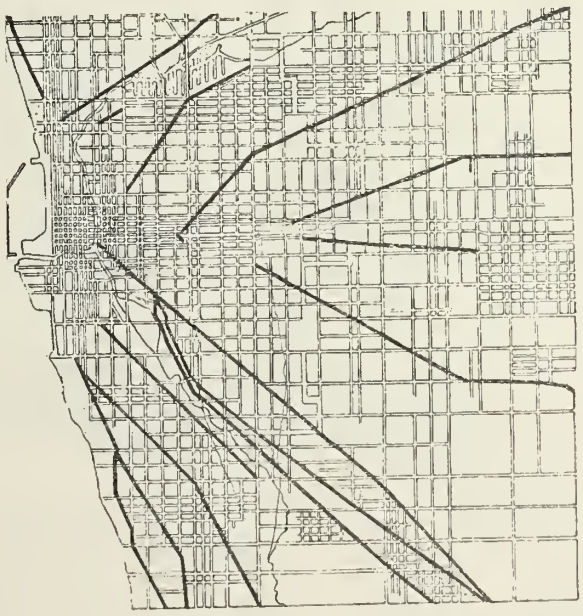
The first step in studying the ground plan of cities is to note the geographical faults which normally control the shape of cities, by interfering with their free growth in all directions from their points of origin. These are of two kinds; water surfaces, such as harbors, lakes, rivers, creeks and swamps, or sharp variations from the normal city level, such as steep hills, deep hollows and ravines.

Water surfaces may either leave islands on which a city originates, as with New York and Galveston; promontories at the mouths of rivers, as with Boston and Portland, Me.; promontories between two rivers, as with Philadelphia and Pittsburg, or may consist of lakes scattered through the city's site, as with Minneapolis, Seattle and Grand Rapids; of rivers, as at Fort Wayne and Dayton; creeks, as at New Haven and Toledo; or marshes, as at New Orleans and Savannah. The rivers may have either a straight front, as at Albany, St. Paul and Portland, Ore., a curved front leaving a convex site, as at Cincinnati, Louisville and Memphis, or may be combined with small rivers and creeks intersecting the city's site in various ways. The deep harbors, lakes and rivers cannot be filled in, so that as far as they extend they furnish an outline for the city. Increasing demand for land, however, may project growth across the deep water surfaces and form suburban settlements beyond them. The power of rivers to hold growth on the side where the city originates depends on their width, on the area and relative advantages of the sites on the two sides of the river, and on speculative enterprise. At St. Louis, New Orleans and Kansas City, where the river is wide and the land across the river not attractive, the river forms practically an absolute bar to growth. At Toledo, Portland, Ore., Cincinnati, Pittsburg and Des Moines, many bridges connect the two sides and minimize the deterring effect of the river.

Creeks are of chief importance when their erosion has worn a deep and wide ravine, the difference in level constituting a bar to a city's growth ratner than the creek itself. When the creek is narrow it is frequently covered over and ceases to exert any influence, as in New York, Richmond, and other cities.

Swamps limit growth, for example preventing Philadelphia from growing south, and Savannah from growing east and west. On the other hand, New Orleans is largely built on a swamp, important parts of Washington and Syracuse were formerly swamps, and in the lower part of New York the Collect Pond, Lispenard Meadows, Beekman Swamp, &c., have been filled in and obliterated.

After a city has spread over the original levels and climbed some moderate elevations, the demand for land may cause a filling in of the lower levels. In Boston the Back Back district was created by filling; in Chicago, after the great fire of 1871, the city was raised from seven to ten feet; in San Francisco from Montgomery Street east was formerly mud flats; and the process of filling in land for business purposes is still going on in the majority of water front cities.

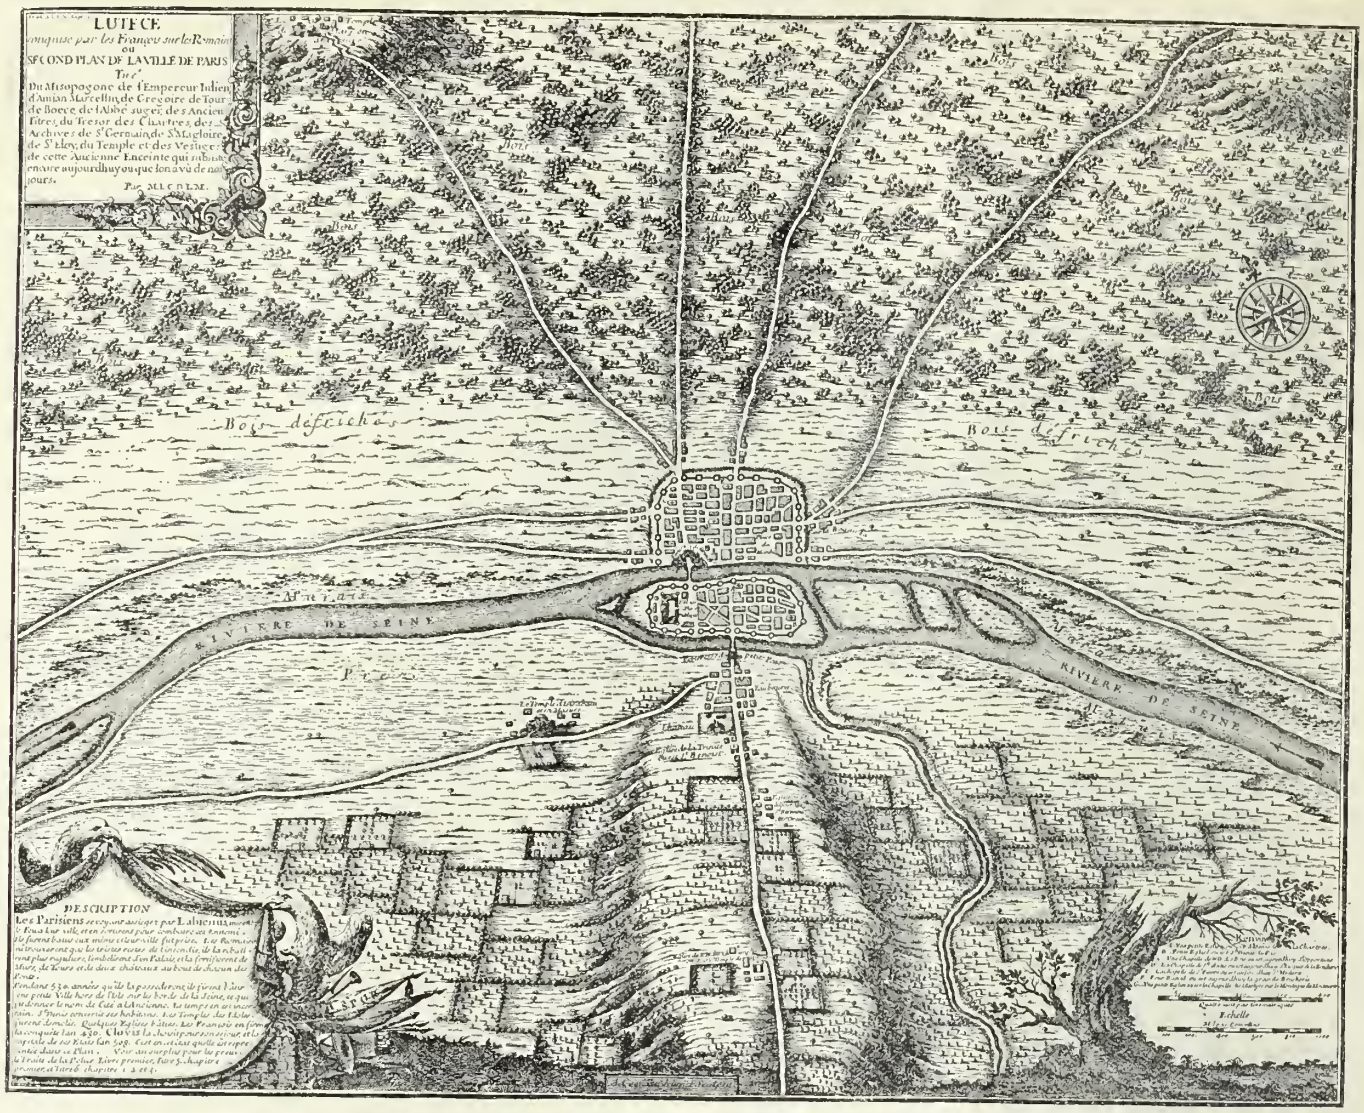


The influence of topography may be summarized by saying that level land attracts business, moderate elevations attract residences, land below the normal level attracts transportation lines, and filled-in land is generally used for warehousing, manufacuring and cheap tenements.

The main direction of city growth is usually controlled by topography. For example, the cities at the west end of harbors or on the west side of rivers grow west, as Boston, San Francisco, St. Louis, Omaha, Minneapolis; cities on the east side of harbors or rivers growing east, as Columbus, St. Joseph, Memphis, Grand Rapids, Seattle, and similarly New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Indianapolis are growing north; and Louisville, Kansas City, Savannah, Houston are growing south. The impression that the points of a compass affect the direction of city growth is based on the statement that the majority of English and German cities are growing west, owing to the prevailing west winds which drive away the dense smoke from soft coal and render the west end of these cities the preferable residence sections, but no such general tendency exists in this country.

As to their laying out, cities may be divided into two classes, those which have grown up without any definite ground plan and those whose ground plan has been laid out in advance of growth. The cities which have grown up haphazard exhibit a tangle of narrow and crooked streets of varying and irregular size, evolved from cow paths or old trails, whose directions were originally influenced by trifling obstacles, such as hillocks, rocks or clumps of trees. These first streets left large tracts between them, which were later pierced by irregular streets or lanes laid out for the convenience of the owner of the tract, and without consideration for the general interests of the city.

Where a plat has been laid out in advance, long, straight streets of even width, at right angles to each other, are found, leaving rectangular blocks for building sites. The older cities with marked modern growth, such as Rome and Athens, New York, Boston and Baltimore, exhibit almost uniformly an old centre of crooked streets, surrounded by modern rectangular plats, this change proving the general appreciation of the advantages of the rectangular method. Some cities, however, have never changed to rectangular platting, among them being Atlanta, Los Angeles, Salem and Lynn.



A number of the older cities originated with a small rectangular plat, surrounded later by rectangular additions, as Philadelphia, New Orleans, Cleveland and Cincinnati, while the newest cities have generally started with widespread rectangular platting, as Birmingham, Sioux City, Tacoma and Topeka. An exceptional instance would be Memphis, starting with a small rectangular plat, extended later by irregular streets, a reversion recalling the contrast between ancient Alexandria in Egypt with its rectangular plat, and modern Alexandria with irregular streets.

In waterfront cities with rectangular plats the waterfront is normally used as a base, whether straight, curving or broken and irregular, and in inland cities the turnpikes are used as a base. These plats extend to a greater or less distance according to the expectations of the early inhabitants, but finally reach land held according to the section lines of the U. S. Government survey. This change in the direction of holdings commonly changes the direction of the new additions and streets platted, as in Denver, Seattle and Montgomery.

Another variation in rectangular plats is due to the survival of old turnpikes in parts of the city subsequently platted. Many of these old roads are obliterated by platting, but others remain, on account of their convenience for traffic, the important buildings upon them and the fact that land titles are often measured from them, as from Broadway in New York. Of surviving turnpikes, the most common are those which exist in the suburbs, but have been merged into the rectangular streets before reaching the heart of the city, as in Chicago, Philadelphia and Milwaukee. Diagonal turnpikes reaching to the heart of the city still remain in Cleveland and Detroit, and one main turnpike remains in San Francisco, Macon and St. Joseph.

Historically distinct but practically similar to turnpikes are the diagonal streets laid out on the original plat of some cities, such as Washington, Buffalo and Indianapolis. Variations in plats occur where a city is the result of two or more settlements which have grown together and merged, as in Toledo, Montgomery, &c.

The general effect of irregular laying out is to strengthen central growth as opposed to axial growth, quick access to or from the business center being afforded only by turnpikes. A disadvantage felt later is that as a city expands and quick communication over great distances becomes imperative, vast expense is incurred in widening and straightening streets, this expense being sheer waste due to lack of foresight. Paris under Baron Haussmann spent about $250,000,000 on a system of boulevards; London's new Strand improvements are to cost $32,500,000 (of which $30,000,000 will be refunded from the sale of frontage) and some older American cities, notable Boston, have spent large sums on such work.

The effect of rectangular platting is to permit free movement throughout the city, this being further promoted by the addition of long diagonal streets. The need for diagonal streets depends largely on the shape of the city's site, there being but little use for them in such narrow cities as New York and Boston, while they are of great utility in any city which spreads in all directions over a level area, such as Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo. Washington furnishes an extreme example of diagonal streets, the large proportion of land taken up by streets and squares being suitable to a political city, where it would not be economical for a business city.

While early platting is generally made to conform to the needs of the period, in some cases attempts were made to foresee later needs, as in the plat of New York laid out in 1807 from Houston, Eighth and Thirteenth Streets to the Harlem River. Since at that time all commerce was by water, it was reckoned that the chief traffic in New York would necessarily be between the Hudson and the East Rivers, for which reason east and west streets were placed 200 feet apart, while north and south avenues were placed from 600 to 900 feet apart, there being thus fourteen avenues instead of fifty. As a result New York presents in the main the unusual condition of having its business streets running in one direction and its residence streets at right angles. If the Commission had had greater knowledge of cities and could have foreseen the vast growth of New York, they would have realized that the chief internal movement would necessarily be on the line of the longest axis, and the check put upon north and south travel, with the resulting economic loss, would have been avoided.

The plats of some cities indicate an attempt on the part of the early platters to locate in advance the centre of the city. In New England and frequently in the south a public square was commonly laid out on which, or facing which, the State and County buildings were erected, also the principal churches and business buildings. Such a square by serving as a barrier to business growth, tended to confine the business part of the city to that side of the square on which it started, with the exception of such business as spread along the turnpikes, which usually bounded two sides of the square. Another method was to lay out two wide streets at right angles to each other, and strengthen this by locating the County Court House at their intersection, as in Philadelphia, with the Court House at the intersection of Broad and Market Streets; in Reading at Penn and Fifth Streets; in Knoxville at Gay and Main Streets; in Terre Haute at Third and Main Streets; in Bay City at Center and Madison Streets, and in Canton at Tuscarora and Market Streets. It is needless to say that such attempts were futile, the business centres of cities depending on more powerful factors than platting and Court Houses. In general, in proportion as a plat is laid out to further the natural lines of a city's growth, it defines and establishes values, and in proportion to its variance with the city's needs it tends to disperse land values and render them unstable.

Turning now to a more detailed consideration of plats, variations in the width of streets and sizes of blocks involves the proportion of public land used for communication, and of private land used for buildings. In rectangular plats streets usually range in width from forty to eighty feet, sixty feet being a fair average in the newer cities, though every city shows wide variations. There is a common impression that additional width in the street always adds to its value, since the wider the street the greater the volume of traffic which can be accommodated. In a business street width is practically disregarded, but few streets in the world having more traffic than they can carry, but in a residence section a wide street is always desirable. A somewhat narrow business street has a slight advantage in facilitating intercourse between the two sides of the street, especially as lack of width does not operate to limit the height of buildings, although prominent locations on open squares are sought for some forms of business.

Alleys are modern developments not found in older cities and usually run parallel to the principal business streets, or the streets which were expected to be the principal business streets when the city was laid out. While in cities of moderate size alleys are useful in furnishing access to the rear of buildings, in the larger cities, where land is closely utilized by means of interior courts and light wells, they are a detriment in interfering with such economic arrangements.

Blocks range in size from 200 feet square to 660 feet square, any depth over 200 to 250 feet involving a waste of land at the interior of the blocks owing to non-accessibility. Salt Lake City with blocks 660 feet square furnishes an aggravated case of loss of value in land by bad platting. The attempts which have been made to utilize the interior waste land by cutting streets through the large blocks, exhibit a reversion to the primitive methods of individual rather than municipal laying out of streets, these being narrow, irregularly laid out and lacking the vital feature of continuity through the various blocks, thus defeating their avowed object of attracting traffic into the interior of the blocks. The shortsightedness of these owners is due to supposition that the value of retail business land is based on area instead of frontage on traffic streets.

The proportion of city area used for streets and alleys ranges from about 35 per cent. in Vienna and New York to 55 per cent. in Washington. The first theoretical aspect of the division of a city's area into public and private land, is that the more land given up to streets the greater the dispersion of business and area covered by the city. Limiting this tendency would be a natural increase in the height of buildings, on account of wide streets and greater light and air obtained on the smaller building plots remaining. Practically the proportion between public and private land appears to have but little influence on the density of city population, though there is an economic mean in the proportion between land for communication and land for buildings, which varies according to the utilization of land and which makes itself felt when disregarded in either direction by loss of income,

The unit, both as to the depth and width of lots, from which a plat should be built up, consists of the average shop in the business district and the average dwelling in the residence district. Since the growth of cities leads normally to the ultimate conversion of residence land into business land, a uniform system of platting suitable for business purposes throughout the entire city is generally preferable. Such a system need not necessarily lead to small holdings in the residence sections, although it has a tendency in that direction.

The average depth utilized by shops varies from 30 or 40 feet for cheap shops up to 70 or 80 feet for high class shops, with some department stores 200 to 400 feet deep. The average shop was formerly limited in depth by the necessity of obtaining light from each end, but this limitation has been removed by the use of artificial light in the day time. Allowing 30 or 40 feet in the rear for light and air, we have a normal depth of 100 to 120 feet for a lot, or a total depth, including an alley, of 200 to 250 feet to the block. Very long blocks are much less disadvantageous than very deep ones, the unfavorable feature here being that shops in the middle of the long fronts are difficult of access, as with the side streets in New York from Fourteenth Street up.

Office buildings can utilize a greater depth than shops, extending from 100 to 150 feet, and as to wholesale and warehouse buildings, light and air being almost unnecessary, the only limitation of depth is that of convenience in handling goods.

Residences erected in blocks are usually two or three rooms deep, covering 50 to 70 feet, so that with an allowance for light and air, 100 to 120 feet is also a desirable depth for residence lots. Where residence land is most valuable it is economized in the same way as with office buildings, the entire area being built on except for such light wells as are necessary or required by the building laws. In some of the best residence sections of smaller cities, lots of extra depth are found, permitting the dwellings to be set far back from the street, as with Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, where the lots on one side of the street are 900 feet deep, and Meridian Avenue in Indianapolis, where the lots on one side of the street are 400 feet deep. In the outskirts of small cities where land is cheap and but a small proportion of the land is built upon, great depth is customarily made use of for gardens, the deep lots being cut by additional streets as further demand for building land arises.

As to width of lots, these vary in the smaller cities from 20 to 25 feet for mechanics' homes, 40 to 60 feet for medium class residences or small shops, and 100 to 150 feet for high-class residences or the largest business buildings. In the largest cities residence lots run from 12 to 25 feet and business lots from 25 to 50 feet, with larger plots of 100 feet frontage or more used for large office buildings, shops, hotels, theatres or costly residences, the general rule being the larger the city the smaller the average holding of land.

The Real Estate Situation

One of the most encouraging signs which the present real estate market is showing is the active bidding and fair prices which are obtained at auction sales. The various properties belonging to the Gilman estate, which were sold by James L. Wells on Tuesday last, fetched very fair prices after very lively competitions, and were finally knocked down to outsders. These properties were situated for the most part west of Sixth avenue between 23d and 47th streets—a section of the city which is improved with old buildings, but which has been looking up during the past year and becoming more available for re-improvement. There is undoubtedly a good deal of money to be made by judicious buying throughout this middle west side, for its prospects are becoming brighter both for business and residence purposes. The streets between 6th and 7th avenues, 23d and 34th streets, for instance, will all of them be immensely benefited by the activity, which will follow the completion of the Pennsylvania terminus; and in a less degree prospects are better all over to the middle west side—partly because of transit and dock improvements and partly because of the migration of factories to that neighborhood. During the past year real estate both in Greenwich and Chelsea village has begun to show a certain increase in value, which will make particularly interesting an auction sale of Greenwich lots, which Mr. Kennelly will hold about the middle of the month. The comparative success which is attending auction sales should be sufficient to cause a lot of property to be put up during the coming spring.

Successful Auction Sales.

Among the most interesting announcements of the past week has been the statement that a couple of loft buildings are about to be erected west of Broadway and north of 23d street. Such operations are not, of course, unprecedented, for there are now in existence several warehouses between 5th and 6th avenues north of 23d street. Still it is rather retail shops and apartment hotels than warehouses which have been recently claiming space on the side streets above mentioned; and the increase in the number of buildings devoted to the wholesale trade above 23d street will be watched with the utmost interest. The wholesale district just south of 23d street has been expanding so rapidly during the last few years that it was manifestly only a question of the time when it would push further uptown. The question was whether it would take the line of Broadway or the line of 4th avenue. From the news given out this week it looks as if the side streets along Broadway would get the first choice; but it is doubtful how far the movement in this direction will go. The side streets in the thirties are in great demand as sites for apartment hotels, and the building of these structures has made available property so costly and so useful for a certain class of shops that it seems very probable that the side streets along the line of 4th avenue will eventually be selected for uptown warehouses. The planning of loft and factory buildings still continues one of the most conspicuous forms of building activity, and testifies to the continued prosperity of general business. Avaliable sites for office buildings in the financial district are in greater demand than ever, and are being bought at present even more by wealthy financial institutions than by speculative corporations. If a large amount of new sky-scraper construction is not started this spring, it will only be because the necessary lots have not been purchasable. Residence property also continues to be very active—particularly in that part of Park avenue which will be benefited by the New York Central improvement. Speculative buying of corners on that avenue has already started, and we expect that eventually it will be incorporated in the residence district. The New York Central plans are being made apparently on the most liberal scale, and promise fairly to transform the part of the city affected. Including as they do a hotel at 42d street, and a fine approach on the Madison avenue side, they promise to make the station itself attractive, imposing and beneficial to the surrounding property.

Some Special Sales of the Week.

The activity during January was phenomenal. Some 1,204 transfers were recorded for Manhattan, against only 1,136 in the same month of 1902, and this in spite of the fact that the totals of 1902 were swollen by the purchases of the railroad companies, and were the largest ever known. The amount involved by the 1,204 transfers of 1903 was some $3,400,000 less than the amount involved by the 1,136 transfers of 1902, but that was not caused by any decrease in the cost of the average parcel of property transferred, but by the increase in the number of parcels conveyed at nominal considerations. It is probable, however, that this large increase, which amounts to 975 over 606, does not, as it usually does, represent the proportionate expansion of the speculative interest in the market. It indicates rather that the policy of assessing real estate at its full value has made property-owners more than ever desirous of concealing what the actual market price of their property is, and this attempt to hide current quotations is likely to become more rather than less prevalent in the future. One cannot help wondering what indications the official assessors will have to go upon after this device of concealing quotations has been pursued for five years longer. The only trustworthy guides to current values will be in the possession of local brokers, and it would seem as if the Tax Department might in the end be obliged to fall back upon the assistance of the office records of these gentlemen. It is certain that the work of general appraisal is becoming more difficult every year, and that the active local agents will soon control the situation.

Activity During January.

Delancey Street Bridge Approach.

The matter of arranging for suitable approaches to the Williamsburgh Bridge, on the Manhattan side, which was last October postponed indefinitely by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, has been taken up anew with the expectation that it will now be finally disposed of, so far as this board is charged with responsibility. Since the hearings were closed, on January 23, the board has decided formally to (1) widen Delancey st on the south side, between Clinton st, where the bridge begins, and the Bowery, a distance of nine city blocks, to a width yet to be determined; (2) to open a new street from the Bowery through the four intervening blocks to Elm st; (3) to widen Clinton st, between Houston st and East Broadway, on the west side, to the extent of making the street 100 feet wide; and (4) to widen Suffolk st (which runs parallel to Clinton and is next west) on the east side, between Houston st and East Broadway.

These are the arrangements that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will undertake to carry out in the present. It follows that the proposal to lay out a straight diagonal boulevard from the Bridge gates to the neighborhood of Cooper Union is held in abeyance, possibly to be vitalized into visible form sometime, but not in the immediate future. Then, the decision to open a new thoroughfare from the end of Delancey st, at the Bowery, through the intervening blocks and across Elizabeth, Mott, Mulberry and Marion, to Elm, disposes necessarily of the proposal to widen Spring st, which is next north and extends west from the Bowery; and it also extinguishes the proposal to widen Broome st, which is next south. The new street, coming between Broome and Spring, is virtually to be a continuation of Delancey st, though not in a direct line. Where it will terminate there is now a small triangular city block, with its base on Broome st, its apex at or near Spring st, and with Marion (on the east) and Elm (on the west) forming the two other sides. This block in its entirety will undoubtedly be taken to form an open place, to mark the beginning of the Delancey st approach to the Bridge, perhaps in the future to be ornamented with statues and fountains, but immediately to have a certain toning and pleasant influence upon all that section. With only two squares separating it from Broadway, the main artery for the city's life-current, this open space, this first gate for the Bridge, upon which we hope a name euphonious and entirely appropriate will be conferred, will have a situation both convenient and commanding. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has done well in this.

The extent of the widening of Delancey st yet remains to be settled. There being several proposals under this head, the board has intimated its intention to finally choose between two, by directing the engineers to report plans and descriptions, with estimates of cost, for a width of 125 feet, and also plans, descriptions and estimates for a width of 150 feet. The weight of the opinions for and against the widest approach have heretofore been indicated in these columns. The respective sides are strong and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has long hesitated to brush either aside. Many influential citizens have favored a total width of 200 feet; even the Mayor seemed to incline to the widest suggested thoroughfare; but an opinion more conservative has prevailed, and there remains seemingly no real contention that Delancey st widened by either 75 or 100 feet would not be equal to all requirements. Beyond this posed a sentiment in favor of a parked boulevard, a sentiment entirely creditable when considered with its supporting arguments, but after all only sentiment. In regard to the width of the new street between the Bowery and Elm, the engineers are instructed to treat it the same as Delancey st; they are to prepare plans, descriptions and estimates for a thoroughfare 150 feet wide, and also the same for a street 125 feet wide.

The resolutions of the board for the widening of Clinton and Suffolk sts specify a total width of 100 feet, which is an increase of 40 feet. At Clinton st the Bridge comes to grade, and Suffolk st is the first parallel street west. The idea, as is clear, is to provide adequate approaches from the north and the south, and the method decided on will, it is believed, sufficiently accomplish it, at least for the present. The widening, in the southerly direction, will extend to East Broadway, which is a 78-foot thoroughfare running southwest to Chatham square; and the broadening operation on the north will extend to East Houston st, which is a straight east and west thoroughfare 50 feet wide. East Broadway will form part of the most direct route between the two bridges, which is perhaps of less importance than that it will be the shortest way to any part of the south end of the island. The engineers are charged also to report plans, descriptions and estimates of cost for these two widenings, as well as for the other.

A final decision upon the whole scheme is thus within sight. The park features have been dismissed, as the Record and Guide suggested would be the better course, with regrets, but with no doubt of their practical unnecessity and inappropriateness for a section where the only things that will grow well are electric lights, iron pipes and hard pavements. Then, as for the width of Delancey st, our opinion has been that 125 feet would be ample; it would remove any suspicion of extravagance on the part of the Administration and serve the best interests of the neighborhood as well as of the through traffic.

Acting with Discretion.

The Post-Office Commissioners charged with the duty of selecting a site for the new Post-Office here, having no funds with which to secure binding options, are expected to report to Congress that at present land values, a site can probably be obtained for a certain sum, and asking for an appropriation. If the appropriation is granted, the committee will be in a position to buy. Having ascertained what certain good sites will cost, they are waiting for the money to make the purchase; and the first intimation to the public of what site has been selected may be the announcement of the actual transfer.

Cleanliness in Tenements.

Referring to the Tenement House Law and the proposed amendments, a prominent real estate man of Brooklyn remarked this week:

"Apartments of the higher class certainly need but little attention from a sanitary point of view, but I should much regret to see any legislation that would destroy the present system of inspection of the poorer class of tenements. Nevertheless, even in this respect the present law is onerous; it practically throws upon the owner the education of his tenants, for that is what in practice it amounts to. The ignorant and careless class who by force of circumstances are compelled to occupy the very poorest quarters, because of the lower rentals which there obtain, are so ingrained with indifference that to educate them to higher ideals of carefulness and cleanliness must necessarily be a slow and difficult work. If the owner must provide against the innate carelessness of his tenants, an expensive and irritating burden is thrown upon him. This condition is even now reflected in the prices which our older and poorer tenements command in this borough; in fact, they are marketable only at figures which, in almost every case, represent a considerable loss to the owner."

The Separate Assessment of Land and Building.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Your editorial in your issue of January 31st, criticising the bill introduced at Albany for the separate valuation of the land and the improvements, seems to me to be based upon a misconception of the law. You seem to imply, although you do not say, that the income from a piece of real property should be the test question in the matter of assessment. That, however, is not the theory of the tax law, which seeks to determine the market value of property, regardless of income. That being so, if it is apparent that the presence of the building adds nothing to the market value, the assessor, whose duty it is to determine only market value, should ignore the building in his assessment.

You say, "the borough is covered with buildings, which, while they are of temporary use in providing income for the owner, are almost a negligable quantity in the value. The land is practically vacant land and sells for the price it does because it is available for a certain kind of reimprovement." This is true, and all men know it, including the assessor. There can be no objection to the owner treating his property in that manner as he so desires, and I see no reason why the assessor should not so state it. As a matter of fact, how can be the assessor do otherwise if he perfoms his sworn duty?

The real object of the bill is to compel the assessor to show that he has done his duty by determining the market value of the property as the law requires, and not some arbitrary value based on rentals which the law does not require. It is as impossible to determine the market value of a piece of property with a building on it, without determining separately the value of the lot and the value of the building, as it is to fix upon a two-thirds valuation without first fixing full valuation.

Full valuation, if honestly carried out, will result, as you have shown, to the benefit of all small holders of improved property, and the only way to make known to the public that it is being honestly carried out is to compel the assessor to note on his assessment roll each step of the process by which he reaches the total of the assessed value he places on the property.

E. L. HEYDECKER.

Our correspondent's point is, as we understand it, that the separate valuation of lot and improvements will make the work of the deputy-assessors in appraising a piece of real property both more comprehensible and more certain; and we are well aware that the Comptroller and the other officials of the present administration really believed this to be the case, else they would not have approved this proposed change in the method of making the assessments. It is our opinion, on the other hand (an opinion shared by a great number of practical real estate appraisers) that in a very large number of cases, the attempt to value the land and the building separately would merely complicate the process of assessment without giving any additional security to the result. As was pointed out last week, such would not be the case with parcels of real estate which have been improved within the past ten years. An appraiser in estimating the value of these parcels would reach the market value by adding the known value of the vacant land to the known cost of the given class of improvement. But in regard to parcels which are improved with old buildings, the case is very different. Although these lots may be sold at any time, and the building torn down, yet it would not be true to say that the buildings add nothing to the market value of the property, because if they were not in existence, or were burned down, the owner would unquestionably be readier to sell, and might accept a lower price. Consequently in spite of the fact that when these lots are sold the buildings are frequently torn down, the buildings do contribute something to the market value of the property; but any assessor who could name precisely how much they contribute would be a clever appraiser. It is such cases as these, which, as we all know, are not exceptional, but which are perhaps more numerous than any other south of 59th street that under the proposed law would complicate the work of the deputy appraisers. The distinction would be both difficult to make and almost useless when made. Hence it is that many real estate men believe that, as long as the Tax Department admits that the deputy appraisers already have their hands full, their work should not be so unnecessarily increased and complicated—not at any rate until some system of revising and correcting the assessments inside the office is established.

Widening of 59th Street.

The comparative importance of 59th st to the central part of the city in the present, and the superiative importance that it will possess in the future, are both recognized in the long-continued appeal for the widening of the thoroughfare. By nature and inheritance, by a procession of circumstances that started away back when the lines of the first plan of the city were drawn, 59th st is what it is, ranking in eminence with 14th st, 23d, 42d and 125th, not only as great passageways east and west, but as boundary lines of zones almost as distinct as the belts of Saturn. Between 5th and 8th avs it has already dimensions commensurate with its position, but between 2d and 5th, and 8th and 9th avs, the width is quite inadequate even for the traffic of the present. When from a width of only 60 feet the space required for two railroad tracks is subtracted, the room left for the passage of wagons cannot be sufficient for comfort and safety; yet this is an existing condition, which of itself has become almost unbearable. To relieve this and at the same time to provide adequately for the future, it is the intention to increase the width of the street between 2d and 5th, and 8th and 9th avs, to a total of either 100 or 110 feet, by taking either 40 or 50 feet from the north side, or else by subtracting 50 feet from the property on the south side.

The proposition is yet in the charge of the Murray Hill Board of Public Improvements, and stands adjourned until February 23, when proofs may be submitted and the question will be advanced. The hearings have demonstrated that the property-owners on the north side of the street are positive that the only sensible thing to do is to get the additional width from the south side; while the owners on the south side are amazed that the commissioners should hesitate for a moment to recommend that the widening be done on the north side. It is due to this conflict of interests and opinions that the actual improvement has been so long delayed. Estimates of cost have been made of taking both 40 and 50 feet off the north side, and of 50 feet from the south side, and from the results thus obtained some observers have fully concluded to their own satisfaction which side will be taken and which left alone.

The total estimated cost of 50 feet on the north side, for all the property required between 2d and 5th and 8th and 9th avs is $5,100,000. Total for 40 feet on the north side, $4,214,000. Total for 50 feet on the south side, $4,416,000.

But there is another important fact to be considered when prophesying or advising. The lines of the south side of the street, east and west of 5th av, are level, but on the north side there is a jog at 5th av, because 59th st is 100 feet wide west of 5th av, and only 60 feet wide east of it. To take the space for the additional width from the south side would, therefore, make the street more crooked; but the taking of a strip 40 feet wide from the north side would make the junction perfect and remove the existing irregularity in the street lines. As for that part west of 8th av, it will make no difference to street lines which side the cut is made on, as the Circle removes the possibility of a crooked junction.

Fifty-ninth st, between 2d and 5th avs, is ornamented by a number of important buildings. On the north side is the Netherlands Hotel, having a frontage on this street of 125 feet; the Hoffman Arms apartments, 90 feet; the store of Bloomingdale Bros., with a frontage of 320 feet; and St. Thomas's Home, 70 feet. The south side is graced by the Hotel Savoy, 150 feet; Lenox Library, 145 feet; the offices of the Board of Education, 125 feet; the Arion Club, 90 feet; the old Progress Club, 50 feet; and two 8-sty hotels, 100 feet. The considerations involved are obviously extraordinarily large, but this must attend any improvement of equal value to the city. Were it not for the pressure of necessity a question so delicate might well be postponed indefinitely. But at 2d av, between 59th and 60th sts the approach to the Blackwell's Island Bridge will begin, and the widening of the street is therefore intended to serve a general as well as a local purpose. The traffic that will go and come from the bridge could not now be accommodated in the thoroughfare which it will naturaly seek, and the consequences of inaction, or no widening, being so plain, they need not be here depicted. As 59th st will be the main approach to the bridge, it must be made to accommodate the new as well as the ever-increasing old traffic. Naturally, the situation of the bridge entrance contributes an element of influence to the discussion, and in this connection it is pointed out that the bridge traffic would be better accommodated by operating on the north side of 59th st, which would avoid the making of an awkward junction at the bridge gates.

Brooklyn's Cobbles.

Mr. John Beet, chairman of the committee on street and local improvements of the West End Board of Trade of Brooklyn, when speaking of Borough President Swanstrom's request for an appropriation from the city government of $4,000,000 for repaving, remarked that the people of Brooklyn are the largest users and proprietors of cobblestones in the world. He added: "Statistics prove that so far as the entire Greater New York is concerned, the Borough of Brooklyn has almost a complete monopoly of the cobbles, for if my informant be right, there are no cobblestone streets in either of the boroughs of the Bronx or Manhattan, and few in the boroughs of Queens and Richmond; in fact we hold the unique record of having a larger mileage of cobblestone pavement in our borough, than any city in the civilized or uncivilized world. While the people of Brooklyn have no one to blame but themselves for this condition of affairs, public opinion over there is now wide awake to the fact that if we are to keep pace with the development of our sister boroughs, we must first rid ourselves of the curse from which we are now suffering. That it is the result of our past sin, we do not deny, and that in our miserably paved streets we have the harvest we might have foreseen when in the days of our youth we permitted the sowing of cobbles."

Opinions on Tenement Bills.

MR. FRYER AND MR. DOMMINEY POINT OUT PROBABLE EFFECTS OF PENDING MEASURES.

Senator Marshall made known this week that the bill amending the Tenement House law which he introduced in the Legislature had been given to him by a builders' association, and since studying it he has concluded that there are several things in it for which he is not prepared to stand responsible. The bills of Senators Wagner and Hawkins, being on more conservative lines, have not aroused the same degree of opposition as that which induced Senator Marshall to make the foregoing explanation.

MR. FRYER'S VIEWS.

Mr. William J. Fryer, being asked as to how the proposed exemption of three and four-family houses will affect building in Brooklyn, stated that in his opinion it would be particularly fortunate for the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx if the extreme requirements of the present Tenement House law was amended in respect to the limitations of area to be covered on a lot, and the width and sizes of courts for such houses reduced substantially to the requirements of the previous Tenement House law of 1897. "If the law is so amended," he continued, " the building of such houses will once more proceed with great rapidity. The Legislature of last year liberalized the laws for three-story buildings. Bills looking to further changes in the interest of three-story tenements, and in the interest of four-story tenements, have been introduced into the present Legislature, but the bills are not comprehensive enough in some cases, and in other cases are weighed down with matters that will enevitably secure their defeat, unless greatly modified.

"As an example, Senate bill No. 43, and Assembly bill No. 16, both being worded alike, start off by changing the definition of a tenement house from a building occupied as the home or residence of three families to 'five families' or by 'more than three families above the first story thereof.' Years ago the definition of a tenement house stood in the Charter as a building occupied by three or more families above the first story, but never was the definition a building occupied by five or more families. This would be a step backward, and I venture to say will not be approved by any one who understands the subject, however much any such person may be opposed to the present unjust Tenement House law.

"In the bills referred to, several minor matters are made subjects for amendments, such as the whitewashing of walls and ceilings of cellars, and the re-papering of walls or ceilings in rooms. It is proposed that in re-papering, only 'loose' paper shall be first removed, except 'in such rooms occupied by a person who has suffered from a contageous disease, in which case all wall paper shall be first removed.' When the Tenement House Commission of 1897 presented its prepared law to the Legislature it required that all wall paper in bedrooms should be removed and the walls whitewashed. Remembering that the legal definition of a tenement house was and is a building occupied by three or more families, whether located on 5th av or Avenue A, the proposed amendment, had it passed as represented, would have compelled the paper to be taken from the walls of the bedrooms in the Dakota or any other first-class apartment house, and the walls to be whitewashed! That requirement was quickly changed at Albany to one that when wall paper shall be placed upon a wall or ceiling all wall paper shall be first removed therefrom. To go back to the former filthy method that so generally prevailed of papering upon paper, and thus providing breeding-places for vermin between the several layers of paper and paste will surely bring opposition.

"I am opposed to piece-meal amendments of a law which requires amending fairly from its first line to its last. I know of no reason why relief should be given to two, three and four-story buildings without corresponding relief for five and six-story buildings, nor any relief should not be given to 'apartment houses' as contra-distinguished from 'tenement houses.' I do not think that the building and real estate interests have yet suffered enough from this law, nor that this law which was primarily intended for the benefit of poor men has yet been fully found out as being against their interests. Public sentiment is gradually working up to a point where a general demand will be made for a complete revision of the present Tenement House law and for the abolishment of the unnecessary and costly Tenement House Department."

MR. DOMMINEY'S VIEWS.

Mr. George A. Domminey, the real estate officer of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, at Brooklyn, said:

"The bills to amend the present Tenement House law, which have been introduced at Albany, recently, may not all be wisely drawn, and some of them may be too radical, but all are earnest in purpose, and clearly reflect the deep and widespread opposition to the drastic and extreme provisions of the present law as applied to the conditions existing in Greater New York, outside of Manhattan Borough. Both the Governor and individual members of the Legislature have been informed that this opposition is manifested, not alone by owners, but by tenants as well. Before the last election, the Republican leaders were well aware that the rapidly-spreading antagonism to the Tenement House law imperiled the re-election of Mr. Odell, and especial efforts were made to placate that antagonism.

"The true friends of Tenement House Reform would better cease criticism of the motives animating those who have secured the introduction of the bills, and devote their energies to attempts to discover the reason for the deep and widespread antipathy to the provisions of the law, even amongst the tenement population, and in the course of their investigations they may discover some of the many thousands of small sanitary, comfortable and well-kept tenements built under the old law, which are to be found scattered all over the Borough of Brooklyn. The trouble with all these reformers, including the Tenement House Commission itself, is, that they had become so wrought up over the undoubted evils existent in Manhattan, as to become utterly oblivious to the practical solution of the problem of tenement housing which was being worked out in the other boroughs, particularly in Brooklyn.

"The suggestion that the apartments in great twenty or twenty-four-family caravansaries, even built under the new law plans, can be as comfortable and as desirable as those in our small three, four, or six-family tenements, each apartment running through from street to yard, is calculated to stir with impatience any one familiar with the two types. Nevertheless, the Tenement House Commission has stood, and apparently is willing to stand to-day, as sponsor for a law, which, since its adoption, has effectively prevented the erection in the Borough of Brooklyn, of a single tenement wherein apartments might be had at less than $16 per month, whereas, during the preceding years, hundreds of tenements were annually erected, wherein apartments could be had at from $10 to $15 per month—sanitary, well-lighted and ventilated, comfortable apartments. To the foregoing statement one exception should be made:

"A small number of tenements have been erected in which rentals are at the lower scale before mentioned, but the floor plan is a technical evasion of the law, and besides is not much liked by those tenants who prefer a complete separation of rooms in a suite. This may seem a remarkable statement, but it can be easily verified by the records of the Building Department.

"So, we now have before us this astounding situation: The Tenement House Commission appointed for the purpose of improving the condition of the tenement population, using its machinery and influence to prevent the erection of the most desirable types of urban tenements known in the history of the building business. If the position of the tenement dweller could be improved by such a performance, so may a sufferer from dyspepsia be cured by cutting off his head. A grave injustice has been perpetrated upon the Borough of Brooklyn, and upon those, who under former conditions would have taken advantage of what the borough always had to offer in the way of superior accommodations at low rentals. It is true, Brooklyn's development has been, in a sense, at the expense of Manhattan. The superior tenements here have drawn from the big borough, year after year, the cleaner, better, more thrifty and more intelligent wage-earners, who dislike to live in great barracks; but if the Tenement House Commission can have its will, new accessions to this latter class must leave Greater New York altogether and seek owners in Jersey City, or Hoboken. Is it any cause for wonder that such a bill as that offered by Senator Wagner, to exempt all three-story flat houses from the provisions of the present law, should be favored by so many? This is probably because it is the general assumption that the Tenement House Commissioner will consent to no further modifications of the law, which also accounts for the many bills which have been introduced, containing so many and so diverse amendatory provisions.

DEFECTIVE IN THIS.

"As to the bills themselves, I think that wherein they undertake to destroy the sanitary supervision prescribed under the present law, they are defective and unwise, but wherein they would tend to remove the absurdities in the law and to correct the well-nigh intolerable conditions, respecting new construction, they are proper and wise.

"In my interview published by the Record and Guide, something more than a year ago, I dealt exhaustively with the character of our small Brooklyn tenements, and described the process of evolution through which they were being gradually improved. It will be distinctly to the advantage of the present and future tenement population of the smaller boroughs, if legislation could be had to restore the right to build three-story tenements as much as possible like the later construction of the old types. As a conclusion to the reform idea, inner courts which were formerly from 20 square feet to 25 square feet in area might be enlarged, so as to be 36 square feet in area, but to be in no part less than 4 feet wide—outer courts to be not less than 3 feet wide. Experience with the smaller courts first mentioned has shown that where the apartments run through from street to yard ample light and ventilation are secured; in fact, as the rooms follow in regular order from front to rear, with communicating doorways, usually in a straight line, it is but necessary to open a front and rear window to secure complete ventilation.

"During this winter it has been found that house seekers have passed by the apartments in buildings built with the Tenement House Department's concession-court, 8x14, and have deliberately chosen those in buildings of the former type, with smaller courts, as they did not care to undertake to heat the over-ventilated apartments with the 8x14 court. As none of this class of apartments can be had for less than $19 per month, it may be easily imagined what course would be pursued by house-seekers unable to pay more than $12 per month. Whether the fireproofing of the halls and stairways should be eliminated from the provisions for four-story tenements is a fair question for discussion, but aside from that, inner courts of 50 square feet, with a minimum width of 5 feet, and outer courts with a minimum width of 4 feet, would be amply sufficient. For tenements or apartments above four stories in height, all the reasonable features of the present law would be better retained. As for the multitude of minor absurdities and exasperations affecting both now-existing and hereafter erected tenements, the Tenement House Commissioner might well take the evidence of practical observers, and of tenants themselves, and retain as few of them as possible."

West End Association,

ADDRESS BY DEPUTY-COMPTROLLER STEVENSON—A COMMITTEE SENT TO ALBANY.

At a meeting of the West End Association, February 2, President Wilmot was empowered to appoint a delegation to attend the hearing at Albany, before the Senate Committee on Cities, in support of Senate bill No. 45. Messrs. J. L. Brower, Lawson, Marble, Quinn, Swayne and Wicker were appointed as such committee.

Mr. James W. Stevenson, Deputy-Comptroller of the City of New York, addressed the meeting relative to the bill above mentioned, explaining the existing condition of the city sinking funds, the laws under which they are managed and the changes proposed in the pending measure. The outstanding obligations run until 1928; there are funds now in hand to pay all such obligations up to 1925, and about $8,000,000 will cover those maturing between 1925 and 1928. The city is now setting apart in its sinking fund about $8,000,000 yearly in excess of the requirements, and the aim of the bill under discussion is to prevent the accumulation of such surplus and to that extent reduce the tax levy.

On motion, a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Stevenson for his address.

The reports of committees showed that the Association is a very active body, as well as an influential one. The Committee on Grievances reported that the property-owners in West 72d st have never been assessed for its paving; if it should be asphalted, they may be called upon to bear part of the expense. It was stated that the result of so handling this matter would be to take the street from the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Parks and return it to that of the Department of Public Works, and there is difference of opinion among the residents as to what should be done.

The Committee on Taxation reported that they are looking after the bills so far introduced at Albany, among which the following were noted: Senate Bill 147, relative to tax on certificates and conveyances; Senate Bill 111, local option in taxation, which the association has heretofore supported; Senate Bills 143 and 144, relative to taxing corporations; Senate Bill 87, amending the law as to taxation of personal property; Senate Bill 45, amending the sinking fund provisions of the charter; Senate Bill 113, amending the charter provisions as to time of levying and collecting taxes; and the measure relative to mortgage tax.

Standing committees were announced as follows:

Local Improvements.—James Van Dyck Card, 248 W. 73d; Lucius M. Stanton, 31 W. 71st; Walter Stabler, 674 Columbus av; Percival Robert Moses, 235 W. 76th; George A. Bowman, 103 W. 42d; Henry B. Wilson, 37 W. 86th; William R. Ware, 451 Columbus av; Josiah C. Pumpelly, 257 W. 85th; Calvin Tompkins, 329 W. 87th.

Sanitary Affairs and Nuisances.—Judson Lawson, 898 West End av; Scott Foster, 332 W. 72d; A. L. Root, M. D., 114 W 81st; J. M. Smith, 43 W. 90th; C. S. Benedict, M. D., 310 W. 102d.

Membership.—George C. Batcheller, 237 W 72d; Alex. Walker, 414 Riverside Drive; J. L. Brower, 607 West End av; Max Vogel, 315 W. 79th; Edward P. Cone, 314 W. 90th; Emile Twyeffort, 61 W. 90th; Wm. H. Whittingham, 164 W. 76th.

Grievances.—J. L. Brower, 607 West End av; William W. Brower, 318 W. 90th; Spencer Aldrich, 45 Broadway; Alfred L.

Manierre, 330 W. 76th; Charles G. Dobbs, 298 West End av; James G. Wentz, 312 W. 82d; John McDonald, 325 W. 75th.

Finance.—George C. Batcheller, 237 W. 72d; Judson Lawson, 898 West End av; Wm. H. Chapman, 116 W. 85th; Albert L. David, 674 Columbus av; Philip Rosenheim, 113 W. 74th.

Legislation, Law and Schools.—John C. Coleman, 167 W. 73d; John McDonald, 325 W. 75th; Wm. H. B. Totten, 15 W. 73d; J. L. Brower, 607 West End av; Francis B. Swayne, 326 W. 90th; David M. Holmes, 101 W. 81st; James A. Deering, 15 Wall; W. Johnson Quinn, Hotel Empire; A. Walker Otis, 594 West End av.

Taxation.—De Borden Wilmot, 40 W. 97th; John H. Judge, 27 W. 94th; Sharles E. Sprague, 116 W. 75th; Cassius M. Wicker, 599 West End av; Cyrus C. Marble, 29 Broadway.

House.—Frank R. Houghton, 111 Broadway; Lucius M. Stanton, 31 W. 71st; Walter Stabler, 674 Columbus av; John Eiderkin, 150 W. 83d; Alexander Pollock, 326 W. 82d.

New York City Legislation at Albany.

NEW STAMP TAX AND OBJECTIONS TO IT—REAL ESTATE TO BEAR ANOTHER BURDEN, IF THIS MEASURE PASSES.

The bill that has been introduced by Senator Green, to amend the tax law in relation to the taxation of certificates and conveyances, defines the meaning of the word "certificate" as including whatever kind, name, or nature, made, issued or taken by or before a notary public, commissioner of deeds or by or before any other public officer who may be authorized by the law of this state to make, issue or take the same. The term "conveyance" means every deed, instrument or writing whereby any lands, tenements, estate or property, real or personal, heritable or movable, shall be granted, assigned, transferred or otherwise conveyed to or vested in the purchaser or purchasers, or in any other person or persons, corporation or corporations, by his, her or their direction, or corporate authority. Upon all such certificates and conveyances the bill would impose a tax of ten cents in the form of a stamp.

All stock transactions, as well as real estate transactions, it will be observed, are subject to the tax. But this was not the professed intention of the framers of the bill, and an amendment has been agreed upon to remove that feature. But the question has been raised here in New York, why tax real estate transfers and not stock transactions? It is doubted that the stock-tax feature was put in by inadvertance, and real estate interests, so far as heard from, incline to the belief that the bill will not be passed. The lawyers are firmly opposing it because it covers all affidavits made in legal procedures. At a joint hearing on Wednesday, at Albany, objections came so thick and fast that the chairman of the committee remarked that if all the elminations proposed should be made, the bill would not be much of a revenue producer. [Later.—The committee reported in favor of taxing nothing but real estate conveyances.]

A bill introduced by Mr. Martin provides that it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Docks to lease wharf property owned by the city for the purposes of a market, for the highest rental, at public auction, or by sealed bids, after a public advertisement, but not for a longer term than twenty-five years, nor providing for a renewal for a longer term than ten years. The existing law was considered too indefinite, as it merely specified that the city might cause public markets to be erected and kept over the waters of the East and North Rivers, adjoining any of the docks or wharves. The purpose of the bill is to break up a fishmongers' combination which now has possession of Piers Nos. 23 and 24 East River, which are at the foot of Fulton st.

Senator Wagner has handed up a bill to provide improved traveling facilities and a continuous ride for one fare on surface and elevated railroads in the City of New York operating in the Borough of Brooklyn. A five-cent fare would entitle to a continuous passage without change of cars from New York to the terminus of the road in Brooklyn, or in case where connection is made with another road to the terminus of such connecting road or to any station of any of said roads without payment of additional fare. The bill makes it the duty of such railroads to run through trains every five minutes during the rush hours.

Assemblyman Butler has introduced a bill to secure the registration of hydraulic steam and hot-water fitters, and the supervision of the hydraulic steam or hot-water fittings in office buildings, factories, public buildings, or other buildings. No one shall carry on the business of steam-fitting without a license, no one shall work at the trade without a certificate of competency. Provision is made for the appointment of an examining board. The departments of buildings are charged with the enforcement of the provisions of the act through their superintendents of buildings, and in addition to employees now provided for by law they shall appoint inspectors of hydraulic steam and hot-water fittings. The effect of the bill is to make a sort of close communion for the steamfitters, such as doctors, plumbers, funeral directors and others find to their advantage. The principal question involved is, where will this thing stop?

Assemblyman Fitzpatrick has undertaken to reduce the cost of traveling in this city by introducing a bill providing that between 5.30 and 7.30 a. m. there shall be given by all street railways to each passenger, on payment of a five-cent fare a return ticket good between 5 and 6.30 p. m. On ferries operating in the city the same rule is to be enforced, if the bill becomes a law.

A brief but important measure, introduced by Mr. Morgan, exempts from taxation bonds and stocks issued by the former city of Brooklyn.

By Senator Plunkett: To remit certain taxes heretofore imposed upon the lands of the Church of St. Malachy, in the City of New York.

Questions and Answers.

We must remind our correspondents that we cannot answer anonymous communications. Readers must also remember that communications to us cannot invariably be answered the week they are received.

ASSESSMENT FOR OPENING STREETS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

When does the assessment for the opening of a street, confirmed by the Commissioners of the Supreme Court, become a lien against the property? On the date of confirmation or when entered on the books of the Assessor's bureau? The point is made that there is a difference in the time when liens created in proceedings in which the Commissioners act and liens created by regular Board of Assessors.

Answer.—Section 159 of the Charter provides as follows: "There shall be kept in the office of the collector of assessments and arrears a full and complete record, in detail, of all lists of assessments confirmed, whether by the Supreme Court or the board of revision or the Board of Assessors, with the date of confirmation and the date of entry under such record, which record shall be open to inspection during office hours, and the same shall be received as presumptive evidence of the facts therein contained. An assessment shall become a lien upon the real estate affected thereby ten days after its entry in the said record."—Law Editor.

DEFECTIVE WATER SUPPLY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please give me your advice on the following: I am living in a tenement and am compelled to go down to the cellar (four flights) for water. I have written to the Health Department and also to the Fire Department, and also notified the agent, but seem to get no relief.

Answer.—The "Tenement House Law," Section 104, provides that "Every tenement house shall have water furnished in sufficient quantity at one or more places on each floor occupied by or intended to be occupied by one or more families." This is one of the sanitary provisions. Your letter to the Health Department should certainly have received attention. I recommend that you make personal complaint at the Health Department.—Law Editor.

RELEASE OF BONDSMAN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following questions: (1) What is the regular course, if any, to be taken where the maker of a bond and mortgage sells the property, and after maturity of mortgage, the bondsman is desirous of being released from the bond? (2) Can bondsman be held indefinitely if he notifies mortgagee to get a new bondsman and mortgagee disregards notice?

Answer.—(1) The bondsman should serve a notice on the holder of the bond and mortgage requiring him to enforce payment. If the holder does not, within a reasonable time, commence proceedings to enforce payment, his failure to do so will be a good defense to the bondsman if a foreclosure action is commenced and judgment is sought against him. (2) Bondsman cannot require holder of bond and mortgage to get new bondsman. He can be held on his bond after its maturity unless he gives notice as stated above.—Law Editor.

DEMAND NOTE—WHEN OUTLAWED.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

At what time (if any) does a note payable on demand become outlawed?

Answer.—A note payable on demand is payable at once. In the State of New York, it is outlawed in six years from the time of its execution.—Law Editor.

The February Architectural Record.

The February number of the "Architectural Record" has for its most important article a discussion by Mr. Russell Sturgis, of "Simple Ways of Fireproofing." This is one of Mr. Sturgis' favorite topics, and he shows in an extremely interesting manner how wood can be dispensed with in buildings without the use of any of the peculiarly modern devices. The same number includes articles on "Recent Brickwork in New York," with illustrations; a description of a very sumptuous American residence in Paris; illustrations of the house of S. Sachs, at Elberon, New Jersey; and some striking reproductions of the work in sculpture of Arnold Böcklin. These grotesque faces have never been reproduced before, and are remarkable for the manner and power of the characterization they contain.

LEASES.

Ames & Co. have leased Nos. 229 to 239 West 28th st for the Marshall estate to the W. H. Jackson Iron Works, for twenty-one years; also, for the Tuckerman estate to the New York Woven Wire Works, Nos. 225 and 227 West 28th st; for Thomas Gridley, two lofts in the building at No. 240 West 27th st, and for the William H. Lyon Iron Works two lofts at No. 202 East 46th st, to Xavier Grisez.

Nicholson & Co. have leased for the Bonynge estate, of London, the entire building, corner of 21st st and Broadway, to the American Express Company and others, and leased for a long term from the plans to a German lithographic company of Berlin, a large factory to be erected in East 42d st; also the eleventh floor of the Franklin Building, in Murray st, to The Abbey Salts Co., of Montreal.

Pepe & Bro. have leased for Herman Cohen No. 68 West 3d st, a 5-sty tenement, at a rental aggregate of $8,100 for three years; also for Lowenfeld & Prager No. 139 Thompson st, a 5-sty tenement, for five years.

The firm of Chas. R. Faruolo & Co. have leased for the estate of the late Marc Eidlitz, the well-known builder, the two 5-sty tenements, Nos. 538 and 540 East 117th st, for a term of 10 years, to a client, at an aggregate rental of $20,000.

George J. Kenny & Bro. have leased for the estate of Nehemiah U. Tompkins, the upper lofts in the new building recently erected, No. 161 Bowery, to the National Cigar Manufacturing Co., of Albany, N. Y.; also for Mrs. Jane Baker, of Dublin, Ireland, the building and premises No. 66 Prince st, to Max Pilmer, for a term of years; to Michael Bidetti the premises and building No. 26 Spring st; also for Dr. Robert M. Weed, the loft in building No. 273 Bowery, to Parchello & Co.; and for the estate of Thomas R. Fisher the store in building No. 287½ Bowery, to A. Romano.

OUT OF TOWN.

Nicholson & Co. have sold to Reboulin Fils & Co., of Paris, France, the extensive automobile plant at Elizabethport, N. J., costing more than $200,000, and comprising over three acres of land, and numerous buildings of over 100,000 square feet of floor space, formerly used by the Riker Automobile Co.

—For fifty consecutive days a man collected in the busiest streets of London information as to the number of horses that fell on the different kinds of street paving. During the period for which record was kept, he found that 1,066 horses fell on asphalt, 719 on granite, and 542 on wood. The figures are certainly surprising, but it must be admitted that much of the value of the statistics is lost on account of the omission of the proportion of streets paved with granite, with asphalt, and with wood.

Special Notices.

An advertisement will be found in another column which offers a remarkable opportunity to builders. Mr. H. L. Gassin, of No. 3 East 33d st, offers to sell for $5,000 in cash, the rest remaining on mortgage at 4½ per cent, six plots measuring 50x ½ the block, situated on 107th and 108th sts, and beginning 110 feet west of Madison ave. The Madison ave frontage of the block has recently been sold for improvement. The plots now offered are admirably adapted for high-class buildings. It is rarely that builders are offered such an excellent chance to acquire well situated vacant property.

On Wednesday, Feb. 18th, Bryan L. Kennelly will conduct at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, 111 Broadway, one of the most important sales of the season. The property is offered by the executors of the estate of Henry McArdle, and includes a number of excellent parcels situated in Greenwich Village and south thereof, a part of the city in which values recently have been increasing. Among the properties may be mentioned two tenements on the northeast corner of Varick and Beach sts, the 6-sty tenement at 28 Varick st, Nos. 27 and 29 North Moore st, the northwest corner of Varick and North Moore sts, a plot 108x100 on the southwest corner of Varick and Beach sts, No. 34 Laight st, running through to 13 Vestry st; No. 20 Varick st, No. 13 Barrow st, the leasehold property at the southeast corner of Beach and Varick sts, and the leasehold at No. 22 Varick st. There will also be sold a plot on the north side of Montgomery st, 45 feet east of Nostrand av. Books, maps, etc., may be seen at the auctioneer's office, No. 7 Pine st.

The Corlears Realty Company, 170 Broadway, as appears from an announcement on our Want and Offer page, will lease for a term of years a plot of 3,500 square feet at the junction of Boston av and Southern Boulevard, Borough of the Bronx. The company offers to pay full brokerage.

On Feb. 19th there will be sold at public auction at No. 72 Woodworth av, Yonkers, by the receivers of the late firm of W. & J. Kellock, stone merchants, the interest which that firm had in the premises at the foot of Wells av in that city, and the stock of stone on hand, and all the tools, horses, wagons, etc., used formerly by them in their business.

Real Estate Notes.

W. W. & T. M. Hall inform us that No. 20 East 65th st, reported sold in our last issue, has not been sold.

E. W. Bliss was the buyer of Nos. 304 to 310 West 23d st, reported sold last week. He owns the adjoining building.

Philip Jeselson has removed his offices from 60 Liberty st to more spacious quarters at 165 Broadway, between Cortlandt and Liberty sts.

On Wednesday 100 shares of the Broad-Exchange Co.'s common stock were sold at auction for $20 per share. Par value, $100 per share.

James J. Etchingham on Feb. 2 was appointed receiver of the rents of the premises No. 238 West 60th st, by Judge Leventritt of the Supreme Court.

Arnold, Constable & Co. are the buyers of Nos. 14 and 18 West 23d st. They already own No. 16. No. 14 adjoins a 6-sty building owned by them extending through to 23d st.

Walter J. Cohn, real estate operator, has opened offices at No. 135 Broadway, North American Trust Building. He is prepared to buy real estate in any active section of the city and has a number of desirable parcels for sale. His telephone Nos. are 7655 and 7656 Cortlandt.

N. & L. Ottinger frequently appear as buyers of West Side dwellings, a line in which good profits are possible and probable.

The New York Operating Co., recently incorporated by P. H. Lynch and Geo. J. Ebert, have bought from the latter about 40 lots on Seaman av and Emerson st, recently taken in trade for apartment houses built by Ebert & Lynch.

The Real Estate Auctioneers' Association, which will leave the Trinity Building Salesroom soon, is considering the purchase of the 4-sty building on the northwest corner at Liberty and Church sts. The lot is 35x100. It is owned by former Congressman Jefferson M. Levy.

Comptroller Grout has appointed Mortimer C. Brown head of the Municipal Real Estate Bureau, a new branch of the Finance Department. The city is a large owner of real estate, holding property valued at between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000, including the parks. The work of leasing, changing and renting these properties has hitherto been divided among various city officials. It is now proposed to transact all this business in one bureau

The Title Guarantee & Trust Compony made a number of promotions in its Law Department at the commencement of the year. Mr. Edward E. Sprague has joined the firm of Strong & Cadwalader, but will continue to serve the company as counsel. Associated with him Mr. Samuel Huntington, Mr. John G. Boston and Mr. Edward C. Pearson have been appointed counsel of the company. Mr. Edwin L. Ford has been made solicitor of the company, and Mr. Henry S. Concklin and Mr. Walter Lindner assistant solicitors.

On Wednesday, Broker John N. Golding took title to three dwellings on 54th st, east of Park av, which recalls a report recently circulated that the N. Y. Central R. R. intended to erect a landing station between 54th and 56th sts, east of Park av. The consideration of $527,500 in the deed conveying a plot, 98.9x200, on the northwest corner of 6th av and 40th st was for the land only. The grantee owns the buildings which were completed 25 years ago by W. H. Malcom. The annual ground rent since 1878 has been $13,000.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the McVickar Realty Trust Co., held on Tuesday, the following officers were unanimously re-elected for the coming year: President, H. W. McVickar; First Vice-President, W. E. G. Gaillard; Second Vice-President, Francis Burton Harrison; Secretary and Treasurer, E. D. McGreal. The following directors, whose terms expired last month, together with Edwin Hawley, who is a director of the Southern Pacific Railroad, were unanimously elected for a term of three years: Henry A. Robbins, William Salomon, George F. Baker, Jr., Francis Burton Harrison and William E. G. Gaillard.

Material Market.

BRICK.

All the elements in the composition of weather antagonistic to brick combined to make the week unpleasant and unprofitable. Thunder showers, settled rain and frosts, alternated when it was hoped there might be much doing. Navigation to Haverstraw, which had been closed for several weeks, was resumed with the permission of the temperature last Saturday night, when a Cornell tow containing 55 empty brick barges left here and made the journey safely. The average capacity of the barges is estimated at 280,000, which means that they will bring back to market this week 15,400,000, if all the boats should return within that period. Fifteen arrived on Tuesday, as the first instalment. The Haverstraw manufacturers are embarrassed, however, by a strike among the laborers and crews, which began on Monday. Taking advantage of the then pressing demand for labor, the crews all asked to be hired by the month instead of being paid by the trips, and they want the full quota of five men to constitute a crew instead of only the cook and the captain. The men have been getting thirty dollars while paid by the month. Some of the manufacturers have given in to the strikers and are at this writing having their barges loaded. On Thursday morning there were a considerable number of loaded barges lying at the Haverstraw yards waiting for a tow.

But for the lighter demand on account of the weather and the resumption of navigation, bricks would have been a highly-prized commodity in the market this week. Even under existing circumstances they may be termed scarce, and prices have sharply advanced, and are now held firmly at a higher level than for months past, though there is some falling-off from the first part of the week.

Speaking on Wednesday, Mr. Frank Brockway, of the Brockway Brick Company, remarked: "The mild weather of the last few days has softened the ice in the river to such an extent that a tow of fifteen boats arrived yesterday from Haverstraw. Quotations are as fol ows: Common, $5.75 to $6.00; specials, $6.00 to $6.50.

"There is no doubt but that brick will continue to be the dominant material in the ordinary New York house. It is difficult to imagine a material that can be used successfully as a substitute for it. Concrete has been used in some instances for entire buildings, but it was quite noticeable that on subsequent operations the same parties came back to the old standby, brick.

"That red brick fronts are coming back into general use is not to be wondered at if one will compare the appearance of a building where they have been used, with one where other colored brick were used.

"In regard to the proposed modifications of the tenement house law, I am inclined to think that, if enacted into law, it would enliven building operations in Greater New York quite materially."

LOOKING FORWARD.

Mr. Robert Main, of the Empire Brick and Supply Company, is of the opinion that the outlook for the coming season is encouraging, and agrees with others in thinking brick will continue to be the dominant material in the ordinary New York house, increasing rather than diminishing in popularity. He added:

"I concur in your opinion, that it would be very desirable and possible to bring pressure and influence to bear with State and municipal authorities to secure to some extent the preferment of brick as an almost exclusively New York State industry, in the New York City market, and I have been at a loss to understand for a number of years, why builders and the manufacturers of brick, generally, have not taken action in this matter, as every one who is at all acquainted with building materials knows that brick is the only proper material for construction purposes, as there is no other material to my knowledge, which will resist fire and the elements of the weather nearly as well.

"The proposed modifications in the tenement house law, if enacted, will no doubt enliven building operations in Greater New York to a remarkable extent, and also cause a great deal better demand for the cheaper grades of brick, which for the past two years have been a drug on the market, owing to this law, and also owing to the fact that speculative builders generally have not been able to continue with their operations, to any great extent.

"Regarding the amount of brick left on hand in the yards along the Hudson River, I have not ascertained the exact amount, excepting in the Haverstraw District, where I understand the amount was about 77,000,000, which is about 4,000,000 less than a year ago, but from my own personal knowledge, I think the amount on hand at points north of Haverstraw is about the same as in the spring of 1902."

The Kreischer Brick Manufacturing Company says: "The prospect for front brick for the coming year appears to us to be very favorable. The majority of our inquiries are for Gray of various shades, Speckled and Buff Brick, in the order named; also a few calls for White brick."

At least two firms who are exploiting sand-lime brick are now represented in New York, and we have received some literature concerning their respective systems. It is well known that sand united with lime will go through a hardening process; common mortar is an instance, and it is equally well known that the older the mortar the harder it becomes; the idea of manufacturing bricks out of these two materials is founded on this property. It is claimed that the sand-brick is fit for every use to which a good brick is put, and that the cost of the manufacturing plant is considerably less than for clay bricks. A profit of from 50 to 100 per cent., according to local conditions, can be made on the output, it is asserted. The process has not been quite clear to the average person, inasmuch as the supposition was entertained, that the present hardening process by steam, is nothing else than an acceleration of the former hardening process in the open air. This is erroneous. By hardening the brick in the air, the lime forms a chemical alliance with the carbonic acid contained in the atmosphere, thus generating a carbonate of lime, which mechanically embraces the fine particles of sand, combining them to a solid mass. While contrary to this, by the steam-hardening process, the steam occasions the opening of the silicic-acid in the sand and lime, generating a silicate of lime, which cements chemically the particles of sand on the surface.

The freshly compressed bricks are stacked on iron tray cars, which, after they are loaded, are run into a long iron cylinder fitted with rails; whereupon the cylinder, which can, according to its length, hold from 10,000 to 20,000 bricks, is hermetically sealed and then subjected to the direct action of high-pressured steam fed by previously deposited chemicals. In this wise is the result obtained that the hydrated lime and the silicic acid of the sand combine and form a silicate of lime, which gives to the brick its hardness and weatherproof properties. After the bricks have undergone the action of the steam for ten or twelve hours, the same steam is turned into a second hardening cylinder that has been filled with other bricks in the meanwhile, and the bricks are ready for use. It is said that the industry is fully established in Europe.

LUMBER.

The Southern Cypress Selling Company has announced an advance in prices. Whitewood and quartered oak are also held at higher prices. Five or six years ago inch ones and twos quartered white oak were selling upon a basis of about $52 f. o. b. in New York, but the present prices range from $70 to $75. On the other hand, good inch plain oak, which seldom if ever sold below $38 in times of depression, is selling for only $40 to $42 to-day. When complaint is made of the great advance in lumber values, an exception must, therefore, be made for plain oak.

Mr. W. R. Creed, of W. R. Creed & Co., 18 Broadway, city, has returned from a visit to the hemlock mills of the Lackawanna Lumber Company in Pennsylvania, the output of which his firm handles in this market. Mr. Creed reports hemlock stock as scarce, with no accumulation and plenty of orders ahead, and he believes that the present conditions at the manufacturing end of the hemlock trade are an augury of a firm maintenance of the present basic price.

The retail local trade is fair for the season; the yards as a whole are wintering good stocks; things keep moving, though in the wholesale line there is not much activity.

CEMENT.

Continuing in strong demand, and with the certain prospect of a vast requirement in the months to come, cement prices are stiffening instead of receding. At a time when the dealer and the consumer would ordinarily expect better terms, they are being met by a higher price list from the best makers. We do not say, for example, that domestic Portland of some kind cannot be bought for less than $1.90 at wholesale; but if one means a standard legitimate article, he will have difficulty in placing an order with an agent for less than even $1.95 under the easiest conditions of delivery.

Mr. C. Angell, of the Eureka Cement Company, said: "We consider the cement market, so far as the demand for American Portland cement is concerned, in a better condition than it has ever been. There is more business offered now than at the same time last year, and were we to accept half of the business offered us, our product would be more than oversold for the entire year, and we learn that other factories are in exactly the same position as our own in regard to this. At the present price there is not the enormous profit for the manufacturer that the user of cement is led to believe, and that is owing to the great increased cost of coal and the increased freight rates. We feel confident that $2.50 per bbl. delivered on the work will be a fair price for Portland cement during the season of 1903. Last year the German cements sold at less than this price, and in New York City American manufacturers were obliged in some instances to compete. The German people, in their over-anxiety to regain their lost prestige, sold cement here at a loss. However, this year they are holding their cement at very much higher prices than last, and in conversation with a large importer last week, the importer made a statement that the German cements this year would be the Tiffanys of the trade. If the American manufacturers found that the German cements were selling at less than they feel called upon to dispose of their product at, the demand outside of New York, at points where the freight rates make imported Portland cement prohibitive except at a very high price, is so great that the New York market could be left entirely alone, so that any low prices of German cement would not affect the American manufacturers so far as disposing of their product was concerned at a high price."

The Newark Lime and Cement Company, of Rondout, one of the largest concerns in the business of manufacturing Rosendale, is turning its attention to Portland. By request a number of experts this week made an examination of the company's quarries and reported that "in the quarries can be found the proper rock or stone for the manufacture of the best Portland cement."

FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION.

Mr. John W. Rapp said this week: "We believe the year 1903 will see more building operations of the first-class than previous years. We judge that it will be a banner year in our line of work, and although we have extended our plant until it now covers two entire city blocks, we are compelled to refuse a good deal of business throughout the United States."

Building News

MERCANTILE.

24TH ST.—Anton L. Olsen, No. 1169 Fox st, Bronx, will erect a 10-sty loft building on plot, 83x98.9, at Nos. 149-155 West 24th st. C. Abbot French, 406 W. 42d st, who drew plans for a similar building for Mr. Olsen at Nos. 135-141 West 20th st, will again be his architect.

23D ST.—E. W. Bliss will erect a 10-sty fireproof loft building at Nos. 304-310 East 23d st, on plot 72.6x90, from plans by R. L. Daus, No. 26 Court st, Brooklyn. Mr. Daus was the architect of the new building Nos. 312-316 East 23d st, now occupied by E. W. Bliss, and the proposed building will be similar in design.

6TH AV.—The Rhinelander estate, No. 155 West 14th st, will erect a 10-sty modern fireproof building on the east side of 6th av, between 13th and 14th sts, for Henry Siegel, who has leased the property for twenty-one years. The new building will adjoin and connect with a modern 10-sty building already leased by Mr. Siegel, who will eventually control and operate a department store 208 ft. on 6th av, 175 ft. on 14th, and 200 ft. on 13th st. The architects will be Cady, Berg & See, No. 6 West 22d st.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

The Senate of the State of Minnesota has adopted a resolution in favor of free lumber.

The annual election of the Building Trades' Club will occur on February 9.

The Lumber Dealers' Association of Connecticut will meet at Hartford, Feb. 12.

Cady, Berg & See, architects, have removed from 31 East 17th st, Manhattan, to 6 West 22d st.

John F. Cronin has leased property at the northeast corner of 120th st and Park av, Manhattan, as a location for a retail lumber business.

Lumber now stands third in the value of its products among the great industries of the United States, food products being first, textiles second, and iron and steel fourth.

Schedules in bankruptcy of Henry L. Boughton, wall paper and interior decorator, formerly at No. 431 5th av, show liabilities $45,275, of which $1,571 are for wages, and nominal assets $18,436.

The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. has recently purchased several acres of sand bank property at Dover, N. H., and has begun erecting a $50,000 plant for manufacturing prepared mortar.

The Realty Tax Company, Nos. 93-99 Nassau st, makes a specialty of obtaining reductions of tax assessments in case of overvaluation, or where erroneously made. No charge is made unless a reduction is obtained.

The W. E. Caldwell Co., of Louisville, Ky., builders of cypress and iron and steel tanks, are putting large outfits for fire protection for eight or ten of the biggest concerns in New York City, among which may be specified the American Cotton Oil Co., the American Smelting & Refining Co., the International Paper Co., and the United Board & Box Co.

At the last meeting of the New York Lumber Trade Association at 18 Broadway, the following were elected to membership: Stevens, Eaton & Co., wholesale lumber dealers, 18 Broadway, New York; James Taylor & Sons, retail lumber dealers, 11th av and 21st st, New York; Rode & Horn, retail lumber dealers, 1 to 9 Lynch st, Brooklyn, N. Y.; C. O. Shepherd, wholesale lumber dealer, 1 Madison av, New York.

Mr. George H. Gibson has resigned his position with the Westinghouse Companies' Publishing Department, of Pittsburg, Pa., to accept a position with the B. F. Sturtevant Co., of Jamaica Plain Station, Boston, Mass., the well-known manufacturers of blowers, heating, ventilating and forced-draft apparatus, electrical machinery, and steam engines. Mr. Gibson was formerly a member of the editorial staff of the "Engineering News," of New York City, and is a graduate of the Engineering School of the University of Michigan.

Hereafter, when a Brooklyn street that is paved with granite blocks on sand foundation shall be opened by plumbers or others for any cause, it must be relaid on a base composed of Portland cement concrete mixed, in the proportion of one of cement, three of sand and six of broken stone, the joints of the blocks to be filled with tar and gravel, according to the usual practice for this kind of work. The price of the opening is to be thirteen dollars for five square yards and one dollar and fifty cents for each additional yard. All granite streets laid on a concrete base will be treated in the same way.

Following the example of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the New York Central will also have a hotel in its new terminal building, and it will go the Penn one better and add a department store, if current reports be true; though one wonders why. But if they do take up dry-goods and notions here, why not also at all the principal stations? The possibilities of railroading are not by any means exhausted. The hotel and department store will occupy in part a great structure, 25 stories high, and stretch from Madison av over Vanderbilt av to Lexington av, taking in the span covered by the present Grand Central Station, and the vacant block between 43d and 44th sts and Madison and Vanderbilt avs.

M. Fine succeeds Lanrowitz & Fine as proprietor of the long-established Empire Cornice Works, No. 396 Broome st, near Centre. Recent contracts include such structures as the Progress Club, on Central Park West, Louis Korn, architect; Trow Building, 12th st and 3d av, A. J. Robinson Co., contractors; Thebaud residence, White Plains, Snelling & Potter, architects; apartment hotels, Riverside Drive and 97th st and 77th st, near Columbus av, for West Side Construction Co; several public schools; Hotel Bristol, rebuilding, 5th av and 42d st, J. A. Zimmerman, contractor; synagogue in East 85th st, G. F. Pelham, architect; Hotel

St. George, Brooklyn, alteration; and Seaman and Bedford residences, Brooklyn, M. W. Morris, architect. Mr. Fine gives strict personal attention to all contracts. His telephone call is 909 Spring.

Convention of Brick Manufacturers.

The 17th annual convention of the National Association of Brick Manufacturers is in session this week at Boston. This is the first time that the association has met in New England, and there is a large attendance. The headquarters are at the Brunswick Hotel, which is situated on Boylston st, and faces Copley square, one of the famous spots in Boston, about which is grouped the Public Library, the Museum of Fine Arts, and Trinity Church, the last considered by many architects the finest structure architecturally in the United States. The local committee secured the use of Copley Hall for the whole week for convention and exhibition purposes. It is situated across the street and one block south from the Brunswick, and is a large and comfortable hall, affording ample accommodations for the display of machinery and material. The exhibition room is open at all times, excepting the hours when the convention is in session, when it is closed to exhibitors and visitors alike. A badge of membership was presented to members and those accompanying them, with the compliments of the New England brickmakers. It was the ambition of the local committee to make every visitor happy. Every clayworker in the land was invited to attend the convention. As in the past, all sessions were open to the public. An association dinner was served on Wednesday evening at the Brunswick Hotel. There was no session of the convention on Thursday afternoon, but the delegates and visitors went instead on an excursion to Dover Point, N. H., as the guests of the Fiske Brick Company, and inspected a new system for handling brick in bulk. On Friday evening there was a theatre party for the visitors, as guests of the local committee. The program of proceedings in the convention was as follows:

FIRST SESSION, WEDNESDAY, 2.30 P. M.

Prayer by Rev. W. D. Waldron. Enrollment of New Members and Roll Call. Welcome to Boston, Hon. Jno. L. Bates, Governor of Massachusetts. President's Annual Address, George M. Fiske, Boston, Mass. Report of Treasurer, John W. Sibley, Chattanooga, Tenn. Election and Installation of Officers.

1. (1) "The Past," Wm. Morrell, Gardner, Maine.
   (2) "The Present," Jefferson Middleton, Washington, D. C.
   (3) "The Future," W. D. Richardson, Cleveland, Ohio.

SECOND SESSION, THURSDAY, 9.30 A. M.

2. "Progress in Brick Making," F. E. Frey, Cleveland, Ohio.
3. "Modern Brick Streets," Wm. S. Crandall, New York.
4. "Electricity in The Brick Plant," general discussion led by Horace Purinton, Waterville, Me.
5. Report of Committee of Exhibit of Clay Products at the St. Louis World's Fair, Prof. H. A. Wheeler, St. Louis, Mo.
6. Report of the Committee on "Technical Investigation," Prof. Edward Orton, Columbus, Ohio.

QUESTIONS FOR GENERAL DISCUSSION.

7. What qualities do the clays of New England possess which causes the arch brick or headers to burn as they do, and why cannot brick commonly known as "Harvard" headers and stretchers be made elsewhere?
8. Can black headers, such as the early brickmakers of Philadelphia made when burning with wood, be produced if coal is used for burning?
9. Has it proved in actual wear on the street that bevel edge paving brick or block are better than the square edge, repressed, or otherwise?
10. Is it an improvement to a brick or block pavement for them to have what is generally called a lug on one side?
11. What is the best filler for a brick pavement, cement, grout or hot sand?
12. Has the testing system for paving brick adopted by the N. B. M. A. been satisfactory to the manufacturers?
13. Has not the time arrived to decide definitely upon the size of brick best adapted to street pavements, and if so, what is that size?

THIRD SESSION, FRIDAY, 9.30 A. M.

14. "Salt Glazing Brick," Isaac Hardy, Worksop, England.
15. "The Essentials to Success in the Manufacture of Dry Pressed Brick," O. K. Edwards, Newberg, Ore.
16. "How Not to Sell Brick," Wm. G. Thumb, Providence, R. I.
17. "Drying Brick," B. P. Hollett, Arcadia, Ind.
18. Natural Air Dryers, vs. Artificial Dryers, general discussion led by L. C. Moore, Memphis, Mo.

QUESTIONS FOR GENERAL DISCUSSION.

19. On account of the latent heat consumed in converting water into vapor, is it possible to get a temperature in the hot end of the dry-house above 212 degrees until brick are thoroughly dry, even if air is introduced at considerable above that temperature?
20. What is the safe average percentage of saturation of the atmosphere which can be used in estimating or in the installation of waste heat dry-houses?
21. Allowing that air can be introduced into the dry-house by means of waste heat at an average temperature of 275 degrees, what is a safe quantity of air per minute necessary to dry one thousand brick in 24 hours, 1½ pounds of water being taken as an average amount to be evaporated from each brick?
22. Is it possible to have too swift a circulation in a dry-house provided maximum temperature can be maintained?
23. Is anyone using red brick stain successfully for improving the color of a naturally inferior clay?
24. Do not the fire clay manufacturers need the educational and social advantages of N. B. M. A.? Why do not more of them join the Association?

FOURTH SESSION, FRIDAY, 2.30 P. M.

25. "Raw Clay as a Commercial Commodity," Prof. E. R. Buckley, Rolla, Mo.
26. "The Sizes of Brick," R. Clipston Sturgis, Boston, Mass.
27. Local Organization, H. C. Bradley, Cleveland, Ohio.
28. "The Economy of the Continuous Kiln," Charles Burnham, Milwaukee, Wis.
29. "The Fuel Question," general discussion led by Alfred Yates, Johnsonburg, Pa.
30. Grate Bars or No Grate Bars, general discussion led by W. A. Eudaly, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Letter to Real Estate Interests, from the Tenement House Department.

The Tenement House Department of the City of New York is sending a circular letter to the leading real estate agents, with the object of facilitating the work of the department, and also to simplify work in the offices of the real estate people. Drafts of two forms are submitted, to be used by agents upon receiving notices from the department of violations. We observe that the forms are available for use not only in the Tenement House Department, but also in the Building Department, the Fire Department, the Health Department, or any other city department. The following is a copy of the circular letter:

New York City, Feb. 5, 1903.

It will greatly facilitate the work of this department, and, I think, the work of your office, if you can have printed some brief forms to send to this department in reference to the notices of violations that may be sent to you. I enclose herewith a draft of such a form, marked "Form No. 1," to be used upon the receipt of notices from this department (and the same may be useful in communicating with other city departments).

A similar letter should be sent to the department when the work is completed. I also enclose a draft of such a form, marked "Form No. 2."

At the present time we receive a letter from leading real estate men referring in one letter to as many as twenty different violations, and this is extremely inconvenient; it means that we have to have our typewriters make twenty copies of the letter, and delays action in the department in attempting to assemble all of the various cases together.

As you are probably aware, each violation in this department relates to a single house, and is treated entirely on its own merits.

It seems to me that if such a system could be adopted by the real estate agents of the city, it would be helpful to them in keeping their records straight, and I know that it would be very helpful to this department and probably to the other city departments who deal with such matters.

I should be very glad to have an expression of opinion from you as to the feasibility of this plan. Yours respectfully,

ROBERT W. DE FOREST, Commissioner.

Oil for Brick-Burning.

Mr. John Peck, who is associated in the brick business with the firm of Rowan & Scott, at Haverstraw, has been spending several weeks in Detroit, introducing his new method of brick-burning to the manufacturers of that city. Hugh Reilly, his yard foreman, who accompanied him from Haverstraw and has returned, reports that they burned three kilns by the new process for the Fred. H. Wolfe Company, of Detroit, and that the company have adopted the Peck method for permanent use in their business. As we understand, the new process consists of burning the bricks with oil and soft coal by arranging the arches and kilns in a different manner than for the wood or hard coal method. For this new arrangement and device Mr. Peck secured a patent last May. Rowan & Scott have been burning bricks with soft coal and oil for the past two years, and are the only firm now using oil on the Hudson River, though some years ago the Rose Brick Company experimented with it. Hugh Reilly is probably an exceptionally proficient brick burner, as it was through him that the oil and soft coal burning idea was first put in practice. It is claimed that brick can be burned considerably cheaper by the new method.

Unfading Colored Cement.

Various colored cements can be produced by incorporating certain metallic oxides or metallic salts directly with the ground raw materials used in the manufacture of Portland cement, and then burning the resulting mixture in the usual manner. A small quantity of chronic oxide added to the raw cement mixture will produce a green colored cement, while oxide of cobalt will give a blue, varying in intensity according to the quantity of metallic salt added. Oxide of copper will yield a peacock, or blue-green, cement, and a small quantity of oxide of iron, oxide of manganese and oxide of cobalt, in almost equal proportions, will produce a black cement. Tints produced in this manner will be found to be perfectly fast or unfading.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letter Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

January 30, 31, February 2, 3, 4, 5.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whnever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

January 30, 31, February 2, 3, 4, 5.

The Private Branch Exchange System of supplying TELEPHONE SERVICE is particularly adapted to the requirements of LARGE HOTELS and APARTMENT HOUSES

By means of a Private Branch Exchange the general telephone service, local, suburban and long distance, is available in every room and apartment. A complete interior service is also supplied, adding largely to the efficiency, and decreasing the cost of the hotel service proper. No modern Hotel or Apartment House should lack a Private Branch Telephone Exchange.

Full Information on request at any of the Contract Offices:

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions — deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 14 and 16 Vesey St.*

WHILE business in the stock market is predominantly professional, there has been enough support from outsiders to improve the prospects this week. A better feeling prevails as a result of the Federal legislative prospect—especially the prospect that Congress must soon adjourn. It is felt that if any trust legislation is enacted it will not be detrimental to the business carried on by the great corporations and as for any measure of publicity likely to be carried, it cannot go beyond the desires of the financial world, whose attitude is always one of wanting to know. If this Congress passes the Aldrich bill it will help the situation considerably. The bond market has picked up somewhat lately. The bulk of the transactions have been in a few issues, the new 4 per cents. for instance, but this is due to the fact that there is little else to buy. The dearth of the most favored form of investment has compelled attention to the bonds and preferred stocks of the older Industrials, for which there has been inquiry and some buying. Comparatively small as the latter has been it has advanced prices materially and it is now becoming apparent that tried senior industrial securities are passing away from the speculative into the investment lists. The break in time money rates is likely to materially increase the investment demand, and the query "What shall I buy?" finds less response than ever. The inquiry will be more keen and the response more tardy as the supply of money increases; and, aside from the new issues of standard railroad stocks, which will appear this spring, there is nothing to satisfy the demand outside of the tried industrials, which still sell at figures yielding a goo dinvestment return,and one that gives them a preference over the loan market in the use of money for definite periods. As to the outlook for speculation this spring, activity is likely to be encouraged by low money rates, and if current prices as a general thing suggest prudence, a recessionary market is hardly likely while so many important financial operations remain to be developed as now. Nearly all the leading railroads have plans for which they require new capital and it is not usual for such applications to accompany declining values.

RATES for money make London the point of attraction at the moment for European surplus funds. Whether they will induce gold shipments from this side is uncertain and doubtful. The tendency of exchange suggests it and the retention of the high—4 per cent.—discount rate, by the Bank of England, is calculated to assist it if the disposition is right, but there are gathering so many requirements for money in our midst and up to this time shipments have been so carefully avoided, that it is reasonable to conclude that none will be permitted, at least, until the important financial operations now under way have been concluded. Paris and Berlin are both in very easy circumstances now, and it is more likely that either one or the other, or both, will supply London's need for gold should any transpire in connection with the financing of the forthcoming Government loan. Between New York and London there is likely to be a see-saw maintaining an equilibrium: If we take any part of the new loan, London will subscribe for portions of the new issues of railroad securities about to be made here. The exchanges at the most important European points have been a little more active this week on advancing quotations. Governments, with the exception of Consols, have gone up, but while that security languishes on the London Exchange, the principal railroad shares have made a tardy response to the increased dividends declared on the statements of earning for the last half of 1902. Industrial shares are in more demand, the movement being more pronounced at Berlin than elsewhere, but, looking the European situation all round, the signs of renewed vitality in business are increasing. Great Britain's foreign trade reports for January show an excess of exports over imports, so that we shall not hear so much of the self-consuming process of the country's capital as we did a week ago; final figures for the January output of the Rand reveal a small gain over the production of December, but make another post-bellum record. The figures are 199,279 ounces for last month, and 196,023 for the preceding one. Germany is making progress with her industrial reorganization, and the latent wealth of France always appears more than sufficient to make good any reverses she may sustain; just now references to indiscreet Russian advances have ceased. The point of anxiety is the Near East. But, if, as now seems to be the case, the Great Powers are acting in agreement to compel reforms in Macedonia, armed resistance by Turkey would have little or no unfavorable influence on the markets, and might stimulate them to more activity. The Turk does not appear to have acted in Macedonia as badly as he did in Bulgaria, when he earned the stinging degrading epithet of "unspeakable" from Gladstone's indignant lips, but it does seem as if the time has arrived when another step has to be made to lessen if not remove the anomaly of Asiatic misrule existing in an environment of Eastern methods of government. It is a matter of the impossibility of the Mahommedan properly governing Christians. The present movement for emphasizing this fact being initiated by Russia and Austria jointly, and, if it has the approval of other Christian powers, will not be open to suspicion of selfishness on the part of any one of them, so that the danger of a general conflict, which it has been said only awaited the next movement to coerce the Turk, is apparently averted.

A BILL was introduced at Albany during the week, providing the appointment of a new Board of Transit Commissioners, whose functions in general it shall be to exercise the right of control over the local transit companies, that the State Board of Railway Commissioners has recently been trying to exercise. It is improbable that this bill has been seriously introduced, for so far as we know, the Record and Guide has been the only newspaper which has insisted upon the constitution of some effective local control; but, whether serious or not, the bill should never be passed in its present form. One local Board of Transit Commissioners is enough even for the Greater New York; two such boards would only complicate a problem, every part and aspect of which is closely connected with every other part. The present Board possesses the confidence of the public, and is as fully equipped for the work of reforming the existing transit machinery as it is for providing new machinery. The recommendations of the State Commissioners for the improvement of the service of the Metropolitan company are obviously intended to be ignored and will be ignored just as far as the company dares or cares. Moreover, at best, they do no more than skim the surface of the problem. Even the State Commission, however, makes bold to recommend a subway for surface cars at 34th street and Broadway, and a subway as in certain parts of Boston there will have to be—only it will be longer than the one just recommended. But no better illustration could be desired of the essential unity of the whole problem than this matter of Greeley Square, for the Rapid Transit Commissioners are now considering a rapid transit tunnel for that part of Broadway—which tunnel, if built, should be planned with some reference to the needs of the present surface as well as the long distance traffic.

THAT the country is busy and that business is prosperous as a whole, is strikingly suggested by the returns of January failures, which make the best record for ten years. The month usually makes an important contribution to these statistics, because the volume of the holiday business indicates the ability and temper of the public as buyers, and the annual reckoning that merchants customarily make, brings to light both the prospects for trade and the capacity of those engaged in it for continuing operations. It is therefore highly satisfactory to find that the post-holiday failures were fewer this year in number than in any corresponding month for a decade, and that less was involved, with one exception, than in any of the other nine Januaries. Taking "Bradstreets" figures, we find that the number of failures in the United States for the last month was 1,113, with total assets of $4,572,140, and liabilities of $10,580,200. In January of 1900, the next best January in this respect, the number was 1,138, or 25 more, and the total assets $4,166,630, and the liabilities $10,256,120; so that there was perhaps very little to choose between these two returns. But the significance of the more recent figures is brought out by those of January, 1896, which were the worst of the decade and were: Number of failures, 2,147; assets, $16,097,359; liabilities. $30,207,250. Taking these figures as indicative of commercial prosperity, we can easily see that there is good reasons to be satisfied with the conditions they reveal in the past month and presumably, there being no reason to suppose that any radical change has intervened, with what they are now.

The Tenement House Law Opposition.

THE present outburst of opposition to the Tenement House Law differs in some important respects from the agitation of two years ago. It is not even in all points a continuation of the attack waged in the Legislature at Albany last year. That this can be said has something of the force of evidence against the present movement.

The opposition to-day is, in the first place, much more local. Its seat is restricted to the Boroughs of Brooklyn and the Bronx, chiefly to the former. Manhattan, with its vastly greater concern in the reform movement, supplies merely a small rear-guard to this last attack. It is creditable to the tenement-house builder of this Borough that he is not more active in the present opposition, and it is one of the strongest evidences of the practicability of the new law that it has converted its chief and most weighty opponents so speedily. Experience has removed very rapidly many of the original misconceptions that attended the introduction of the tenement-house law, and the work done in the last twelve months has laid away in a peaceful grave, a number of the "bugaboos" which, a year ago frightened many real estate owners of Manhattan Island. Of course, not everyone has been converted, and certainly it would not be fair to say that the law has created an unbounded amount of enthusiasm on behalf of its provisions, but the measure has been found to be a sane, moderate, workable reform, and builders are willing, in the main, to live with it and develop the new situation, which the law has created. The feeling is that the difficulties that do exist can be solved wholly in time, and in this matter the situation is analogous to that which has frequently arisen when the building laws have been amended to secure a higher grade of construction.

The real center of the present agitation is Brooklyn, and the bone of contention is the 8 x 14 interior court, or well, required by the law now in force. The area prescribed is said to be unnecessarily large, on account of the different type of tenement house prevalent across the East River. It is alleged that there is really no tenement-house problem in the City of Churches, and that therefor it is unfair to carry the argument from Manhattan across the river, or yoke the two Boroughs together by similar treatment.

The tenement-house reformers take issue with this general contention, and for our part, we cannot see how any prejudiced person can find fault with them, when they do carry the argument from Manhattan to Brooklyn. Manhattan has had its experience of the evil of dark and unsanitary tenements and it is precisely because the full fruits of this experience are now before us, that it is so clearly undesirable to repeat the old experiment, in any other Borough of the city. Not so many years have elapsed since conditions on Manhattan approximated to those that now obtain in Brooklyn. There wasn't then in this Borough such extreme overcrowding of population as exists to-day; buildings were smaller. and the law permitted narrower courts and all those very defects, out of which grew the unwholesome conditions, which the Tenement House Law was enacted to ameliorate and remove. A 4-foot court, such as some Brooklyn builders desire, proved to be insufficient in Manhattan, but granting that it is sufficient to-day in Brooklyn, its existence would surely create in the course of time the very problem that has necessitated drastic measures for its solution on this side of the riger. To permit the construction of these narrow courts in Brooklyn, would be equivalent to putting a heavy mortgage on every building that contained them—a mortgage which would surely have to be called in at some future date and paid by future owners. We say nothing of the intermediate injury done to tenants and to the community at large. To plead for this permission is a narrow and selfish policy. The Borough of Brooklyn cannot afford to grant it. It has problems enough ahead without creating others.

Moreover, it may be just as well to take the present tenement-house conditions of Brooklyn out of the realms of romance. The curious idea that the Brooklyn tenement house is an ideal habitation is a myth, implied whenever the statement is made that there is "no tenement-house problem in Brooklyn." No doubt, Brooklyn to-day, is not as overcrowded as is Manhattan. No doubt, too, conditions there are not so restricted and acute as they are with us, but everyone familiar with the facts knows that Brooklyn already has its sore spots, and can show contaminated "black-holes" anything worse than which the imagination cannot easily depict. The bogs of Connemara and the slums of London have nothing more pitiable to exhibit. The question to be debated in Albany this session is: Are these places to continue? Are we to temporize with the conditions that produce them? The tenement-house problem does already exist in Brooklyn. A 3-foot court or a 4-foot court offers no solution. There can be no question as to the absolute inadequacy of air shafts of these dimensions, even in three-story buildings. With them, habitations remain insufficiently lighted, unwholesome and incompatible with decent social conditions. The beneficiaries of such an order of things cannot be the tenants who are subjected to it or the community that permits it.

It is unfortunately a fact that this subject cannot be adequately discussed on paper. It is not like a mathematical problem that can be worked out and decided by an appeal to theory and reason. The pros and cons are somewhat confusing to anyone restricted merely to the arguments. One needs to talk about the matter face to face with the facts. Here are the buildings, here are the apartments, here are the courts. Are they sufficient and wholesome? Presented in this way a decision comes directly and easily. The smaller details of the argument are overridden by the stern realities. Those who are willing to permit a low standard of living, and those who have no sympathy with social progress or the rights of the weak might indeed support the opposition to the present tenement house requirements, but from no other source could a tolerant decision be obtained. The tenement-house law represents a different ideal and is the embodiments of an attempt to raise the standard of living. It is part of a wholesome social idea. Fundamentally, it cannot be dissociated from the work of our churches, colleges, schools and other institutions which have for their aim, the betterment of people. Certainly the higher form of commercialism can ally itself unhesitatingly with that for which the tenement-house law stands, for the highest industrial asset of a community is the character of its men and women. The lower form of commercialism more concerned with its immediate percentages and willing to compute the immediate gains of to-day as a sufficient offset for the most deplorablo losses to-morrow, may take another view of the matter. Those who believe in this method of calculation may have something to say at present against the Tenement-house Law, and may by their influence and their arguments rank themselves with the opposition, but their position is not one that any community can profitably adopt. Indeed, the "profit" even in cash terms lies elsewhere. Builders in Manhattan have discovered that the law "pays." It demands a better and more costly building, it is true, but it also produces higher rents. The filings at the Building Department already indicate a large amount of tenement-house construction this year. This is sufficient evidence that the economic side of the problem has been solved at least so far as the architect and owner are concerned. The former has succeeded in producing plans that comply with the law and at the same time satisfy the owner as to his investment. The greater cost of construction is met by higher rents. Up to the present it is the tenant that pays for the higher standard of living contemplated by the Tenement-house Law. In all probability he will continue to do so, and as a result we shall see a permanent rise in the minimum tenement rents in Manhattan. The real tenement-house population will not be housed as cheaply as in the past. Will all these people be able to meet the extra demand? If they do meet it, and continue in the localities they now inhabit will this be accomplished at the expense of lowering the standard of living in essentials other than shelter, or shall we witness a dispersal of the less well-to-do tenement dweller to Brooklyn, to the Bronx, and the outlying districts, an exodus that has already occurred with other classes? This latter supposition is not impossible, for it is obvious that Manhattan cannot house all its own population and a selection must be made. All the more reason therefor why Brooklyn and the Bronx should be safeguarded from the contamination of the tenement-house disease that has been produced in Manhattan.

OF all the measures now in Congress to which the business world is directing its special attention, there is none watched more carefully or more desired than the bill introduced by Senator Aldrich, providing for the security of Government deposits in National banks. For many years the relations of the banks and the Treasury have been unsatisfactory in that both currency and deposits which must be of increasing volume as time goes on, could only be obtained on one form of security which is of diminishing quantity. Secretary Shaw last fall met the situation by the heroic means of enlarging the choice of security for government deposits, and, as everyone now sees, saved the country from a very nasty crisis. The Aldrich bill changes an inferential, or perhaps a merely presumptive power of the Secretary of the Treasury to accept as security for Government deposits State and municipal bonds, into a positive legal permission, and adds to the classes of securities that the Secretary may receive railroad bonds of the highest standing. A business man would risk his last penny upon such collateral as this, but Congress is inclined to place further safeguards around public moneys placed in the National banks. Of this ultra-care no complaint will be made. It is right that the public moneys should be secured in every possible way, that the banks who benefit by them should pay interest on the deposits and that any extension of the powers of the Treasury, to increase its deposits with the banks should be subject: First, to the needs of the Treasury itself; and, second, to those of the public when prejudiced by unnecessary accumulations in the Treasury at times when the outside demand for money is pressing. These things are receiving attention and there is good reason for believing that the Aldrich bill will pass in acceptable form. In the event of its passage it will remove a serious fear for the money market in the coming fall and the mere prospect of this auspicious outcome has already had effect in increasing the confidence of loaners and lowering rates.

THE revised program for tax legislation announced from Albany can hardly commend itself favorably to real property interests. It appears that Gov. Odell has abandoned all idea,for the present at any rate, of making good the loss of franchise taxes, threatened by the decision of the Appellate Division, by a tax on gross earnings of corporations; of the tax on notarial certificates, and the tax on personal property transfers suggested in his message. But, being determined on a policy of making the State income independent of the localities, he has concentrated his attention upon real estate. Consequently, we are told that bills will be introduced into the Legislature imposing a tax of 10 cents per $100 on real estate transfers and an annual tax of a half of 1 per cent. upon mortgages. From the first an income of $1,200,000 is anticipated, and from the second one of $5,000,000. A further sum of $500,000 it is proposed to raise from bequests to lineal descendants in excess of $15,000. It does not appear to us that either the circumstances or the merits of the case warrant the imposition of any of these taxes. As to the tax on conveyances, why will not the objections that were raised to a tax on stock transfers apply equally well to realty transfers. It will be said that the war tax on the latter was paid without demur, but so was the similar tax upon transfers of stock and for the same reason. The war taxes were cheerfully accepted as expedients for raising money made necessary by the emergencies of the time, but which would be removed, as finally proved to be the case, when the need had passed. Without a reason more convincing than any yet given, it cannot be admitted that the State has the right either to adopt the abandoned Federal taxes, or to select one subject to which to apply them to its prejudice and let the other go free. As to the proposed tax on mortgages, this differs from that of last year, which received a good deal of entirely generous support from this city, in that it is an annual, while the other was a single recording tax and sufficed for the life of the mortgage, and the amount is the same in each case. There are those who, while objecting on principle to any tax on mortgages as double taxation, would as a matter of policy acquiesce in a reasonble recording tax, accompanied by an exemption from all other taxes, but who will oppose this annual tax, not only because it violates the principle they stand for more than ever now that full-value assessments have become the rule, to be achieved eventually if not wholly secured now, but also because the amount of the tax will go far to neutralize any benefit in the shape of reduced interest rates which they may have hoped to see prevailing if the exemption from the onerous personal property tax was assured. This briefly outlines the position of realty toward these specific propositions, but there is another point involved that is more important than any stated, and that is the prevailing tendency of tax-makers to concentrate the public burdens upon lands and improvements of lands. This is not to carry out an avowed single-tax policy, but simply because it is the easiest way to raise revenue. It is as much the shrinking from responsibility characteristic of our legislators that is reprehensible as the injustice to which their want of energy leads them.

The Theory of Urban Land Values.

CHAPTER V.—DIRECTIONS OF GROWTH.

The first feature of any settlement to be noted is its correspondence with external influences, the first buildings of a commercial city clustering around the point of origin, whether a wharf, railroad station or turnpike intersection, in order to handle the traffic from the outside world.

In a waterfront city the first line of growth is normally along the shore, both because additional docks and buildings opposite them start an axis of travel parallel to the waterfront, and also because the bank of a river or harbor furnishes a natural highway for the first settlers, the Strand in London being the typical first street of a waterfront city. Thus the first business street of New York was Pearl Street, originally on the shore line of the East River; of Chicago, Water Street, on the edge of the Chicago River; of Boston, Washington Street, then in part on the shore line; of Savannah, Bay Street; of Bridgeport, Water Street, &c., these streets being now in most cases a number of blocks from the water, owing to the extension of land by filling.

A not uncommon variation in this normal development has occurred where a creek emptying into the river or harbor made a sheltered landing-place, whose traffic brought business buildings on either side. When the size of ships was so increased that the creek became useless it was filled up, the business street, however, remaining, as with Broad Street in New York; Dock Street in Philadelphia, and Canal Street in New Orleans. Where the topography of the waterfront, either because of shallow water at each end or of cliffs along the banks, is such that only one good approach to the water exists, the first business street will normally extend back from the waterfront up the hollow between the hills, as at Evansville, Montgomery and Kansas City.

In the case of an inland town there may be four or more directions of growth along the lines of the intersecting turnpikes. Where an inland city originates from a railroad, the railroad station takes the place of the wharves of a waterfront city, and the first direction of growth is along the turnpike leading to the largest body of productive farming land. Since this usually lies along the valley through which the railroad runs, the first axis of growth is commonly parallel to the railroad. Wherever a town is found, in which the railroad station is evidently apart from the organic structure of the town, it is clear that the town existed before the railroad reached it.

The chief exceptions to these general principles would be where inland villages arose before their turnpikes were of importance, as with Lancaster growing up about a spring; Syracuse near the salt wells; Indianapolis artificially laid out, but with the settlers shifted over the city's site, first, by absence of timber on part of the city plat, next by the terminus of the canal, and next by the location of the National Pike.

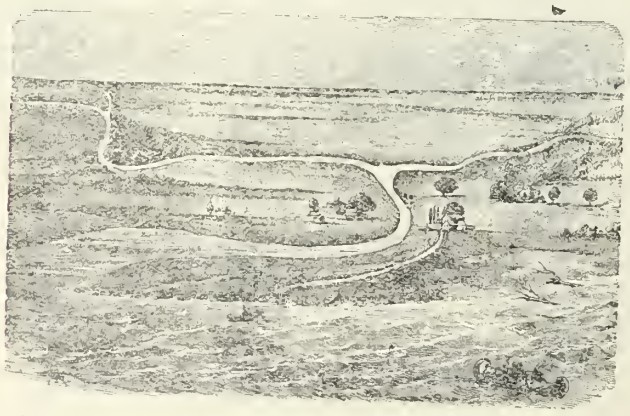

FIG. 6. CHICAGO IN 1820. SHOWING THE FIRST LOCATION AT THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER.

In their methods of growth cities conform always to biological laws, all growth being either central or axial. In some cities central growth occurs first and in others avial growth, but all cities illustrate both forms of growth and in all cases central growth includes some axial growth, and axial growth some central growth. Central growth consists of the clustering of utilities round any point of attraction and is based on proximity, while axial growth is the result of transportation facilities and is based on accessibility. A continual contest exists between axial growth pushing out from the centre along transportation lines and central growth, which constantly follows and obliterates it, while new projections are being made further out the various axes. The normal result of axial and central growth is a star-shaped city, growth extending first along the main thoroughfares radiating from the centre, and later filling in the parts lying between. The modifications of the shape of cities comes chiefly from topography, the lesser influences being an uneven development of some one factor of growth or from individual ownership of land.

Turning first to axial growth, the frame-work of a city is laid down by its water courses, turnpikes and railroads. Of these forces the turnpikes in the older cities are of chief importance. Before the days of railroads these controlled so much outside traffic that their city ends became the principal business streets, and many still maintain their supremacy. For example, Broadway in New York was part of the old Albany turnpike which runs on to Montreal; Washington Street in Boston was the turnpike to New York, which in passing through Providence was known as Westminster Street; Main Street in Hartford was the

FIG. 7. BROOKLYN. SHOWING ITS GROWTH ALONG THE AXIS OF THE LONG ISLAND R. R.

New Haven turnpike, which continued north of Hartford as the Albany and Windsor turnpikes; Montgomery Street in Jersey City was the through road from New York to the south, which, continuing out Newark Avenue, runs through Newark as Broad Street, and so on to Philadelphia; the National Pike built from Washington to the west one hundred years ago, runs through Wheeling as Market Street, Columbus as Broad Street, Indianapolis as Washington Street, Terre Haute as Main Street, and so on; and in Kansas City Main Street was the old Sante Fe trail, running a thousand miles from the Missouri River to Santa Fe.

Turnpikes are the natural outlets for resideuces forced away from the business centre and in small towns attract the inhabitants by the human interest and protection of the passing travel. Growth along turnpikes continues to a point where the inconvenience of living so far out of town more than offsets the attractions of the turnpike when back streets are laid out.

Steam railroads affect city land in three ways: First, by their terminals; second, by their lines, as barriers to growth or communication; and, third, by their lines as influencing land immediately adjacent. The central effect of a passenger depot in a small city is to attract cheap hotels and shops, such exceptional cases as the vacant lots opposite the Union depots in Toledo and New Haven being due to railroad ownership of the land. In the larger cities high class hotels gather near the principal depots, as in New York and Boston, and in England, where they are frequently built as a part of the railroad station itself.

The axial effect of railroad depots is of great importance in the smaller towns, where the depot constitutes one of the strongest single forces attracting traffic within the city. The distribution of this axial effect depends upon whether the travel to and from the depot is concentrated on one principal street, or whether the streams of travel pass through a large number of streets. Ordinarily the railroad terminal occupies so much area and blocks so many streets that it is most conveniently approached by one street. The axial effect of a depot is more easily noted when it is located a few blocks from a through traffic street than if located on such a street, the travel off the through street being then directly due to the depot and not being mingled with the general travel. In some cases a depot blocks the end or furnishes the beginning of a street which would for other reasons have been a good street, but which is greatly strengthened by the depot, as with 17th Street in Denver. Freight depots are commonly a part of passenger terminals and attract warehouses, heavy wholesalers and tenements.

The restraining effect of railroads, whether main or belt lines, varies according to the territory traversed. Where a railroad runs through a business section at grade, it limits communication between the divided sections and tends to concentrate business on one side of the line. Where a railroad in a business section is carried below or above grade, its effect is minimized. In a poor residence section a railroad has but little effect, but in a high class residence section it forms a nuisance which good residences shun. Added to the noise and cinders of passing trains is the fact that the railroad attracts factories and warehouses, which are also nuisances in a residence district. In some instances the railroad travels along the line of a small creek or gully within the city, which has already kept land values down, so that the railroad has but little added effect, as with the greater part of the Belt Line in Kansas City. If the railroad is in a deep cut, its limiting effect on good residences is diminished, as in Chattanooga and St. Paul. In some cities demand for land in the good residence district is so great that the residence district is projected beyond the encircling railroad with little fall in values, as in Louisville and Richmond, where handsome residences are built adjacent to the railroad. In New York, the N. Y. Central Railroad on Park Avenue, between 42d and 56th Streets, holds the high class residences on the west side of the track, the east side of the track being ruined by absence of approach, the only communication being by the elevated foot bridges. From 56th Street north the tracks enter the tunnel and their effect is lessened, the only objection being the vent holes in Park Avenue. In all cities railroads detach great slices of the city's area, in which they alter utilizations and values much as important water courses do.

The effect of railroads on adjacent frontage is to prevent its use for either shops or residences, the chief exception to this being in small towns where the street facing the railroad is often the principal business street, this condition still surviving in Syracuse.

Water fronts, if navigable, invite commerce, resulting in docks and warehouses, and away from the city centre, attract factories. If not navigable and not bordered by railroads, and if the land is not low, they attract residences, as in Chicago, north of the Chicago River; in Charleston, and formerly in New York, when the best residences faced the Battery Park. Where the land rises sharply fifty or more feet above the river level, so that the railroads and traffic along the water are not seen or heard on the hill above, residences are attracted, as in the Riverside Drive district in New York; the Summit Avenue district in St. Paul; the Independence Avenue district in Kansas City, and the Walnut Hill district in Cincinnati.

Turning to central growth, this has two aspects, first the main general growth in all directions from the point of origin, second the growth from various points of attraction within the city, such as transportation termini, public buildings, exchanges, factories, hotels, &c.

The first and simplest form of central growth is that of aggregation or adding of buildings one after another along the streets leading from the centre of the city. The first dwellings in a village are located near the business buildings, so that the merchants can walk to and from their business, and so great is the power of inertia that even in the smallest villages the few stores find it advantageous to be close together.

The influence of public buildings on the structure of a commercial city is small, unless such a commercial city is also a national capital, as with London and Paris. Where a city is wholly a political city, as is Washington, the public buildings largely determine the structure of the city. The smaller public buildings found in all cities, such as the Post Office and City Hall, have considerable influence in determininig the line of early growth, but are of constantly diminishing importance as the other factors of a city's life become stronger, and not infrequently the public building which created a street in time becomes a detriment to it. It is easy to find public buildings badly located which have no effect on the city's structure, as the Post Office in Chattanooga, the County Court Houses in Salt Lake City, Kansas City, Seattle and Tacoma, and the State Capital in Salt Lake City. If the City Hall includes a public market for the sale of vegetables, fruit, meat, &c., this being similar to a large shop attracts much daily travel, a good example being in Knoxville. In some cities, as in Columbus and Dayton, O., farmers sell their products from their wagons on certain streets of the city on market days. When this was first instituted the shop-keepers on these streets feared injury to their trade and secured the passage of a city ordinance prohibiting it. Finding later that they had lost patronage by the removal of the farmers' wagons, they petitioned for their return, this experience showing the value to shop-keepers of massing people in front of their stores, even though the new attracting force consists of competitive sellers. The practice of surrounding public buildings with large grounds is a common one, by which their influence is nullified, the net effect being similar to that of a small park. Such a small park, even though including a public building, makes a bad break on a through business street, injuring especially the adjacent property on the same side of the street. It may sometimes slightly enhance the value of the business property facing it by concentrating travel on that side of the street, and in the largest cities furnishes a desirable outlook for high office buildings. The most detrimental effect of such a public building in a small park is felt oi the early stages of a city, where the park checks the extension of the business centre. A public building surrounded by a park, if located in a residence section, tends to attract good residences, the outlook for the park more than off-setting what travel comes to the public building.

To summarize the effect of public buildings, if located at or near the old business centre, they tend to maintain central strength in their first location, as in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. This is the normal case. The first exceptions would be where public buildings are located at a moderate distance from the centre where the tendency is to draw business in their direction, and the second where they have been so misplaced as to fail to have any influence.

Arising later in the life of a city, but in time acquiring more central influence than any other factor, are the Exchanges, such as the Stock Exchange, Produce Exchange, Cotton Exchange, Coffee Exchange, Wool Exchauge, &c. The New York Stock Exchange is the strongest single influence maintaining the financial section. The proposition considered some years ago of moving the Stock Exchange above Prince Street, and on another occasion to 14th Street, if accomplished would have removed all the Stock Exchange brokers and the majority of the Banks and Trust Companies, private bankers, Safe Deposit Companies and lawyers, with disastrous results on land values in the financial section. The leading Exchange varies in different cities according to the dominant form of business. The Board of Trade, handling the grain business, is the leading Exchange of Chicago and Minneapolis; the Cotton Exchange of New Orleans, Savannah and Mobile; and the Mining Exchange of Denver and Colorado Springs.

Factories create sub-centres, most distinct when on the outskirts of cities, by causing the erection of laborers' cottages near the factory, which in turn attract small shops and public and semi-public buildings. Where factories are erected within the built-up section of the city, their central effect mingles with that of other factors, but attracts tenements near at hand.

In all growth, central or axial, great or small, the vital feature is continuity, the universal tendency being to add on buildings one by one, of the same general character as those which preceded them. Lack of continuity from whatever cause explains many of the greatest disappointments in anticipated real estate movement, such as for example the failure of the west side in New York, when first developed, to attract fine residences. While growth in general is continuous, in detail it may hasten on, leaving vacant places behind, especially where rapid transit draws it, the stations of the elevated railroad on the west side at 72d, 81st, 93d, 104th and 116th Streets being starting points in new territory from which growth took place in all directions.

The Real Estate Situation

By far the most interesting piece of news announced during the week has been the circular of the Trustees of Sailors' Snug Harbor to the tenants of their properties. It is a well-known fact that the leasehold property belonging to this institution has lagged far behind surrouuding property in the manner and extent of its modernization and development for business purposes. For the most part the property is improved with former residences, which in some cases have been turned into stores and lofts, but which almost never have been improved with the best, most profitable class of modern business buildings. Recently, however, the trustees of the property have been conducting a prolonged series of negotiations with Mr. John Wanamaker, which has resulted in the reaching of an arrangement, permanent and satisfactory to both parties, and these negotiations have served somewhat to open the eyes of the trustees. The result is that they have proclaimed a complete change of policy. Instead of standing in the way of improvements by adheriug to a kind of lease that offered the builder of a moderu loft building no chance of profit, they propose to liberalize their terms, particularly for the purpose of encouraging the erection of buildings which will cover three or four times the space included by the building of their present tenants. The terms of the lease are to be extended to double the present limit of 21 years, and may in certain cases be made longer, perhaps, half a century or more. The rate of interest is to be reduced from 5 per cent. to 3, 3¼ or 3½ per cent., according to the circumstances. The Suug Harbor Trust will, moreover, agree to purchase the buildings at the expiration of the lease. Present tenants need not wait until their leases expire in order to get the advantage of these improved terms, but can make the necessary arrangements as soon as they please. There can be no doubt that this new policy will in the course of a few years result in the transformation of the several blocks most affected by the announcement. On two of these blocks new buildings will be erected by Mr. Wanamaker. The board announces that in the case of certain other plots of land, the Trust itself will erect large buildings when the existing leases expire, while it is also expressly stated that the new policy does not apply to those portions of the property of the board, still exclusively devoted to residence purposes. The blocks covered by this last qualification include those bounded by Waverley place, Fifth avenue and 9th street, excepting merely the frontage on University place. The trustees have also shown great good sense in stating that they will keep this portion of the property residential, for their concurrence in this important matter will practically secure the north side of Washington square and that part of Fifth avenue for a long time in its present comely and desirable condition.

The Sailor's Snug Harbor Policy.

Perhaps 42d street has been more in evidence in the trading of the past week than has any other important street. Several expensive parcels, chiefly between 6th ave. and Broadway, have changed hands at prices which are vaguely stated to have been very big. A good deal more is not known than is known about the nature and results of these transactions; but they call attention to the probability, that taking all in all 42d street will eventually be the most important cross-town street in New York—the street on which prices will be the highest and business most active. It will surpass in these respects both 23d and 34th streets, because, as we first pointed out some three years ago, 42d street will be the line of an unparalleled concentration of interests and activities; and all the occurrences of the past three years has tended to confirm this view. Broadway and 42d street has definitely become the amusement center of the city, and will remain so for a long time. Three of the largest hotels in New York are being built on 42d street, or its immediate vicinity. The improvements at the Grand Ceneral Station will enormously improve that neighborhood. The electrification of the tunnel and the through service that will be offered to the City Hall will enormously and quickly increase the population of those districts served by the New Haven and Central roads, and consequently will multiply the shoppers these lines will fetch to New York. But most of all, the tunnel, running through 42d street, will make it the most convenient street for passengers on the Subway from the West Side to cross over to the East Side, or passengers from the East Side to cross over to the West Side. Finally, the situation of the ferry to the West Shore Railroad, at 42d street, will eventually be an important source of traffic. The present tendency of improvement, apart from the hotels, is in the direction of office buildings. The Transit Building is well rented, and the reconstructed Hotel Bristol, on the corner of Fifth avenue, is rapidly filling with tenants. An 18-story office building is to be erected between Madison and Fifth avenues. This tendency will probably continue, for the prices which property is reaching, makes office buildings the only class of improvement that will pay sufficiently.

42d St. and Other Business Streets.

Every other item of news of the week, and probably of the year, is dwarfed by the purchase by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the Trinity Building, and probably also of the Boreel Building. The motives prompting these purchases have not yet been divulged. It might be supposed that since 20-story buildings were being planned, both for the sites of both these buildings, that the Equitable Life was buying to protect the light of its present building, just as the Mutual Life has recently been doing; but this explanation while plausible, is not entirely satisfactory, because Broadway is a comparatively wide thoroughfare, and it is a doubtful undertaking to buy so much property at the high prices that must have been paid, for the purpose of keeping these buildings in their present comparatively unprofitable condition. Another explanation is that the Equitable Life proposes to occupy the Trinity Building, while it puts a thoroughly modern structure on its present site. This course also has its disadvantages, aud it will be as well to wait before counting very confidently on its truth. In either event the purchase will have far-reaching consequences both upon values and upon the course of subsequent building. When such institutions as these come into the market and help to lift prices still higher, the speculative real estate corporations, who were responsible for the inception of the present movement, will have to step aside aud confine operations to the outlying sections. In any case a very considerable increase of the area within which these buildings are erected is sure to take place. Buying has already begun on lower Broad street and its vicinity.

RECENT BRICKWORK IN NEW YORK.

Recent Brickwork in New York.

A distinct revival in favor of brick is observable. A few examples from houses where brick has been used with excellent results are given on another page, showing what can be done with brick in comparatively small buildings. The picture at the top shows the offices of the American Express Company, Madison av, from 46th to 47th st; Samuel Huckel, Jr., architect. Of the three buildings in the middle row, the one on the left is No. 263 5th av, the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. The picture on the right shows the Babies' Hospital, Lexington av and 55th st, York & Sawyer, architects; and at the bottom of the page is a picture of Public School No. 43, Amsterdam av and 129th st, C. B. J. Snyder, architect.

Status of Bridge Plans.

FINAL FORM OF BLACKWELL'S ISLAND BRIDGE—PROPOSED CHANGES IN BROOKLYN APPROACH TO MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

Some correspondence between Mr. Foster Crowell, of Flushing, a civil engineer, acting for a committee of citizens of Queens Borough, locally called the "Committee of Forty," and Mayor Low has disclosed that the Mayor is not disposed to permit any further changes in the plans of the Blackwell's Island Bridge. The Commission of Experts, in revising Bridge Commissioner Lindenthal's plans, placed the footway for passengers on the second floor. Mr. Crowell favored the placing of the footways on the first floor outside of the main trusses. The Commission's plans put a trolley track outside the trusses on each side, and Mr. Crowell contended that by the use of brackets of the same pattern as those designed to carry the wagonways on the new East River Bridge, the footways could be placed outside the trolley tracks, which would make the bridge structure 120 feet wide, the same as the stone piers.

Mayor Low laid Mr. Crowell's recommendations before the Commission of Experts, and by his letter shows that it resulted in a divided report from them. The letter was addressed to Mr. Crowell, and was in part as follows:

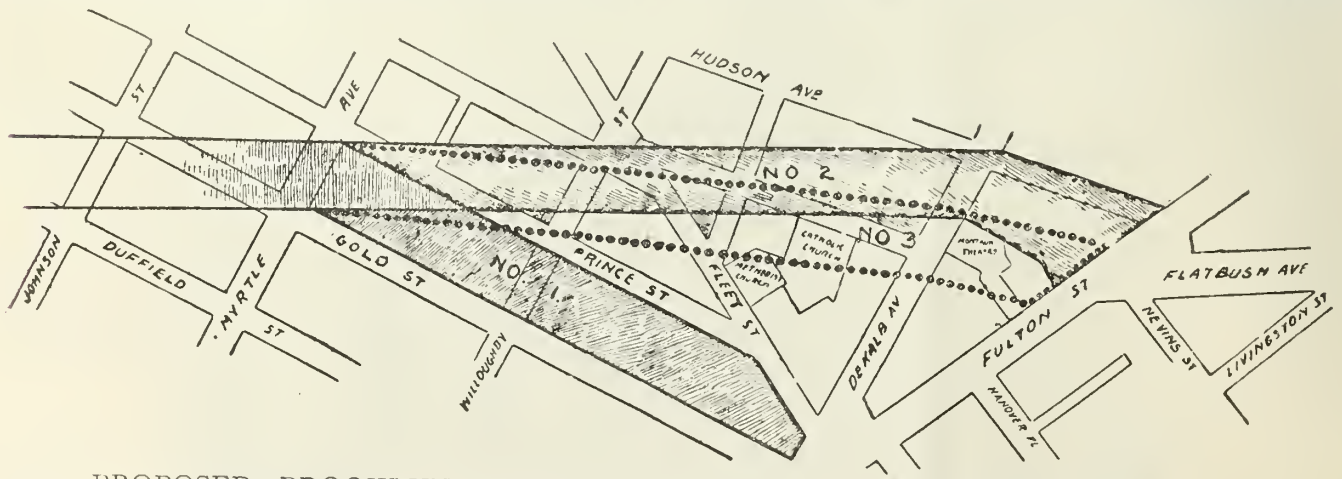
"On receiving your suggestion in reference to the Blackwell's Island Bridge, I transmitted it at once to the Commission of Experts. I have received from Professor Burr and Mr. Hodge, a letter condemning the suggestion as undesirable, while Professor Ricketts, on the other hand, approves of it. Under the circumstances, I must decline to re-open the question, and my instructions to the Bridge Commissioner to design a bridge in accordance with the unanimous recommendations of the Commission of Experts, must stand."

Mayor Low stated in the same communication that the Corporation Counsel had given an opinion to the effect that inasmuch as the changes in the plans do not materially affect the location, approximate length, capacity and service of the structure, it is not necessary to submit revised plans either to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment or to the Board of Aldermen. The Mayor stated further that the plans must go before the Art Commission, by which body of critics they have since been approved, though not by a unanimous vote.

When the plans came before the Municipal Art Commission to be judged from the æsthetic side, they were subjected to severe criticism from one of the commissioners, Mr. Henry R. Marshall, to whose conceptions of the beautiful they did not all appeal; and when the deciding vote was taken he was of the same opinion still, from which it may be apprehended that the public will also have divided feelings when they shall see the completed structure. But doubtless it will serve the purpose as well as would one of more graceful lines, and an ununited opinion may not be an impolitic one for an art commission. The only features of the plans now in abeyance, and these will not delay the building of the bridge, are architectural; models for some embellishment of the towers are yet to be submitted to the Art Commission for approval. Commissioner Lindenthal, with the aid of two experts, has been engaged this week in preparing the specifications for the steel to be used in this bridge. Nickel steel has been decided on, and it will be of a quality and strength surpassing any steel heretofore put in a bridge.



In regard to Manhattan Bridge (No. 3), which involves some changes from the usual type of suspension bridge construction, Mayor Low desires that before the plans of Bridge Commissioner Lindenthal are submitted to the Art Commission they shall be passed upon by a committee of expert engineers, to see if they are in accordance with advanced knowledge of suspension-bridge designing, and if the strength and carrying capacity will be adequate. Colonel Raymond, U. S. A., who is at the head of the Pennsylvania R. R. Company's special commission, has been asked by the Mayor to be the chairman of this committee also.

Believing that the usefulness of the Manhattan Bridge would be promoted by a change in the route of the Brooklyn approach, the Bridge Commissioner recently recommended an alteration that would create a practically straight approach, and to end in a plaza between De Kalb av and the junction of Flatbush av and Fulton st. The Brooklyn approach, as now established, crosses Myrtle av at an elevation of about 20 ft. above the street surface. The line thence deflects slightly to the southwest, the ground rising to meet the grade of the approach at Willoughby st. Between Myrtle av and Willoughby st the approach is level, lies wholly between the street lines of Prince and Gold sts, and parallel thereto, and is confined by masonry walls. At the northerly side of Willoughby st the grade of the approach is the same as that of the streets at this point, so that a plaza is formed by Prince and Gold sts, and the space between extending from Willoughby to Fulton st. The Brooklyn terminus of the bridge would be at the junction of Fulton st and De Kalb av, a point already within the congested district.

As originally planned, the bridge approach was practically an extension of Flatbush av; but before the route was definitely adopted, it was deflected at Myrtle av so as to avoid, first, taking the Montauk Theatre and expensive church properties on Debevoise place and Fleet st; and secondly, the closing or changing of grades of any of the streets between Willoughby and Fulton sts.

REVISED ROUTE.

The Bridge Commissioner says: "Reference to drawing No. 3,140 will show that an almost imperceptible deflection of the line of the bridge to the eastward at Myrtle av will avoid the properties mentioned, and will bring the terminus of the bridge

PROPOSED BROOKLYN APPROACHES TO MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

THE ORIGINAL PLAN IS MARKED NO. 1, BRIDGE COMMISSIONER LINDENTHAL'S PLAN TO EXTEND THE APPROACH TO FLATBUSH AVENUE IS MARKED NO. 2. THE APPROACH MARKED NO. 3 IS A PROPOSED MODIFICATION OF COMMISSIONER LINDENTHAL'S PLAN.

to the junction of Flatbush av and Fulton st. The only streets closed will be Prince st, between Myrtle av and Willoughby st, and the end of Fair st leading into Prince st; but as most of the property on that portion of Prince st is to be taken for bridge purposes, and as Fair st is an unimportant street one block long, the closing of these streets is not a serious matter.

"As the grade of the bridge roadway and trolley tracks coincides with the street grades at Willoughby st and beyond, the traffic begins to diverge at Willoughby st, where a considerable plaza is formed by the intersection of Willoughby and Fleet sts with Fleet and Debevoise places. Much of the local traffic will therefore be distributed before it reaches De Kalb av, or the terminus of the bridge at Fulton st and Flatbush av.

"The revised route is the logical and proper one, and offers the most direct and ample accommodations for the through traffic from and toward the districts beyond Fulton st, for which this bridge, with its long approach, is specially adapted.

"The connections with the elevated railway system of Brooklyn are also facilitated at this point by reason of the elevation of the Kings County 'L' above the street. It appears desirable that the whole 'L' system between this point and the Brooklyn Bridge be rearranged on completion of the Manhattan Bridge, and it no doubt will be; but the whole scheme, with its bridge connections, must be developed in conjunction with the transportation companies which may desire to operate their cars over the bridge.

"Because of the large amount of street surface included within the lines of the modified approach, south of Myrtle av, the area of the property to be taken, as well as the assessed value, is practically the same as before."

DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPOSED CHANGES IN THE BROOKLYN APPROACH TO MANHATTAN BRIDGE, OR BRIDGE NO. 3.

1—Parcels to be Abandoned.

(A) All that portion of Block 129, westerly of the westerly side of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(B) All of Block 137.

2—New Parcels to be Taken.

(A) All that part of Block 126 falling within the lines of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(B) All that portion of Block 128 west of the easterly line of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(C) All that portion of Block 138 within the lines of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(D) All of Block 139.

(E) All of Block 140 within the lines of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(F) All of Block 141 west of the easterly line of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(G) All that portion of Block 142 within the lines of the approach north of Myrtle av produced in a southerly direction.

(H) All that portion of Block 143, known as Lots Nos. 1, 2, 3, 27 to 33, inclusive, Nos. 35, 36, 38 to 48, inclusive, and a portion of Lot No. 61.

All of the above blocks being located in the Eleventh Ward of the Borough of Brooklyn, and shown on Plans Nos. 3139 and 3140 prepared by the Department of Bridges.

ANOTHER PROPOSITION.

A third route, which, however, is but a modification of Commissioner Lindenthal's, is not strongly favored. Its purpose is to provide a line of approach which more exactly meets Flatbush av, but it rather complicates matters.

All three routes are to be passed upon by the Mayor's special commission of expert engineers appointed this week. Besides Col. Raymond, the members of this commission are: Charles G. Snyder, vice-president of the American Bridge Company; Professor Mansfield Harriman, of Lehigh University; George S. Morrison and Henry W. Dodge.

Favorable to Mortgage Taxation.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In view of the stagnant condition of the mortgage loan market, I think it is high time that all representatives of the real estate interests of our city and State should rise in their majesty and demand that proper laws should be passed at once, to guarantee the bond and mortgage as a sacred obligation given to secure the repayment of money loaned upon real estate, which now in every case pays its improper share of our tax burdens, and to lay a proper share upon the bond and mortgage, and at a rate that will be at all times uniform. The bond and mortgage for a special sum, placed upon a special piece of property, after careful examination, appraisement and guaranteed title, is absolutely the first investment obtainable; and yet under our present unjust laws it is looked upon by investors as a dangerous document, and positively shunned as an uncertain income producer. The careful investor dare not invest his money in this way, as, if the rates are drawn in the usual way of four and one-half per cent. interest, the personal taxes are levied against it for perhaps one-half of its income. The consequence is that nearly all personal monies are withdrawn from such investments, and a man is practically forbidden to invest his money in a manner that he knows is best.

To illustrate more forcibly our present situation, a property valued at ten thousand dollars is assessed at its full value of ten thousand dollars and pays a full rate of taxation upon that sum, regardless of any mortgage indebtedness; but the probability is that there is a mortgage upon it for five thousand dollars, or one-half of its value, and this is again assessed at its full value; and the same rate of taxation is levied upon it as personal property, forcing a property valued at only ten thousand dollars to pay taxes upon fifteen thousand dollars. It may be said, that an investor having money should pay his share of the tax burden. So he should, and he is perfectly willing to do so; but there must be a uniform rate, steady, and not subject to any change or fluctuation. Our interest rate is uniform; no one may charge more than six per cent. interest, but our rates of taxation are never uniform, nor can be.

The bill suggested for the taxation of mortgages, of two-fifths of one per cent. per annum, is proper and just, and if promptly brought up and passed would enable thousands of persons to invest their money as they wish to, and enable untold thousands of our thrifty well-to-do citizens to purchase or build their homes by obtaining mortgages payable upon favorable or easy terms of payment during their years of ability, to shield them during their declining years of disability. Something is wrong, something is radically wrong; investors will not loan their money freely when not knowing to a certainty what rate of interest they will get. Money may lie idle, but the poor man may not lie idle; he must work; first for the dinner for himself and dependents; second, for the home to shelter him in his old age; and why should his friend be forbidden, by an onerous and unjust tax, to render him financial aid when he wishes to do so?

Advise our legislators to bring up the bill and pass it quick. We cannot have an active real estate market with a stagnant, fearful mortgage money market. Pass the bill and give us freedom, and capital will be dumped into the laps of our idle builders; and the crack of the hammer and the music of the saw will again be heard throughout the length and breadth of our great, rich and mighty State. THOMAS P. PAYNE.

Re-Mapping the Bronx.

A LONG-STANDING CONTROVERSY FINALLY SETTLED AS PRESIDENT HAFFEN WISHED, WITH MODIFICATIONS.

The decision of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, accepting, with modifications, the plans of Borough Engineer Josiah A. Briggs for a revision of the official map of certain sections of the Bronx, terminated, it is hoped, a matter that had been agitated for a long period, and which seriously interfered with real estate interests, in that it had caused the postponement of numerous building enterprises while awaiting a determination. The people had never been wholly satisfied with the map prepared by the previous administration, so far as Sections 29, 30 and 31, east of the Bronx River, were concerned. In this map, which was the official one, the streets were laid out on a diagonal system, which, though admirable in some respects, is deemed by the controlling influences to have been extravagant and unfitted as a whole for such a community. Gentlemen of artistic tastes may lament the homliness of the "gridiron system," and resolve that a new century should not tolerate it, but in modern practice as in the old it seems to be the only way of satisfying popular ideas and interests.

In response to public sentiment variously expressed, Borough President Haffen caused a new map to be prepared by the engineering department, the work being executed in detail by the topographical engineer, Mr. T. Greiffenberg, under the direction of Chief Engineer Briggs. The modified layout embodied the rectangular system of building streets. In submitting the new maps to the Borough President the engineer summarized what he had done, saying in part:

"I have studied the situation generally with a view to a good comprehensive system, retaining as much of the filed streets as possible, but at the same time holding in the system all old thoroughfares, many of which were in use in colonial days. These old thoroughfares are generally straight in their course and make more direct communication between borough centres than anything shown on the filed maps intended to take their places.

"In the case of the old Boston road, which now has a width of 66 feet, it is only necessary to acquire 34 additional feet to make this thoroughfare 100 feet wide. On the filed maps a new avenue, called Bronx Park av, was shown, 100 feet wide, intended to take the place of the Boston road, and running in the same general direction, with a large public place near the Williamsbridge crossing.

"The abandonment of this 100-foot avenue and the retention of the old Boston road save the cost of acquiring 66 feet in width for the whole length of said road. This saving alone is enormous, to say nothing of the great benefit to the large properties abutting thereon and having their frontage undisturbed. I cite this case for the reason that it is the most flagrant one affecting these sections, but there are many similar cases of smaller importance.

"The retention of the streets in Bronxwood Park section can be accomplished without materially affecting the value of the general system, and a very large saving will result there because the awards will be merely nominal and the improvements already existing are mostly left undisturbed and without damage.

"Along the east side of the White Plains road, between 233d st, 19th av and Becker av, the filed maps show a diagonal system of streets conforming to the Mount Vernon system which connect with the White Plains road at oblique angles, which does great harm to the frontage on that side of said road by cutting the property into numerous gores. This has easily been avoided by extending the rectangular system on the west side of said road to the east thereof for three blocks and letting the diagonal system end there at a new avenue, which is the extension of 4th av, northward to Becker av. I find that there will be a very large saving of cost in acquiring title of the streets, etc., on these three streets, if the proposed changes are adopted. The saving will be approximately as follows:

|---|---|
| Sheet 29, 524 lots, 54 buildings, estimated saving..... | $750,000 |
| Sheet 30, 429 lots, 23 buildings, estimated saving..... | 520,000 |
| Sheet 31, 374 lots, 20 buildings, estimated saving..... | 450,000 |
| Total..... | $1,720,000 |

"In view of these circumstances, it is evident that a large sum can be saved both to the property-owner and to the city by revising the street system in the manner which I have indicated."

A public hearing was given on the matter by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The speakers favoring the changes included Peter Shiels and W. Dobbs, Williamsbridge; Dr. Howe, Bronxwood Park; S. J. Stilwell, Tremont; and representatives of the Astor and Watson estates and others. Only one speaker appeared in opposition. He was Lawyer Dunn, representing the Adee estate. The maps, as is customary in such cases, were referred to the chief engineer for report. On February 6 a number of taxpayers appeared with new suggestions and in opposition to the adoption of the new map, but ultimately the borough administration's was sustained. The Board of Estimate urged further reductions in the width of a number of streets, from 60 to 50 feet in most cases, and also the reduction of the areas of public places. The borough administration conceded these, and the plans were then by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment provisionally approved and referred back to City Engineer Lewis to report upon.

The general effect of the action is to favor a resumption of the former rate of building in the sections affected, and the settlement of the question comes at the right time, when the Bronx is being favored by many improvements of a general nature. The Pennsylvania Railroad, by building a bridge across the East River, over Randall's Island, Ward's Island and Hell Gate, 135 feet above the water, will give the Bronx rail connection directly with Long Island, and by the tunnel route to the Jersey shore. This bridge will be nearly two miles in length, will cost ten million dollars, and will be three years in building. Another feature of Bronx progress will be the changes along the New York Central lines, which preserves the Harlem River front to the people without destroying the usefulness of the railroad by putting it on stilts, as some proposed. Then the abolition of grade crossings is a great step ahead. The important feature in the changes along the Port Morris branch is that the city shall buy for $60,000 the land now occupied by the railroad skirting St. Mary's Park, and shall grant to the company a new right of way, by tunnel, under the park. This will not interfere with the use of the surface for park purposes. From Westchester av to the East River the tracks must pass under all intersecting streets, and the company must build retaining walls and abutments suitable for bridges at the crossings. The cost of bridging is to be borne by the city, but the company will meet the expenses of changes in sewers, water and gas pipes, wires or conduits made necessary by the depression of the tracks.

The Cooper, Wigand, Cooke Company.

The Cooper, Wigand, Cooke Company was organized during the past week, the capitalization being $400,000. The incorporators are John Cooper, John K. Cooke, A. A. Wigand and O. W. Cooke. The officers of the company are John Cooper, president; John K. Cooke, vice-president; A. A. Wigand, secretary and treasurer. This corporation takes over the business of Cooper & Wigand, now located at Nos. 550-560 West 33d st, one of the foremost firms in this city in iron and steel construction.

Messrs. John K. Cooke and O. W. Cooke, who are on the board of directors, are sons of the late Watts Cooke, the founder of the Passaic Rolling Mills. John K. Cooke is at present the general manager for the Passaic Steel Company, and retires from that position on the first of April next to assume his connection with the new company. O. W. Cooke is at present the superintendent of the steel furnaces of the Passaic Steel Company, and he will retire also on April 1st next to join the new corporation. Both of these gentlemen have passed their business lives in the steel manufacturing trade and are therefore thoroughly qualified in their business. Alexander Moffatt, until recently the president of the building firm, Moffatt, Hewitt & Norris, has severed his connection with that firm and has made a business connection with the Cooper, Wigand, Cooke Company. Mr. John Cooper, the president, was for many years the general manager of the Jackson Architectural Iron Works, and held that position until he formed the firm of Cooper & Wigand about five years ago. A. A. Wigand is a civil engineer of known ability, a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, of Troy, New York.

In addition to their present business of steel and iron construction, the new corporation will immediately build a steel plant for the manufacture of steel castings in New Jersey. By an improved method of their own, they claim to be able to turn out steel castings of a high quality heretofore unobtainable.

N. Y. City Legislation at Albany.

The 47th Regiment Armory, in Brooklyn, will be improved to the extent of fifty thousand dollars' worth if a bill from Assemblyman Metcalf wins the Governor's signature.

Recreation piers are in high favor. Several have already been asked from the present Legislature, but as Assemblyman Sulsberger's constituents want another, he has handed in a bill providing for one at the foot of 70th st, East River.

A bill presented by Senator Davis, to amend the tax law in relation to the taxation of real estate of banks and trust companies, provides for deducting the assessed values of the real estate within this State owned by banks and trust companies.

Property-owners living in the neighborhood of 130th st and 8th av, not having transportation facilities to their liking or commensurate with the tide of travel, have had Assemblyman Abrams introduce a bill requiring the erection of an L station at that corner.

The State authorities are not expected to give a cordial reception to Senator Russell's bill setting up a local railroad commission to regulate interurban traffic in this city, as it may be considered an encroachment upon the jurisdiction of the State railroad commissioners; nevertheless the public would support a keener oversight of transit lines than the city has yet been favored with.

Senator Fitzgerald has introduced a bill to regulate the price of illuminating gas in cities of 400,000 population and upwards. It provides that the charge for gas shall not exceed 70 cents per thousand cubic feet. Also, that the gas shall have an illuminating power of not less than twenty-four sperm candles, of six to the pound, and burn at the rate of one hundred and twenty grains of spermaceti per hour, tested at a distance of not less than one mile from the place of manufacture, by a burner consuming five cubic feet of gas per hour.

Senator Martin has introduced a bill which empowers the Supreme Court to fix and determine the amount of compensation to be paid by the City of New York to the commissioners appointed by that court to appraise the loss and damage by reason of the taking of lands and premises in the Borough of Manhattan and the Borough of Brooklyn, in the said city of New York, required for the new East River Bridge across the East River. Such compensation should be in addition to the per diem compensation now provided for by law, but such additional compensation shall not exceed the aggregate per diem compensation which may be awarded under existing laws.

Senator Marshall's bill to amend the Greater New York charter in reference to the powers of the commissioners of the sinking fund, provides: "Said commissioners of the sinking fund shall also have power to sell and convey the right, title and interest of the city in and to lands lying within any street, avenue, road, highway, alley, lane or public place or square that has been discontinued and closed, in whole or in part, by lawful authority, to the owner of lands fronting on such street, avenue, road, highway, alley, lane or public place or square so discontinued and closed, on such terms and conditions and for such consideration as in the judgment of the said commissioners of the sinking fund shall seem proper. Provided the said commissioners of the sinking fund shall first determine that the said lands or the part thereof so sold and conveyed are not needed for any public use."

With the object of raising the sum of $6,000,000, which will be required annually to add to the State's present income, in order to give relief from all direct taxation for real estate, the Governor has three things in mind. One is a conveyance tax bill of 10 cents per $100, which will be collected by county clerks when deeds are brought to them to be recorded. The measure is to be a substitute for the proposed stamp tax on certificates and conveyances, which met with such ill favor that the Governor has abandoned it. Second, the Governor thinks of imposing a tax of 5 mills annually on mortgages which will, it is estimated, raise $10,000,000, half to go to the State Treasury and half to the locality. In his message to the Legislature the Governor recommended a four-mill tax on mortgages, and only one-third of the revenue to go to the State. Finally, an amendment to the Inheritance Tax Law, so as to tax bequests in excess of $15,000 to lineal descendants also has been approved by the Governor, which will raise $500,000 annually. These measures have not yet been introduced, but information of them is given in advance, doubtless with the diplomatic intention of feeling public opinion. The Governor, it may be observed, is more diplomatic than formerly.

FOR SEPARATE ASSESSMENTS.

Assemblyman Bostwick's bill to amend the Greater New York charter by providing for a separate statement of the value of land in assessments of real estate, and for the publication of the annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate in the city of New York, contains these provisions: "In such [assessment] books the assessed value of real estate shall be set down in two columns; in the first column shall be given, opposite each separately assessed parcel of real estate, the sum for which such parcel under ordinary circumstances, would sell if wholly unimproved; and in the second column shall be set down the sum for which the said parcel under ordinary circumstances would sell, with the improvements, if any, thereon. * * * It shall be the duty of the supervisor of the City Record to cause the annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate made and delivered to him by the board of taxes and assessments, to be printed in type not smaller than nonpareil, and published in the City Record; and such publication shall be made within ninety days after the delivery to him of the said annual record. The annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate of each section, district or ward, shall be printed separately as a supplement to the City Record. On each supplement shall be printed the number of the section, district or ward, therein contained, its boundaries or an outline map, and the name of the borough in which it is situated. Each supplement containing the assessed valuation of real estate of one section, district or ward, shall be sold separately to persons wishing to purchase the same at a price for each supplement to be determined by the board of City Record; such number of copies shall be published as said board shall determine. All moneys received therefor shall be paid into the city treasury to the credit of the general fund."

EASTERN PARKWAY EXTENSION.

Park Commissioner Young of Brooklyn is desirous of extending the Eastern Parkway from its present terminus at Highland Park, Brooklyn, to Forest Park, in Queens Borough, and has requested Assemblyman Edward A. Miller of the Twenty-first Assembly District of Kings, to introduce in the Assembly a bill granting him permission to make such extension. The bill is rendered necessary from the fact that under a statute enacted over half a century ago no road can be laid out through a cemetery without the permission of the Legislature. There are in that section of the city twenty-four cemeteries containing upwards of four thousand acres, and it is charged that this large area is a hindrance, making a large portion of that section inaccessible, besides imposing on the taxpayers the entire burden of taxation and assessments for local improvements, as the cemeteries are exempt from taxation. There has been expended by the City of Brooklyn in the purchase of Forest Park, and in the extension of Eastern Parkway, $2,500,000. These two costly improvements are about half a mile apart, and are separated by vacant and unimproved woodland of Cypress Hills Cemetery, which, it is stated, is held by private owners for purposes of speculation. The proposed roadway will be under the care and control of the Park Commissioner, and will be a direct means of access to Brooklyn for the residents of Newtown, Glendale, Richmond Hill and Jamaica, and along a driveway not occupied by trolley cars Park Commissioner Young believes that the holders of these cemetery lands should not be permitted longer to block the progress of public improvements.

The Equitable Life.

This company has the reputation of being the strongest insurance corporation in the world. It has a surplus of $75,127,496.77 in excess of liabilities; the accumulations of assets are now $359,395,537.72. The average mind will scarcely grasp such magnitudes, but they constitute a wonderful record, even for America. While the company has been building up its vast accumulations, and making firm its position, it has had always in mind the interests of its policy-holders. During its history the society has paid and accumulated $765,458,139.64 for the benefit of its members. The amount paid to policy-holders as dividends in 1902 was $4,477,924.15, a large increase over the amount paid during any previous year. The new business issued last year was much larger than ever before, and the Assurance in force increased by a bigger amount. The new assurance issued was $281,249,944, and the total amount outstanding is now $1,292,446,595. The premium income amounted to $53,932,423.44 and the total income received was $69,007,012.25. Policy-holders of the Equitable may rest assured that under a continuance of the same methods and management the future of the society promises to be as progressive as its past.

Tenement House Controversy.

Reinforcements for the assailants of the Tenement House Law were sent to Albany on Tuesday in the form of two more bills to amend the statute. One, by Mr. Matthews, of Kings, and affecting Brooklyn borough, modifies the definition of a tenement house to mean seven families instead of three. The bill also provides that measurements as to the percentage of ground covered by a tenement may be taken "at the level of the second tier of beams." The second bill, by Mr. Everett, of New York (district not given), proposes to raise the number of families to constitute a tenement from three to eight. It also seeks to restore the old tenement house air shaft, instead of the larger court prescribed by the present law.

To explain the actual conditions existing in tenements of the old sort, and the betterments brought about by the new law, the Tenement House Commissioner, Mr. Robert W. De Forest, led a party of representative gentlemen in a tour to the East Side and to Brooklyn one afternoon this week. Seeing is better than reading or hearing for an investigation of this sort, and the miserable quarters that some creatures dwell in have been described often enough. The tenements built under the new law presented a contrast very great and wholly agreeable.

Questions and Answers.

We must remind our correspondents that we cannot answer anonymous communications. Readers must also remember that communications to us cannot invariably be answered the week they are received.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

To settle a controversy, would you kindly state in your next issue the proposed route of the Pennsylvania Tunnel, from Broadway to East River? Thanking you in advance for your favor, I am, Yours truly, P. S. TREACY.

Answer.—According to maps on file with the Clerk of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, the tunnel will run under 31st, 32d and 33d sts, from Broadway to the East River.—Law Editor.

BROKER'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

If an agent has a piece of property to sell for me and brings a customer, we agree on a price. Whilst drawing up agreements, the customer does not sign agreement because there are two mortgages on same. The agent asks for a few days' grace in this matter, which was granted. The agent was telephoned on the fourth day after of sale to another party. Has the agent legal right to demand his commission?

Answer.—No.——Law Editor.

COMMISSION ON RENEWAL OF LEASE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

We are subscribers to the Record and Guide. We notice in your issue of July 14, 1900, that you answer "yes" to the following question: "If a broker who finds a landlord a tenant who signs a lease for three years, with a privilege of renewal for two years, is entitled to a commission on the two years' privilege when such privilege is taken advantage of by the tenant?" May we ask you whether this opinion is based upon general principles of law or upon any decided cases in which that point was involved? If the latter, may we have the citation?

Answer.—My opinion given as above stated, was based upon general principles of law, as I could find no adjudicated cases upon the question. Since I gave the opinion, a suit was brought in the Municipal Court in Manhattan by a broker for the commission on the renewal of a lease, tenant having exercised his option and renewed his lease. I have been informed that the Justice decided against the broker in this suit, but whether an appeal was taken, I do not know. My attention has not been called to any decision or opinion of any Appellate Court on the question since July, 1900.—Law Editor.

—The directors of the Erie Railroad having voted to authorize the issue of ten million four per cent. bonds, the question arises if the proceeds will be devoted only to the purposes that have been officially set forth? The building of two or three ferry-boats, the construction of a new ferry-house at Chambers st, with another at 23d st, and even the reconstruction of the terminal facilities on the Jersey shore, to include an open cut through Bergen hill, ought to be accomplished without consuming the whole appropriation; and it is surmised that there may be a connection between these improvements, as publicly announced, and the very recent acquirement of a Hudson River tunnel franchise by the New York and New Jersey company. The connection is not yet visible to the public eye, but many believe that when the roll of prize-winners among the great railroads is called on Manhanttan Island the "old reliable" Erie will be here.

—The first thing that condemns Manhattan to a stranger is the absence of street signs. But there will be a reform in this respect in the course of a few weeks, when signs of various pattern, some not unhandsome, will be fixed at all the corners between 2d av and 10th. In some cases it is a simple little metal sign nailed to a building; in others transparent glass signs on the four sides of gas lamps; sometimes the name sought for will be found on an electric light pole, visible at night by reflected light, and, finally, an exclusive design is a three-sided lantern, whose object is seemingly to perplex the wayfarer. But any kind of a street sign is better than asking a policeman.

Justice Gaylor, in a recent decision, upheld the right of strikers to do picket duty, saying that a man has a right to stop in the street and rest or look into the windows, also that a man has a right to talk to others on the street if he so desires.

On Wednesday, Feb. 18th, Bryan L. Kennelly will conduct at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, 111 Broadway, one of the most important sales of the season. The property is offered by the executors of the estate of Henry McArdle, and includes a number of excellent parcels situated in Greenwich Village and south thereof, a part of the city in which values recently have been increasing. Among the properties may be mentioned two tenements on the northeast corner of Varick and Beach sts, the 6-sty tenement at 28 Varick st, Nos. 27 and 29 North Moore st, the northwest corner of Varick and North Moore sts, a plot 108x100 on the southwest corner of Varick and Beach sts, No. 34 Laight st, running through to 13 Vestry st; No. 20 Varick st, No. 13 Barrow st, the leasehold property at the southeast corner of Beach and Varick sts, and the leasehold at No. 22 Varick st. There will also be sold a plot on the north side of Montgomery st, 45 feet east of Nostrand av. Books, maps, etc., may be seen at the auctioneer's office, No. 7 Pine st.

On Feb. 19th there will be sold at public auction at No. 72 Woodworth av, Yonkers, by the receivers of the late firm of W. & J. Kellock, stone merchants, the interest which that firm had in the premises at the foot of Wells av in that city, and the stock of stone on hand, and all the tools, horses, wagons, etc., used formerly by them in their business.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

BROADWAY.—The Trinity Building, at No. 111 Broadway, has been bought by the Equitable Life Assurance Society from the United States Realty and Construction Co. and the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co. It is a 5-sty building, on a lot 40x262.9x46.1x258.7, and was recently purchased by the sellers for $2,215,278. It is said to be the intention of the buyers to erect a new building on the Trinity site. When that is completed they will move from their present quarters and erect a large office building on the site of the present Equitable Building. Negotiations are also said to be on for the sale of the Boreel Building to the same buyers. It is owned by the Thames Court Co., the largest stockholder of which is said to be Alexander R. Peacock. The Boreel Building sold in 1901 for $2,050,000, and was resold in 1902 for $3,001,500.

59TH ST.—Albert Flake has bought a plot with 83 feet of frontage on the southwest side of the Grand Circle, adjoining on the north the Majestic Theatre, which Mr. Flake owns. The parcel is of triangular shape, and has an area of about 1,350 square feet, its front extending from the Majestic entrance to within 33 feet of the 59th st entrance. It is occupied by a small 2-sty building. He bought the adjoining land, about 17500 squae feet, at the third Eno sale, on October 18, 1899, for a total of $296,000.

RIVINGTON ST.—Levy & Windman have sold for the various owners 147 to 153 Rivington st, southeast corner of Suffolk st, old buildings, on plot 76x52.

6TH ST.—William Schulman has bought Nos. 202 and 204 6th st, a plot 45x97, upon which he will erect a 6-sty tenement.

ST. MARKS PL.—I. Lipman has bought from Lowenfeld & Prager, Nos. 110-112 St. Marks pl. The buyer will erect a 6-sty tenement.

2D ST.—Mandel & Maran have bought Nos. 130 and 132 2d st, a plot 40.5x97, and will erect a 6-sty tenement.

15TH ST.—W. H. Falconer has sold for Maria S. Simpson to A. W. J. Pohl Nos. 330 to 334 West 15th st.

3D ST.—H. Rinaldo & Bro. have sold for Caleb A. Dyer, trustee of the Diamond estate, to Weil & Mayer, a plot 100x97, on the north side of 3d st, near Lewis st. This plot is part of the old Diamond Shipyard, and has been in that family since 1812. The buyers will erect a 6-sty tenement.

BROOME ST.—Levin & Korner have bought from Schmeidler & Bachrach Nos. 149 and 151 Broome st, a 7-sty tenement, on plot 37.6x100.

11TH ST.—A. Teubam has bought from Schmeidler & Bachrach Nos. 516 and 518 East 11th st, two 6-sty tenements, on plot 50x94.9.

49TH ST.—Sigmund Neustadt has sold No. 61 West 49th st, 4-sty dwelling, Columbia College leasehold.

AVENUE C.—Nevins & Perelman have bought the southwest corner of Av C and 2d st, old building, on plot 58x56.

STANTON ST.—Nevins & Perelman have bought the southwest corner of Stanton and Attorney sts, old buildings, on plot 57x62.6.

42D ST.—William C. Adams has sold the 3 and 4-sty buildings Nos. 116 to 122 West 42d st, on plot 50x98.9. The price is not made public, but is said to be record figures for that section of 42d st, between 6th av and Broadway.

3D AV.—Gottlieb M. Karpas has sold the southeast corner of 3d av and 33d st, to a client of Morris H. Hayman.

25TH ST.—Sydney Fisher and M. E. Hewitt & Co. have sold for Irene A. Adams to A. M. Maclay the dwelling 126 East 25th st.

8TH AV.—Adrian G. Hegeman & Co. have sold for William A. Pell to Morris Weinstein 154, 156 and 158 8th av, adjoining the corner of 18th st, three 4-sty brick buildings, each 17.6x100.

22D ST.—Packtman & Levin sold to Ratkowsky & Simon the Lexington apartment house, a 6-sty structure, on plot 60x98.9, at 144 to 148 East 22d st.

44TH ST.—The Algonquin apartment hotel, at Nos. 59, 61 and 63 West 44th st. has been sold by the Puritan Realty Company to Dr. Andrew H. Smith and Dr. Davison H. Smith. The asking price was $900,000, and the property was sold for $800,000. The Algonquin is a modern 12½-sty fireproof brick and stone structure, on a plot 71.10x100.5. The site was purchased in December, 1901, from the Century Realty Co., and the building was completed in November. Its rental roll at the beginning of this year amounted to $120,000 per annum. The property is leased for a long term to Albert T. Foster at $45,000 a year net. The plot cost the Century Realty Co. $138,125, and was resold by them for $180,000, with a building loan of $250,000; the new building was estimated to cost $600,000. It is reported that this transaction is a trade, the other properties involved being the holdings of the Drs. Smith at Madison av and 42d st, and that they have been resold to the United States Realty & Construction Co.

JONES ST.—Frederick C. Zobel has sold to Joshue M. Sprague, of Scarsdale, N. Y., Nos. 8 to 12 Jones st, a 9-sty loft building, on plot 75x100. In part payment he takes a plot of land on White Plains road, at Eastchester. The Jones st property figures in the trade at $134,000, as against $65,000 for the White Plains road.

8TH ST.—Adolf Mandel has sold 340 East 8th st, a 5-sty building, on lot 25x97.6, to a builder for improvement.

2D AV.—John Donnelly & Co. have sold for Mrs. L. Parmann to Mary L. Neenam the four 3-sty buildings at the southwest corner of 2d av and 41st st, on plot 75x75, for $76,000.

40TH ST.—The Engineers' Club has purchased under contract from William M. Martin 32 and 34 West 40th st, two 5-sty English basement dwellings, on plot 50x98.9, and a new clubhouse will be built on the site. The Engineers' Club now occupies quarters at 374 5th av, and will remain there until its lease expires, about four years from now. No. 22 West 40th st, a dwelling, on lot 18x98.9, sold last year for $58,750.

42D ST.—Parish, Fisher, Mooney & Co. sold for William H. Moore, who was represented by Daniel Birdsall & Co., No. 103 West 42d st, a 5-sty business building with stores, on a lot 20x75.4, 40 feet west of 6th av.

30TH ST.—Ames & Co. sold for Lucy L. George No. 5 West 30th st, a 4-sty brownstone front dwelling, on a lot 25x100. The brokers report that the contract price was $100,000. It sold last year for $81,000. No. 3, adjoining, sold in April, 1902, for $87,500.

21ST ST,—Post & Reese, in conjunction with H. J. Sachs, have sold No. 11 West 21st st, a 4-sty and basement brownstone dwelling, with a dining-room extension, on lot 28x98.9, for George B. Post.

WILLIAM ST.—Mayer S. Auerbach has sold 103 and 105 William st, a 5-sty building, on lot 42.11x81.2x37x79.1. It adjoins the southwest corner of John st, and is opposite the Woodbridge building and in the same block with the Black Building. To these 9 and 12-sty fireproof office buildings has recently been added another, at the southeast corner of Platt st, and it is probable that further reimprovement of this part of William st will be pushed rapidly.

35TH ST.—Hall J. How & Co. have sold for the Benjamin estate to Nelson D. Stillwell 152 to 156 East 35th st, old buildings, on plot 66x97.6.

50TH ST.—The Cumings estate has sold 69 West 50th st, a 4 sty and basement brownstone front dwelling, on lot 18.8x100.5.

33D ST.—Klein & Jackson have resold 255 to 259 West 33d st, three old buildings, on plot 65x113x irregular, which they recently bought from Lewis Heyman and John Jeroloman. It is reported that the deal also includes 258 West 34th st.

GOERCK ST.—William and Julius Bachrach have bought from H. H. Muller 27 and 29 Goerck st, old buildings, on plot 50x100.

CANNON ST.—H. Rinaldo Brothers have sold for the estate of Harris Baum to Lowenfeld & Prager 97 and 99 Cannon st, 4-sty front and rear tenements, on plot 50x100.

MADISON ST.—Lena Miller has sold to Morris L. Moshkwitz the southwest corner of Madison and Gouverneur sts, a 6-sty tenement, on lot 24.6x60.

21ST ST.—M. & L. Hess have sold for the Pacific Realty Co. the 4-sty dwelling 37 West 21st st, 25x98.9. The buyer, Joseph Wolf, has also bought from Auguste P. Montant the similar adjoining house, 39 West 21st st. Upon the entire plot Mr. Wolf intends to erect a 6-sty store and loft building.

BROADWAY.—The Century Realty Company has bought the holdings of Cyrus Clark in the block bounded by Broadway and 7th av, 49th and 50th sts, known as 1614 to 1626 Broadway and 748 to 754 7th av. The Broadway frontage is 126.3 feet, and that on 7th av 100.4 feet, beginning in the case of either thoroughfare 25 feet north of 49th st, and extending to within 50 feet of 50th st on the Broadway side and to within about 75 feet on the 7th av front. The entire plot, which is now covered by old buildings, has an area of about 16,000 square feet. The price asked for the property was $500,000.

11TH ST.—William A. White & Sons have sold for the Baldwin estate to Mandelbaum & Lewine 332 West 11th st, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 25x101.10.

26TH ST.—S. B. Goodale & Son have sold for William A. Parke the 5-sty tenement 126 West 26th st.

58TH ST.—Joseph Jordan has sold to John H. Wohltmann the 5-sty dwelling, 438 West 58th st, 25x100.5. Martin & Schmonsees were the brokers.

2D AV.—Myer Hellman reports that he has sold the property 976 2d av, a 4-sty tenement, on lot 20x100.

24TH ST.—Eastman Johnson has sold through S. B. Goodale & Son No. 61 West 24th st.

1ST AV.—William Wicke & Co. have sold the plot, 50x100, at the northeast corner of 1st av and 31st st, and an adjoining lot on the street. The buyer will erect a factory.

11TH AV.—The Empire City Realty Co. has sold the vacant lot, 24.8x100, west side of 11th av, 74 feet south of 29th st; also the plot, 75x98.9, south side of 29th st, 175 feet west of 11th av. John P. Kirwan was the broker and Herbert Elkin the buyer.

7TH AV.—Klein & Jackson have bought the plot, with old buildings, at the southwest corner of 7th av and 35th st, together with Nos. 306 and 308 West 35th st, giving them a plot, 56.1x100. G. Gevine is the seller of the 7th av parcel, and the estate of Henry Spear of 35th st.

53D ST.—Folsom Brothers and James Kyle & Sons have sold for the estate of Joseph I. West to Schmeidler & Bachrach 217 East 53d st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on lot 16.8x100.5.

32D ST.—Jacques Krakauer has sold Nos. 11 and 13 West 32d st, two 4-sty brownstone buildings, on plot 50x98.9. This property was reported sold in September last.

57TH ST.—The Samuel K. Lyon estate has sold to Charles W. Clinton No. 45 East 57th st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 20x80.5.

NEW ST.—It is reported that Robert Ireland has sold the 7-sty building at the northwest corner of New and Beaver sts. The plot has a frontage of 104.2 on New st and of 30.2 on Beaver. On the north it abuts the Standard Oil building, and on the west the Welles building.

BROAD ST.—Nos. 82 and 84 Broad st are reported to have been sold by George S. Morrison. The first is a 4-sty building, on lot 24.6x81, adjoining the Popham building; the second is a similar building, on lot 26.10x104x irregular. Presumably both properties have been sold to the same buyers. These parcels are located opposite the triangular block bounded by Broad, South, William and Beaver, now owned by the City Real Property Investing Co.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

112TH ST.—Nelson D. Stillwell has sold the plot, 87.6x100.11, on the north side of 112th st, 141.7 feet east of Riverside Drive, to E. J. Moloughney, who has resold it to Michael Tully for improvement with a 6-sty apartment house.

61ST ST.—H. H. Cammann & Co. and F. B. Robert have sold for the Elkus estate, No. 45 East 61st st, a 4-sty dwelling on lot 19x100.5. E. Raymond Bosfange, the buyer, it is understood, will modernize the building.

81ST ST.—H. Oppenheim has bought from W. & J. Bachrach No. 235 East 81st st, a 6-sty tenement, on lot 25x102.2.

85TH ST.—Duff & Conger have sold for John McCarron to Charles Gulden No. 67 East 85th st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25x102.2.

88TH ST.—Rosie T. Shanley has sold to Joseph Fettretch No. 335 West 88th st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 20x100.8. Frederick Zittel was the broker.

125TH ST.—Sarah Devoe has sold the 4-sty brick tenement, on lot 16.8x100, No. 157 East 125th st. Brokers, D. H. Scully and A. W. Mead.

CENTRAL PARK WEST.—Robert M. Miles, Jr., attorney for the Jai Alai Ball Co. of Havana, announced the completion of negotiations for the sale of that corporation's block on Central Park West, between 62d and 63d sts, a plot of seventeen lots. The purchase price is said to be considerably over $600,000. The company bought the plot in 1902 for $570,000. The buyer, it is said, will erect an apartment hotel on the entire plot.

95TH ST.—Slawson & Hobbs sold for a client of W. D. Starr Nos. 156 to 162 West 95th st.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Lachman & Goldsmith sold the lot, 25x100, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam av and 180th st.

103D ST.—George W. Wilder has sold No. 323 West 103d st, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 20x100.1.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Mrs. J. T. Hillenbrandt has sold the northeast corner of Amsterdam av and 91st st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 28x100.

1ST AV.—The location of the new Rockefeller Laboratory will be the three blocks from 64th to 67th st, Av A to the East River. This is a portion of the famous old Schermerhorn farm, which was purchased by Peter Schermerhorn in the early part of this century. From him it descended to William C. Schermerhorn, who recently died at his house at No. 49 West 23d st. The formal transfer cannot be made until the will is probated, which will be about February 16. The property, which contains 110 lots, is the only unimproved plot of its size south of Harlem. The streets, 65th, 66th and 67th, though officially upon the city map, have never been opened. The city has not taken title to the land, and there will probably be little difficulty in arranging with the city for the transfer of jurisdiction to the trustees of the proposed institution. The new laboratory grounds, therefore, according to present plans, will cover three city blocks, though none of the building details are forthcoming. The price paid for the land is in the neighborhood of $700,000. The property is admirably adapted for its intended use, lying as it does high above the water opposite Blackwell's Island, at a point directly north of the new Blackwell's Island bridge piers, and commanding a fine outlook up and down the river. An exterior street has been laid out by the city along the river front, from 64th to 81st st, the upper part of which only has so far been constructed. The old Schermerhorn farm extended along the river from a point near what is now 63d st, to the present 68th st, and back to 3d av. Here it faced the square known as "The Parade," which from about 1820 to 1865 lay between 3d and 4th avs and 66th and 69th sts. Directly above the river, upon the parcel purchased, still stands the old Schermerhorn farmhouse, erected in 1727, which was occupied by the late William C. Schermerhorn until 1860, when he built his well-known house on 23d st, between 5th and 6th avs. The New York Trade School, furnished and endowed by the late Col. Auchmutty, a nephew of W. C. Schermerhorn, occupies the block front on 1st av, between 67th and 68th sts.

116TH ST.—Nelson D. Stillwell has bought through Charles H. Easton & Co. a plot, 50x100, on the south side of 116th st, 125 feet west of Broadway.

8TH AV.—Mrs. C. Doelger has sold the southeost corner of 8th av and 114th st, a 5-sty flat with stores, on lot 25.5x100.

5TH AV.—Charles M. Rosenthal has bought from a Mrs. Quinn No. 1405 5th av, a 5-sty double flat, for $27,500.

81ST ST.—Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Mary E. Cox 318 West 81st st, a 5-sty dwelling, 23x70x80. The buyer will occupy the house at the expiration of the present least next May. The price was $42,850.

146TH ST.—Duff & Brown have sold for John P. Leo to Dr. Hassinger No. 435 West 146th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, 16.8x50x100.

107TH ST.—Hall J. How & Co. have sold for Louis Kahn to A. V. Donellon the plot on the north side of 107th st, 100 feet east of Columbus av, 75x100.11.

79TH ST.—Mrs. Stella Turk has sold to Gustav Goodman the 4-sty double flat 237 East 79th st.

62D ST.—E. de Forest Simmons has sold for Weil & Mayer to Dr. Isaac Adler No. 22 East 62d st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, with 2-sty dining-room extension, on lot 21.6x100.5. The price is said to be $96,000.

104TH ST.—Samuel Green has sold to Leon A. Liebeskind the plot, 50x200, on the north side of 104th st, extending to 105th st. Mr. Liebeskind gives in exchange Nos. 843 and 845 West End av, two 5-sty single flats, each on lot 22x100.

88TH ST.—Slawson & Hobbs have sold for the estate of Andrew J. Kerwin the 3½-sty high stoop dwelling No. 316 West 88th st, 20x60x100.8½.

90TH ST.—The McVickar Realty Trust Co. ahs sold for E. Ellery Anderson to a Mr. Stern 40 West 90th st, a 3-sty and basement brownstone front dwelling, on lot 20x100.8.

126TH ST.—Folsom Brothers and Frederick J. Whitton have sold for Fannie J. Stuyvesant 125 East 126th st, a 3-sty brick dwelling, on lot 12.6x99.11.

THE BRONX.

PARK AV.—The Siegel-Cooper Company hos bought from Julius C. J. Langbein the plot, 58x50, on the east side of Park av, 160 feet north of 175th st. The buyers will erect a stable on the site.

183D ST.—William Stonebridge has sold for Dr. C. A. Becker, president of the Bronx Borough Bank, the plot, 35x100, at the southeast corner of 183d st and Crotona av, to Charles Lembach, who will build a 4-sty hotel.

LEASES.

Heil & Stern have leased for Henry Corn to the Rufus Waterhouse Co. 15,000 square feet of space in the Judge Building, corner of 5th av and 16th st. The building will be extensively altered and modernized by Mr. Corn. The lease is for a term of years, at a total rental of $50,000.

Shanley Brothers secured a lease for fourteen years on the property at No. 1823 Broadway, a 4-sty building, on a lot 28.11x141.6x25x126.11, adjoining on the south the Circle Theatre, at the southwest corner of 60th st and Broadway. The Shanleys will spend upward of $25,000 on alterations for a restaurant. H.

C. Stone is the owner of record, but a third party secured the lease and turned it over to the Shanleys. They will negotiate for an extension of the term to twenty-one years.

Chas. R. Faruolo & Co. have leased for Anna M. Murray the six 5-sty tenements, Nos. 212, 214 and 216 Elizabeth st, and Nos. 8, 10 and 12 Prince st, being the s. e. cor. of Prince and Elizabeth sts, for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of $65,000. This property was leased by the same brokers to the same clients five years ago. The same brokers have leased for Frederick Lausser the 7-sty tenements Nos. 90 and 92 Roosevelt st, for a term of five years, at an aggregate rental of $16,600; also for Chas. Berger the 5-sty front and rear tenement No. 244 Cherry st, for a term of five years at an aggregate rental of $10,000; and the 5-sty tenement No. 625 E. 11th st, for F. W. Hunter, for a term of five years at a rental of $10,000; to Alfonso Costantino, for the estate of John Jacob Astor, the building No. 189 Bowery at a rental of $11,000; and for Chas. Pfisenmayer the 6-sty tenement No. 85 Christopher st, for a term of five years at an aggregate rental of $10,000.

Real Estate Notes.

William Crittenden Adams was the buyer of Nos. 34 and 36 West 31st st, reported last week.

Albert C. McMillan, of McMillan & Koch, 2753 Broadway, has been elected a member of the Real Estate Board of Brokers.

D. Sylvan Crakow was the broker in the sale of the block front on the west side of Madison av, from 107th to 108th sts, reported two weeks ago.

Frank G. Budd has entered the ranks of the real estate mortgage loan brokers after extensive experience, the last year as manager for Richard W. Elliott. Mr. Budd's offices are located at No. 15 Cortlandt st, and he has the best of facilities, with complete system of records and an efficient force of assistants. Mr. Budd will give close personal attention to all business entrusted to him. His telephone call is 3050 Cortlandt.

REAL ESTATE AUCTIONEERS TO MOVE.

The Real Estate Auctioneers' Association leased for one year from May 1, from the Singer Manufacturing Co., the first floor at No. 161 Broadway, formerly occupied by the Greenwich Fire Insurance Co. It is to be only the temporary home of the association. The building stands on a plot 22.7x136.9x irregular, in the west side of Broadway, between Liberty and Cortlandt sts. There will be room in the new quarters for about thirteen or fourteen auction stands, against twenty now in use at No. 111 Broadway. The rent for the place at No. 161 Broadway is said to be between $6,000 and $7,000. The Auctioneers' Association, it is learned, will probably return to No. 111 Broadway as soon as the new building to be erected upon the site is completed. Peter F. Meyer is negotiating with the United States Realty and Construction Co. for a room about 40x70 in the westerly end of the basement of the new building.

Material Market.

PARQUET FLOORS.

Speaking this week of the popularity of parquet floors and wood carpets in New York City, Mr. James McBride, of the Oak Flooring Company, 50 Manhattan st, said: "Any suite of apartments that leases for as much as $500 per annum must have parquet floors, at least in parlors and dining-room. Builders have learned this in renting apartments. From my experience as a mechanic, I find that the cost of production has greatly decreased, owing mainly to up-to-date machinery and a greater demand. Parquet floors can now be laid in a variety of designs, using expensive woods, such as mahogany, amaranth, walnut and satinwood, for 30c. to 60c. a square foot; but a handsome and inexpensive, as well as a most durable floor can be made of oak in a variety of designs from 20c. a square foot up. There are different grades of oak, but for wear and beauty any kind of oak is cheap when compared with birch or pine. Indiana or Ohio white oak is a scarce article in the market to-day, but there is an abundance of Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia oak, which is just as good as Indiana oak, so far as wear and beauty is concerned, the only difference being that the Southern oak has a reddish color. The Southern article can be bought to-day from $30 per M. up, according to grade, in carload lots, f. o. b., N. Y.

"Personally I have spent this last three years trying to get a reliable concern to produce ⅞-in. oak flooring, and am happy to say that I have succeeded in getting the largest firm in the Southwest to supply this long-felt want. Their dry kiln capacity is over 800,000 square feet, and they have now in stock over 10,000,000 square feet of oak in pile and ready to kiln dry for oak flooring.

"Wood carpet is largely used in the renovation of old houses, and costs from 16c. a square foot up to 30c., according to design. From my observations through the South and West, instead of wood carpet they are using a ½-in. tongue and groove oak flooring, blind nailed, which makes a handsome floor, as well as a durable one. I was shown floors that were laid ten years ago that are just as good as when laid. This style of floor for old houses I recommend, as it does away with surface nailing and can be finished as smooth and handsome as a ⅞-in. thick parquet floor, and is not more expensive than a wood carpet. It can be laid in a variety of designs. When brought to the notice of architects and house-owners I think they will prefer it, as it does away with the unsightly nail holes in wood carpet, which always more or less mars the beauty of these floors."

Mr. McBride then referred to the matter of fireproofing, saying: "Of late years the problem of producing parquet floors suitable for our latest construction in fireproof buildings that would not shrink or warp, but lie flat, has been solved. Care has been taken to keep down the cost as well as practicability of this floor, which saves the present use of wooden sleepers and underflooring, thereby saving about ½-inch in height on each floor. It is both a fireproof, air proof and dampproof, flooring. It is attached to a zinc-ribbed sheet of metal, which is anchored in the top layer of cement on iron beams. It is a very simple construction, can be used in all kinds of buildings, and can be laid in a variety of designs. It is perfectly safe to say that no ⅞-inch oak floor, if properly seasoned and kiln dried and properly laid and polished, will ever wear out in the living rooms of apartment houses or private houses, and for store and factory floors it will give twice the wear that any other floor will; this has been proven. If architects and builders could only get this oak flooring at a fair market price it would be more extensively used."

STONE.

The Thiells Stone Co. has been incorporated at Thiells, Rockland Co., N. Y., with a capital stock of $1,500.00. The incorporators are: I. J. Herbert, of Thiells; J. M. Hasbrouck and Emma A. Nevins, of Garnerville.

It is said that the old controversy with the railway companies as to the difference between marble and polished limestone still crops up occasionally. Of course a strict definition of marble is that it is a limestone, but the wiseacres who sometimes compile railway classification lists insist that materials which are one and the same thing are different, and therefore marble is placed in a superior class to polished limestone. It is related that one railway official who could not be convinced by verbal argument succumbed when he was invited to slake the limestone produced by the calcination of a marble slab. The difference between a limestone that will polish and common limestone is that the first has undergone, through the combined action of heat and pressure, just the right degree of change to develop it into crystallization and color, just as the essential difference between a brick or fireclay and the cleavable slate used for the roof is that the first-named still retains its plastic condition as it was laid down in the form of fine silt on the sea bottom, while the slate has, by geological agencies, and by actual movements of the earth's crust, become so squeezed and compressed as to have lost all semblance to its former self, and to become the cleavable article of commerce we now find it.

LIME.

A number of large lime dealers report their full capacity engaged for the coming year on advance contracts. The demand for lime here is so extensive and the supply is so correspondingly large and with so many sources to pick from, that it is becoming more and more narrowed down to a question of quality. It is not just simply lime, any more; it is the best lime. The makers understand this, and are rivaling each other in their efforts to produce a superior article, and this result is helped along by the improved processes which the chemists, engineers and inventors are continually working at and perfecting. Lime is just now a little quiet, but steady. In cargo lots, Maine common, runs per barrels at 75c.@77c.; Maine finishing, 95c.@97c.; State common, 75.c.

At Indianapolis recently a national lime manufacturers' association was formed. A. Newton, of the Union Lime Company, of Milwaukee, was elected President; Peter Martin, Huntington, Ind., Vice-President; E. H. Defebaugh, Louisville, Ky., Secretary; Directors, among others, Thos. D. Cone, New York City.

On the following day, at the same place, the Interstate Builders' Supply Association met in annual session. The members from New York State who were present were: Bertram L. Swett, Atlas Portland Cement Co., New York; Ralph Peverley, Commercial Wood and Cement Co., New York; W. S. Humbert, Buffalo; E. Thiele, New York.

BRICK.

The labor difficulty at Haverstraw between the manufacturers and their bargemen has not yet been fully settled; a number of boats are yet lying there unloaded, while the manufacturers who granted the demands of the men are having their brick promptly dispatched. From the point of view of the laborers, the case stands like this, as would seem from an article in the Haverstraw "Times": "For the past year or so there had been dissatisfaction among the men who follow the river for a living; part was the fault of the boat-owners and part was due to the efforts of the brick handlers' organization of New York City to control the unloading of the boats. The men on the barges get about $35 per month, and as each barge when full-handed carries a crew of five men, and makes in fairly busy times two trips per month, the Haverstraw men say it would be to the manufacturers' interest to have full crews, as when this is not done the brick handlers unload the barges and get 40 cents per M. It can be seen that there is quite a saving in having full crews. In addition to this, when the boats are single-handed the brick handlers will not help wind the boat or do any of the other work, which must be paid for by the owner. Representatives of the handlers' unions were in Haverstraw trying to induce the owners of the boats to send them single-handed to New York. This aroused the men, and as a result meetings were held and the 'Hudson River and Haverstraw Bay Protective Association' was formed. They say they have no quarrel with the manufacturers, and neither do they desire one, but are banding together for self-protection. The men at work on the yards do not work more than six months during recent years, and say they had ought to be given the preference when men to work on the boats are needed."

Among the demands made by the men are that all barges shall go five-handed, and when an extra man is put stowing he shall be paid at the rate of 2 cents per M., and that outside boats when being stowed by local men, shall be paid at the rate of 25 cents per M., to be divided among the men employed in stowing the brick on the boat. From what can be learned, it is believed that nearly every man who is engaged upon brick barges has joined the organization.

Navigation to Haverstraw having been resumed, the arrivals in this market have been large; otherwise the increased charges of handling and manufacturing, as the manufacturers claim, would have warranted a higher schedule of values than ruled last week; but no changes are necessary in the list.

The Hackensack River Brick Co. has been incorporated at Hackensack, N. J., with a capital stock of $200,000. The incorporators are: David St. John, Samuel Taylor and James W. Gillies, all of Hackensack, N. J.

PAVING MATERIAL.

A new sort of pavement, called bituminous macadam, is being tried at Yonkers, which has many miles of asphalt and other kinds of first-class roads. Broken stone is coated with bituminous cement and rolled, and so on in layers of different sizes, till the top dressing exactly resembles a fine macadam pavement. This presents a gritty surface on which the slipping of horses or rubber wheels is impossible. The bituminous cement so thoroughly repels water, which is so generally destructive to the life of other pavements, that none can enter. It becomes practically a monolithic pavement. It is expected that next spring part of 7th av, New York City, will be laid with this bituminous pavement, and New York will then have a chance to give it a test and judge of its merits.

Building News.

MERCANTILE.

BROADWAY.—Rossiter & Wright, No. 95 Liberty st, are drawing the plans for a 12-sty steel frame store and loft building to be erected at No. 658 Broadway, southeast corner of Bond st, on a lot, 29x130, for the Rossiter trustees.

APARTMENTS, FLATS AND TENEMENTS.

112TH ST.—Israels & Harder, No. 31 West 31st st, are drawing plans for a 6-sty fireproof apartment house, to be built on a plot 87.6x100.11, on the north side of 112th st, 187 feet west of Broadway, for Michael Tully.

111TH ST.—Gunn & Grant, No. 950 Amsterdam av, will erect a 6-sty apartment house, 100x87.11, to cost $175,000, on the north side of 111th st, 400 feet east of Broadway, from plans by Schwartz & Gross, No. 160 5th av.

18TH ST.—Bernstein & Bernstein, No. 111 Broadway, are drawing plans for a 6-sty tenement, 40x79, to be erected at Nos. 317 and 319 East 18th st, for Louis Cohen, Nos. 1 and 3 Union Square.

ESSEX ST.—Horenburger & Straub, No. 122 Bowery, are drawing plans for a 6-sty tenement, 43.8x74.7, to be erected at Nos. 77-79 Essex st, for Mandel & Maran, No. 235 Henry st.

6TH ST.—William Schulman, No. 9½ Essex st, will erect a 6-sty tenement, 45x84, costing $40,000, at Nos. 202 and 204 6th st; Bernstein & Bernstein, No. 111 Broadway, are the architects.

ST. MARKS PL.—Bernstein & Bernstein, No. 111 Broadway, are drawing the plans for a 6-sty tenement, to be erected for I. Lippman, No. 71 Elm st, at Nos. 110 and 112 St. Marks pl.

2D ST.—Mandel & Maran, No. 235 Henry st, will erect a 6-sty tenement, 40.5x87, at Nos. 130 and 132 2d st, from plans by Horenburger & Straub, No. 122 Bowery.

BROOME ST.—Morris Stolar will erect a 6-sty tenement at Nos. 23 and 28 Broome st, on a plot 50x75. Abram Bachrach makes him a building loan of $20,000.

2D ST.—Mandel & Maren will erect a 6-sty flat at Nos. 190 and 192 2d st, a plot 48x106. Mandelbaum & Lewine make them a building loan of $20,000.

BOULEVARD LAFAYETTE.—Block front, from 161st to 162d sts; H. Raabe & Sons, who control this large plot of land on Washington Heights, only three blocks from station of the subway, will improve same with two 6-sty elevator apartment houses, each 105x250 ft. Both houses will give accommodations for about 240 families. A special feature of these houses will be all large, light, outside rooms. W. H. Boylan, No. 60 Liberty st, will be the architect.

DWELLINGS.

50TH ST.—Clinton & Russell, No. 32 Nassau st, will draw plans for a private residence for William Barclay Parsons, No. 22 William st, Chief Engineer of the Rapid Transit Commission, to be erected on a plot 25x100.5, at No. 35 East 50th st, north side, 175 feet west of Park av.

ALTERATIONS.

The Title Insurance Co. of N. Y., who have just purchased No. 203 Montague st, and 162 Pierrepont st, Brooklyn, will remodel both buildings and build an addition between both, thereby connecting them.

39TH ST.—George Brodsky, importer, No. 200 West 43d st, will make extensive alterations for business purposes to the 4-sty dwelling, 22x98.9, at No. 20 West 39th st.

WILLIAM ST.—Harney & Purdy, No. 35 Nassau st, are preparing plans for extensive alterations to No. 60 William st, a 5-sty brick building, on plot 30x30. The building will be occupied by the owners, Commercial Union Assurance Co., northeast corner of Pine and William sts.

ESTIMATES RECEIVABLE.

Sealed bids will be received by the Superintendent of School Buildings at the office of the Department of Education, Park av and 59th st, until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, Feb. 24: Manhattan—Extending iron stairs to fifth story and making new openings to streets at Public School 20, at Rivington, Forsyth and Eldridge sts; for forming new classrooms on fifth story at Public School 168, 104th and 105th sts, between 1st and 2d avs; also at Public School 172, 108th and 109th sts, east of 2d av. Bronx—Installing heating and ventilating apparatus for new Public School 145, northerly side of 165th st, between Tinton and Union avs. Brooklyn—For the general construction of addition to and alteration in Public School 84, south side of Glenmore, between Stone and Watkins avs. For full particulars see page 309.

FORDHAM, N. Y.—John E. Kerby and Halsey C. De Baud, No. 1432 Broadway, will have the plans for the new 4-sty building for St. Johns College, at Fordham, N. Y., completed next week, when they will be submitted for estimates.

Ludlow & Valentine, No. 100 Broadway, are receiving estimates for the loft building, 29.6x75, to be erected at No. 83 Commerce st, Newark, N. J., for W. W. Adams.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

The Foundation Construction Co. has been awarded the contract for the foundations for the new Royal Baking Powder Co.'s building, corner William and Fulton sts. Bruce Price is the architect, and the Remington Construction Co., No. 137 Broadway, are the general contractors. The building will be carried on spread foundations, the loads supported on cantilever girders.

The Board of Education has awarded the contract for supplying glass in the various Manhattan schools to Joseph Elias, at $2,849; for installing electric light wiring in No. 145, Bronx, to C. E. Hewitt & Co., at $7,424.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Contracts for work on the College of the City of New York, to be located on the four blocks bounded by Amsterdam and St. Nicholas avs and 138th and 140th sts, have been awarded as follows: Terra cotta work, consisting of ornamentation on the different buildings, to the Perth Amboy Terra Cotta Co., No. 160 5th av, for $246,300; excavation and foundation work, V. J. Heddon & Sons Co., No. 1 Madison av, for $141,424. George B. Post, No. 33 East 17th st, is the architect.

BROADWAY.—William Henderson, builder, No. 1123 Broadway, is making the 3-sty addition and extensive alterations to the courts and interiors of the apartment houses on Broadway, occupying the block from 108th to 109th sts. Janes & Leo, No. 124 West 45th st, are the architects.

BROADWAY.—The Warner Elevator Manufacturing Company, Park Row Building, has been awarded the contract for passenger and freight elevators for the 6-sty fireproof building at No. 51 Broadway, to be occupied by the Wells-Fargo Express Co. Benjamin W. Morris, Jr., No. 24 East 23d st, is the architect.

45TH ST.—Horgan & Slattery, No. 1 Madison av, will receive estimates during the coming week for the extensive alterations and additions to be made at No. 211 East 45th st for the Mohican Club, of the 22d Assembly District. A gymnasium will be included in the improvements.

BROOKLYN.

The large 4-sty and basement building on Flatbush av that is occupied by the firm of Journeay & Burnham was to-day sold by Jesse C. Woodhull, the owner and builder, to a New York capitalist, for $450,000 cash. Mr. Woodhull bought the property in 1891 and built the present structure upon it for the use of the present tenants. The building has a frontage on Flatbush av of 175 feet and extends through to Livingston st.

The Title Insurance Company of New York has bought the 4-sty brownstone building it occupies at 203 Montague st, and the 3-sty brick building in the rear, at 162 Pierrepont st, from the Long Island Loan and Trust Co. John F. James & Sons, brokers, negotiated the transaction. The price is in the neighborhood of $125,000. Each building is on a lot 25x100. The new owners will remodel the building and occupy most of it; the rest will be made into offices and rented. There is an open space of about 20 feet between the two buildings which will be built upon, thereby joining them into one structure.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AVE. A.—The Rockefeller Medical Institute will erect a new laboratory on that portion of the old Schermerhorn farm, bounded by 64th and 68th sts. and Ave. A and the East River. It is to be the gift of John D. Rockefeller. Dr. L. Emmett Holt, No. 14 West 55th st, is the secretary of the Institute. Title to the property has not yet been acquired.

TRENTON. N. J.—J. B. McElfatrick & Son, No. 1402 Broadway, are preparing plans for a brick and stone theatre to be built on a plot, 65.11x164.9, on North Warren st, Trenton, N. J., for the Taylor Opera Co. The new building will be called the Trenton Theatre, and will contain stores and offices.

60TH ST.—McKim, Mead & White, No. 160 5th av, have been selected as the architects for the new building to be erected by the Harmonie Club, on the south side of 60th st, 125 feet east of 5th av. The new building will cost about $400,000; it will be seven stories high, three floors being devoted to apartments.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Plans have been drawn for a babies' hospital and laboratory to be built in connection with the proposed new Harvard Medical School, for Harvard University. The estimated cost is $136,000. It is the gift of the class of 1901, and will be the most complete of its kind in this country.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Benjamin W. Morris, Jr., No. 24 East 23d st, is preparing plans for alterations and additions to Trinity Church, Princeton, N. J.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Benjamin W. Morris, Jr., No. 24 East 23d st, is preparing plans for a new 4-sty stone dormitory for Princeton University. It is the gift of the class of '79.

BROADWAY.—Shanley Bros., No. 1212 Broadway, will make extensive alterations to No. 1823 Broadway, a 4-sty building, 28.11x141.6x25x126.11, adjoining the Circle Theatre, at the southwest corner of 60th st and Broadway. The building will be used as a restaurant.

40TH ST.—The Engineers' Club, No. 374 5th av, will erect a new clubhouse at Nos. 32-34 West 40th st, a plot 50x98.9, facing Bryant Park and the new Public Library site. The club's lease of its present quarters has yet four years to run. John C. Kafer, No. 247 5th av, is president of the club, and the secretary, Charles W. Baker, No. 220 Broadway.

MANHATTAN.—The Technology Club of New York City will erect a clubhouse, the site of which will be located between 23d and 42d sts, and between Madison and 6th avs. Among the members are Alexander Rice McKim, of McKim, Mead & White, No. 160 5th av; Walter La Farge, No. 5 Beekman st; and Henry D. Hibbard, No. 253 Broadway.

146TH ST.—The Brownson Catholic Club, No. 545 East 142d st, will erect a new clubhouse on the south side of 146th st, 175 feet west of 3d av. Pending the completion of the building, the club will occupy No. 278 Alexander av. The building committee consists of John H. Bergen, chairman, No. 667 East 142d st; George A. O'Rourke, secretary, No. 35 Nassau st; James Joyce, John M. Haffen, William T. Powers and Peter J. Cooney.

EAST RIVER BRIDGE.—The Pennsylvania Co. will build a bridge and viaduct two miles long, from Port Morris, N. Y. City, to Long Island. It will stretch to Randall's Island from Port Morris, then to Ward's Island, and across Hell Gate to Long Island at Astoria. The span across Hell Gate will be 840 feet, and the bridge will be 135 feet above tide water. It will be double-tracked. The steel will be provided through the United States Steel Corporation at a cost of $3,250,000. Col. Joseph U. Crawford, Chief Engineer of the branch lines of the Pennsylvania Co., is authority for the statement that details for the work have practically been completed.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Board of Commissioners of the Soldiers' Home will erect a new building at a cost of $43,000, and an extension to the present hospital building to cost $220,000, and a mess hall and barracks to cost $350,000. This home has no connection with the National Soldiers' Home. It is located near Washington, and its several hundred acres of ground around its buildings form an attractive park open to the public.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

J. Frank Fields, representing New York parties, is figuring on erecting a cement plant near Hancock, Md.

Michael J. Bove, a contractor, of No. 83 Mulberry st, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $8,339 and no assets.

John E. Kerby and Halsey C. De Baud, associate architects, No. 1432 Broadway, will move to their new offices in the Knox Building, No. 452 5th av, during the coming week.

A call has been issued for a meeting of plaster manufacturers, at Cleveland, February 17, to form a national plaster manufacturers' association.

James J. Hill is said to have purchased 12,000 tons of Belgium cement for constructing a tunnel which the Great Northern Railway is building at Seattle, Wash.

Patrick K. Lantry, a carpenter, of No. 707 Lexington av, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $17,460 and no assets. The debts were contracted from 1898 to 1902.

The plans for the Bronx Carnegie Library, at the northeast corner of Alexander av and 140th st, show a building 30 feet wide, 80 feet deep, three stories in height, and with facades of brick and limestone. The plans for the library were filed by the architects, Babb, Cook & Willard, No. 3 West 29th st. The cost will be $75,000.

Mr. Charles D. Seeberger, the originator of the Escalator system, sailed for Europe on the "Oceanic" on February 11th. Mr. Seeberger went abroad to complete arrangements for installing Escalators in the stations of the new London Underground Railroad, the preliminary negotiations having been conducted by the Waygood-Otis Company of that city.

H. Raabe & Son, with offices and plant at Nos. 319 to 323 West 64th st, make a specialty of metal-covered woodwork for buildings, including fireproof doors and dumb-waiters; these goods are made in the most substantial manner, and have won favor with many architects and builders. Further information and estimates will be cheerfully furnished on application.

The building trades have suffered a loss by the death, on Tuesday, of William H. Mundell, at his home, 368 Carleton av, Brooklyn. Born in the year 1844, in the borough where he died, Mr. Mundell began business as an architect in 1865. Among the buildings he designed are the Hall of Records, Kings County Almshouse, and the armories of the Fourteenth, Twenty-third and Forty-seventh Regiments. He also designed the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church in Washington.

An interest in the Kirby Lumber Co., the greatest lumber concern in the country, has been sold by John H. Kirby to B. F. Yoakum, James Campbell and H. C. Pierce, who control the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, which is now expected to extend its system from Paris, Tex., to the Gulf at Sabine Pass. At present the St. Louis & San Francisco has no outlet to the Gulf, but has a traffic arrangement with the Santa Fe. The lumber company has 18 of the biggest mills in the Southwest, and its annual output represents 800,000 tons in freight. The deal was engineered here in New York.

In the list of contractors for the Blair Building, corner of Broad st and Exchange place, illustrated in our last issue, mention was inadvertently omitted of the name of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Co., of 13 Park row, contractors for the caissons and water-tight cellar wall, very important parts of the work. The caissons, the largest ever put down in New York, are 19 in number, 11 being square and 8 round. The wall is a model of solidity and strength. The foundations for the new Stock Exchange, which is nearby the Blair Building, were also laid by the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Co.

The steel construction is formed of two Z-bars attached to opposite sides of the opening, which support the 60-degree angles. Across these angles are laid the steel strips, and the special prisms are then placed in position as shown in cut. This leaves a trough on each side of the prisms, which is filled with concrete, forming a smooth surface with the top of the glasses.

This vault light is furnished either with or without the Universal Safety Tread; strips of the safety tread placed between the glasses, make a secure and safe footing on inclined sidewalks, or where there is heavy traffic. In bad weather most vault lights afford a very insecure and dangerous footing; but by use of the safety tread, this objectionable feature is eliminated.

They are furnished and set by the New Jersey Foundry and Machine Co., 9 to 15 Murray st, New York.

"Newhall" Vault Light (Braun's Patent).—With this construction any size or shape of opening can be covered without the expense and delay of making special castings. It embodies all the necessary requirements to perfect vault lighting, viz.: strength to sustain heavy loads, greatest possible lighting surface, and neatness in appearance.

A Big Brick Exhibit.

MANUFACTURERS TO HAVE ONE AT ST. LOUIS FAIR—TO INCLUDE THE CLAY ARTS AND CERAMIC WORK.

At the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904, for the first time in the history of the clay industry in this country, the National Brick Manufacturers' Association will have an exhibition of products of the clay industry and the ceramic arts, which will be national in scope and character.

This was resolved upon officially at the convention of the National Brick Manufacturers' Association, at Boston, after Prof. H. A. Wheeler, of St. Louis, had read the report of the committee which had been appointed to consider the matter. Prof. Wheeler showed plans, drawn by a St. Louis architect, which provide for the occupation of 20,000 square feet of floor space in the Mines and Mining building. All clay products, from the common brick to finest terra cotta and elaborate vases, will be given a place in the exhibition; the clay materials will be shown in the raw, the rough and the most finished forms. Prof. Holmes, of Washington, will have charge of the exhibition. The association adopted a resolution appropriating $300 for the use of the committee which is preparing the exhibition, and it is understood that further sums will be appropriated when needed.

President George M. Fiske, of Boston, in his annual address, said: "The annual value of manufactures of brick and clay in the United States is now $120,600,000. Nearly half of this product is structural clay and paving bricks; there has been an increase of nearly, if not quite, 100 per cent. in the last ten years, and the outlook for the future is very bright. The special issue in the coal strike, and, indeed, in the present attitude of capital toward labor, is that of the recognition of organized labor by organized capital. What is capital that it should refuse to enter into negotiations with labor? Capital is produced by labor, and is absolutely dependent upon it for its value. It is said that labor organizations are so irresponsible, so unreasonable and exacting that it is of no use to deal with them. There is, indeed, much truth in this, but is it not because there has been such a feeling of inherent enmity between the two great forces? I fully believe that when friendly relations have once been established between these two great powers, labor will prove itself as unselfish and patriotic as capital. It is not labor which is to-day imposing a most appalling domestic, industrial burden upon this land. The price of coal to-day will average fully $3 per ton above normal prices; a careful estimate of the annual coal consumption for industrial purposes alone in New England is 10,000,000 tons; that means $30,000,000 per year extra tax upon the industries of New England, a tax that kills! I repeat this tax is being imposed to-day, not by labor, but by capital."

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, R. G. Eisenhearst; first vice-president, John E. Parry, Boston; second vice-president, W. S. Purington, Chicago; third vice-president, G. J. H. Schellenburg, St. Paul; secretary, T. A. Randall, Indianapolis; treasurer, J. W. Sibley, Chattanooga.

After their first business session the delegates went to Hotel Brunswick for their annual dinner, and had as their special guests Lieutenant-Governor Guild, William H. Sayward, secretary of the Master Builders' Association, and Lafayette G. Blair of Boston. More than three hundred persons were present. The lieutenant-governor amused them in his speech with a play on the word "brick," which the audience fully appreciated, and then proceeded to enlighten them about the commercial and industrial significance of Boston and Massachusetts.

The convention found it impossible to keep pace with its program, and many papers were omitted. "Drying Brick" was the subject of Mr. B. P. Hollett of Arcadia, Ind., who said: "The old way of drying brick up to about 1871 was to depend on the sun and the wind. When natural gas was discovered, I erected a 'hot yard' which was an improvement. This was constructed by means of several tunnels, placed from 12 to 14 inches apart and made of common drain tile and fire brick. But later, after investigation, the steam dryer was found to be the only natural method. In this way bricks can be dried in from 36 to 48 hours, regardless of the weather."

Mr. R. Clipston Sturgis spoke on "The Sizes of Brick," saying: "I am not going to take up the old contention that brick should be of a uniform size, but I wish to speak of a brick of a standard proportion. I traced the movement from the serviceable bond of years ago to the modern face brick, which was introduced 30 or 40 years ago and has proved to be inadequate. I wish to get a brick made here of proper proportion to itself so that the heads and the stretcher will offer a presentable appearance; much from an artistic point of view has been lost by this lack. Let me also say that, if we are ever to do away with the cheap wooden houses which encumber our landscapes, it will be because you brick manufacturers put on the market a cheaper brick."

Among the manufacturers of this section in attendance were: C. Trommer, C. A. Bloomfield, S. E. Frank, W. H. Nesbit, Paul Pfotenhauer, J. A. Ridgway, I. W. Pike, R. C. Penfield, Otto C. Piessner, M. C. Black, Andrew M. Ayers, G. W. Twichell, James G. Beemer, Thos. Kieran, of New York City; William Lahey, Joseph A. Lahey, Newburgh; Frank E. Wiles, Grassy Point; James B. Crowell, Wallkill, N. Y.; E. E. Gorton, Croton; Edwin Brockway, Brockway, N. Y.; J. Terry, Rondout.

Building Trades Club.

Music, a reception and dinner were enjoyed by the members of the Building Trades' Club at their annual election and meeting on Monday, Feb. 9th, in the Townsend Building. The election occurred between 1 and 5 o'clock, the polls being opened for the reception of ballots during those hours. About one hundred members sat down to the annual dinner at 6 o'clock. President Francis W. Weeks had on his right hand Secretary-Treasurer Wm. K. Fertig, Vice-Presidents Eidlitz and Frederick M. Crossett; on his left, Vice-Presidents Conover, Leonard K. Prince and Ronald Taylor. A vaudeville programme greatly enlivened the feast. After the dinner had been satisfactorily disposed of President Weeks, in announcing that the annual meeting was in order, gave a resume of the affairs of the association of the last year, the progress that had been made in legislative work in behalf of the building trades, and the results which the association had achieved in its intercourse with builders and mechanics here in New York.

The Secretary announced the result of the election as follows: President, Warren A. Conover; Vice-President, Charles L. Eidlitz; Second Vice-President, Leonard K. Prince; Secretary-Treasurer, Wm. K. Fertig; Managers for three years, Vincent C. King, Geo. S. Holmes, Henry W. Miller, W. T. Ritch and James Curran; Manager for one year, F. B. Tuthill.

The report of Secretary-Treasurer Fertig was an exceptionally satisfactory document; it showed a balance of $744 on hand, and a profit from house sales for the first time in the history of the club. Addresses were delivered by President Conover, Vice-President Eidlitz, Secretary Fertig and Ronald Taylor. The occasion was a particularly pleasant one.

Mosaic Work.

New methods of building have given fresh impetus to the mosaic art in New York. Besides, mosaic work is popular, not only for its fireproof quality, but also because of its beauty. Walls and ceilings are frequently composed of what is known as glass mosaic, which comes in the more delicate tints, and is necessarily very expensive. This is particularly appropriate for designs in flowers or figures, and has, when finished, a much more glossy surface. In the glass mosaic is included the gold and silver, which is made in Venice by a secret process which is never divulged to outsiders, but is handed down from father to son as a heritage. Whatever the coloring process is, the cubes of stone, some black and some red, have a glass finish upon which is placed a substance resembling gold leaf, and over this again is placed another thickness of glass so thin as to appear to be almost invisible. The result is a highly-finished surface of a deep Roman gold tint. Some of the delicate colorings of mosaic stones are also made by secret processes, and, with the silver, can be obtained only by importation.

To make a design in mosaic, the figure pattern must first be outlined in pencil and tinted with water colors. A duplicate design, in pencil only, is then placed on the bench at which the workman stands, and over the paper is poured liquid gum arabic. Now begins the work, and no man who is color-blind need ever attempt to learn to do mosaic work. One by one the tiny cubes are selected, the colored pattern being the guide, and placed on the gummed paper, to which they adhere, the smooth side downward. It seems an endless task, but at last it is completed, and the workman sees the whole pattern in its proper colors before him, but with rough side upward.

Of course, the surface is uneven, and between the cubes or otherwise-shaped stones are ugly crevices. But now a cement prepared for this special purpose is poured over the whole piece of work, melting down between the stones and filling every crack and uneven spot. This is now rolled, and when partly dry turned over and the paper on the reverse side soaked off, leaving the smooth surface upward. This surface is also rolled, and later polished, when the design is seen in all its smooth and shining beauty. In making a cheaper mosaic for flooring without designs, the paper is gummed and the crushed stone and odd bits poured on promiscuously and without aim at order. This is then rolled and finished the same as the design work.

Suit Over a Sunken Brick Barge.

When, on August 17th last, at midnight, the barge "Lester," loaded with Hudson River brick, sprang a leak, and sank at the foot of West 55th st, the Home Insurance Company withheld the insurance money, and the case is now awaiting the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. An action was brought to recover the insurance money, and was tried before Justice Chester and a jury in Kingston on April 30. The jury rendered a verdict of $6,707.97, and an appeal was taken.

The barge was constructed by Edward Reilly at Rondout in July, 1899, and was in commission but thirteen months when the accident occurred. Reilly used the boat but a short time, and then sold her to Henry Gillen, who used her for carrying brick cargoes. In December, 1899, the boat was altered. Before that time Reilly took out a policy for $7,000. When the alterations were made, Gillen notified the company, and the policy insured him payable to the account of Edward Reilly. The defendant refused to pay the insurance on the ground that the barge did not sink through the perils of the harbor, that ordinary skill and care was not used in loading and handling the barge, that the proper proofs of loss were not furnished, and the barge sank through inherent defects of construction and was not seaworthy. Brick manufacturers and shippers are awaiting the decision with much interest.

Builders as Lumber Dealers.

The builders in a certain town have taken steps to set up a retail lumber yard of their own, as they say they have become tired of paying exorbitant prices. In many cities and towns carpenters find that it works well to have a lumber yard in connection with their shop or planing mill, and in Westchester County there is an association of builders with dealers in building material; but this movement to which allusion is made is a new branch from the tree.

The builders claim that as they all must pay the same prices to the dealers now in control, their expenses will be no different in this respect when they buy from their own yard; but they will then have the advantage of getting material at wholesale rates, and perhaps occasionally striking a bargain. Of course, this is supposing that all goes well.

A lumberman whose attention was called to the decision, viewed the subject in quite another light: "Let them get their yard well under way and they will learn sundry things," he said. "The lesson probably will be a costly one, but there are some people who cannot learn except by experience. As they are not lumbermen, though more or less familiar with lumber, they will have to learn about sources of supply, how to chase up delinquent cars, how to unravel the intricacies of freight rates and rebates, how to get rid of 10,000 feet of lumber that they had to take in order to get the 1,000 feet that they had to have, and many other problems of like nature. They will probably hire a manager, and that manager will have to be paid, and they will discover that running expenses and leakage will be fully as large as the personal salary and modest profit of the lumber dealers whom they are trying to supersede."

The Possibilities of Furnace Slag.

We have discussed heretofore the manufacture of slag cement, but the utilization of iron and steel slag, in a more general sense, is discussed in "Mineral Resources of the United States," of the United States Geological Survey, by Mr. Edwin C. Eckel, who says that, although the greater portion of the slag annually produced by iron and steel works is not available, a great deal of slag is used in the manufacture of cement and of slag brick, as a fertilizer, and in the form of mineral wool; also, to a less extent in the manufacture of paint stock, alum and glass, and a considerable quantity is disposed of less profitably as road material, railroad ballast, and in land reclamation.

CEMENT THE MOST IMPORTANT USE OF SLAG.

The most important of these uses of slag is in the manufacture of structural materials, especially in the manufacture of hydraulic cements. Slag cement is produced by pulverizing, without calcination, a mixture of granulated basic blast-furnace slag and slaked lime. This product, although really a pozzuolanic cement, is usually marketed as "Portland cement," in spite of differing from true Portland cement in manufacture, composition and properties. Six or eight plants are at present engaged in manufacturing slag cement in the United States, the production for 1901 being 272,689 barrels. As slags cooled slowly are only feebly hydraulic, the slag used in the manufacture of slag cement must be cooled as suddenly as possible. This is done by bringing the slag, as it issues from the furnace, in contact with a jet of cold water. This granulates the slag, renders it strongly hydraulic, and removes most of the sulphur. True Portland cements can be made from mixtures of which one element is blast-furnace slag, in which case the slag is ground, intimately mixed with powdered limestone, and the mixture then calcined and reground. Two plants are engaged in the manufacture of Portland cement from slag and limestone in the United States. In England blast-furnace slag has been somewhat largely employed as an adulterant of Portland cement.

THE MANUFACTURE OF SLAG BRICK.

Slag run into moulds, on issuing from the furnace, furnishes blocks which have been used for paving, notably in Philadelphia. These slag blocks are very durable, but objectionable because of their slipperiness, which, in English practice, has been overcome by the form of the mold used.

The manufacture of slag brick can hardly be considered as being more than a specialized phase of the manufacture of slag cement. On issuing from the brick machine the bricks are placed on racks to dry, which takes from six to ten days, at the end of which time the bricks are ready for use. Slag bricks are light in color; they weigh less than clay bricks of equal size, require less mortar in laying up, and are equal to clay bricks in crushing strength.

Over half the material marketed as "mineral wool" or "silicate cotton," is derived from slag, the remainder being manufactured from natural rocks of several different types. During 1901 about 3,500 tons of mineral wool were made from slags in the United States. The most important property of slag wool from a commercial point of view is that it is a very poor conductor of heat, which property renders it valuable for all uses for which a non-conductor is desirable, as steam pipe coverings, safe linings, etc.

Prevention of Rust in Steel.

From recent experiments conducted by Prof. Charles L. Norton at the newly-established Insurance Engineering Experiment Station in Boston, to determine means of preventing the corrosion of steel frames used in building construction, the following conclusions have been reached: First, Neat Portland cement, even in thin layers, is an effective preventive of rusting. Second, concretes, to be effective in preventing rust, must be dense and without voids or cracks. They should be mixed quite wet where applied to the metal. Third, the corrosion found in cinder concrete is mainly due to the iron oxide, or rust, in the cinders and not to the sulphur. Fourth, cinder concrete, if free from voids and well-rammed when wet, is about as effective as stone concrete in protecting steel. Fifth, it is of the utmost importance that the steel be clean when bedded in concrete. Scraping, pickling, a sand blast and lime should be used, if necessary, to have the metal clean when built into a wall.

Modern Maple Flooring.

Maple flooring as manufactured to-day is fast winning its way into popularity, as is demonstrated by the fact that the industry in the last few years has increased from an infant to one of proportions. In 1893 there was consumed 40,000,000 feet; in 1902 it increased to 220,000,00 feet, an increase of 550 per cent. in nine years. This increase has been made upon the merits of maple, not only as being long lasting wood, but also on account of its present modern manufacture, polished and end-matched as it is. It is extensively used from New York to California and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and is also largely exported to England, Ireland, France, Germany and Canada.

Maple that enters into the manufacture of flooring is known as sugar or rock maple, and grows in, comparatively, a very limited territory, principally in the northern portion of the lower peninsula of Michigan, the upper peninsula of Michigan, and the northern part of Wisconsin. While it would seen that, with the industry growing as fast as the maple flooring industry is and with the territory in which maple grows so limited, it would no more than get into general use before it could not be had, yet there is enough standing maple in the limited territory mentioned to furnish floors upon the 1902 basis for at least twenty-five years, as forests where maple is found are almost exclusively maple, with but a small per cent. of other woods.

—Nearly ten thousand mechanics are affiliated in a central body controlling the building trades of Westchester County, and they move with greater unanimity than elsewhere is the rule. Though dispersed among eighty towns, they all intend to strike together in the spring for higher wages, some for fifty cents a day, others for more. The employers have been notified of what is going to be done to them, on the first of April, if they do not submit. The latter are also banded together, but thus far they have not determined whether or not to accede. A weird feature is contributed by the barbers, who also intend to join the strike; and yet other trades may seize the chance.

.—Trade unions tolerate many proceedings that other people would not, but the marble cutters' union won't stand for rushing the growler in opposition to an employer's wishes. Because the superintendent of the City Hall work laid off a foreman on Monday for permitting too much drinking, the marble cutters quit; but after meditating a day or two they returned.
